HEARING SCREENING & HEARING AID MAINTENANCE Severe hearing loss affects only thirty percent of the people over the age of 65, but some hearing loss affects a great number of older people. High pitched sounds are the first affected. Asking he speaker to lower the pitch of the voice can often overcome this problem and is more effective than speaking louder, which usually makes the speaker's voice higher. Many older people complain that people mumble when they are talking, when a speaker is not facing the listener, speaks rapidly, or does not ennunciate clearly, the problems are magnified. Free hearing screenings and hearing aid maintenance will be available for Morton Grove senior citizens from 10 to noon on Thursday, Jan. 21 in the Prairie View Community Center. No appointments are necessary.

AMONG FRIENDS

"We need old friends to help us grow old, new friends to help us stay young." Maureen Sheehy, M.A., will discuss friendships and why some last and others do not. This program is part of Oakton Community College's "Passages Through Life" lecture series offered at 1 p.m. every Tuesday at Oakton's Skokie campus, 7701 Lincoln ave. in room 115. "Among Friends" will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 26, a $1 donation for the program will be asked at the door.

TRANSPORTATION VOLUNTEERS NEEDED The Morton Grove Village Hall Senior Center needs volunteers in three different transportation areas to assist their Morton Grove neighbors. First, the Meals-On-Wheels program which delivers hot meals to shut-ins, needs both regular and substitute drivers. Drivers are asked to invest about an hour at noon-time one day a week. Second, the Rules of the Road Review Course needs additional instructors to teach the Course designed to assist senior citizens in successfully completing their written drivers license exam. Instructors are trained by the Secretary of State's Office and co-lead a 21/2 hour class four times a year. Finally, volunteers are also needed to aid with transportation of individuals who need special medical therapy at hospitals and other medical centers. For those interested in any of these areas, please call the Morton Grove Senior Hot Line

INCOME TAX TIME

Morton Grove residents who are age 55 and over and have problems "adding it up" at the end of the year, can receive free help in filing their 1987 State and Federal tax returns from the Tax Counselors for the Elderly. Appointments from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. any Monday, Wednesday or Friday starting February 8 can be made by calling the Senior Hot Line.

SNOW SHOVELING

Teen and young adult snow shovelers are now available for senior citizens who will be needing their sidewalks and driveways cleared of snow. For more information about finding a neighborhood shoveler, call the Morton Grove Village Hall at

SOCIAL SECURITY ELIGIBILITY

Eligibility for Social Security retirement benefits is based on two factors: age and "quarters of coverage." Full benefits are payable when an individual reaches the age of 65; or, a person retiring at 62 may begin receiving permanently reduced benefits. "Quarters of coverage" are credited at the rate of four for every year worked with certain basic earnings. A general rule of thumb is that between nine and ten credited years of work are required to become eligible for retirement benefits. Disability payments may be made to a worker under 65 who suffers from a severel physical or mental condition which prevents him or her from working and is expected to continue for at least twelve months. Medical proof is required, and there is a five-month waiting period before benefits may be paid.

Dependents of the retired worker may also receive benefits. The wife or husband of a retired worker may receive benefits of up to fifty percent of the retired worker's primary insurance amount. Dependent children (and grandchildren) under age 18 may receive benefits of up to fifty percent of the worker's benefit. Divorced spouses who have been divorced at least two years may receive benefits at age 62 if the former spouse is eligible for Social Security. Widows, widowers and surviving divorced spouses can receive benefits equal to those to which the retired or disabled worker has been entitled.

For additional information about these and other senior services, call Ralph Birmingham at the Morton Grove Senior Hot Line, weekdays from 9 a.m. to noon at 470-5223, or Bud Swanson, Director of Senior Citizens Services at the Village Hall, 965-4100,

HUMIDITY AND COMFORT LEVEL

Humidity is the measure of the moisture content of the ambient air. The moisture content of the air controls our sense of personal comfort. The temperature of our bodies is controlled by the amount of moisture evaporated through the skin pores. The evaporation process abstracts heat from our bodies and thus keeps the temperature constant. The lower the humidity. the more moisture is evaporated and the colder we will feel. Conversely, the higher the humidity, the less moisture will be evaporated and the warmer we will feel.

Here are three examples of varying comfort levels at 75°F. On a nice, sunny, spring day in the open air, we will feel quite comfortable. On the other hand, in an air conditioned room or in a heated room in winter, many will complain of feeling cold, shiver and put on sweaters to keep warm.

These examples are all explained by the moisture levels of the ambient air. In the open air on the spring day, our bodies will evaporate just the right amount of water to stay comfortable. In the other examples, the humidity levels of the rooms are so low that our bodies will evaporate large amounts of water and we will feel cold even though the thermometer indicates we should be comfortable. The air conditioner not only cools the room but it also dehumidifies the air. In winter, cold air of very low moisture level is drawn into the house and is heated to the desired temperature.

ALUMINUM AND ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

Alzheimer's disease is a fatal, degenerative brain disease which primarily affects senior citizens. As the disease progresses, people first lose their memory and then control of bodily functions. There is no known cause, prevention or cure. It brings untold misery to those afflicted with it and their families a tragedy for all concerned.

Medical science has recently established the presence of abnormally high levels of the element aluminum in the brain tissues of some Alzheimer's victims. Since aluminum is not a vital element in human biology, its presence is a mystery. On the other hand, some victims had very low aluminum levels in their brain tissues, identical to those unafflicted by the disease.

The use of aluminum cooking utensils is widespread. When acid-containing foods such as tomatoes, spinach, rhubarb or sour apples and cherries are cooked in them, a small amount of metal is dissolved during the cooking process. Even though there is no established link between aluminum and Alzheimer's disease, it seems wise to prepare acidic foods in stainless steel, porcelainized, ceramic or glass cookware.

IS A QUARTER POINT DIAMOND RING A GOOD BUY? Recently, a commercial on television advertised gold-plated rings, each containing a one quarter point diamond for $9.95. The price of any diamond stone depends upon its carat weight, clarity, color, freedom from flaws, cut and quality of workmanship. The advertised diamond is barely visible to the unaided eye and is about the same size as the period dot at the end of this

This diamond is worthless and has value only as a component of diamond dust used for grinding compounds and to make cutting tools. Anyone who buys one of these rings will be literally throwing away money. Not only is the stone of no value, but the gold plating on the ring is probably so thin that it will wear off in

Nerve Deafness Can Be Helped

Medicine, technology and research have made giant steps in the last few years. If, in the past, you have been told you had "nerve deafness" and that there was nothing that could be done for you, t might be time to have your hearing reevaluated. Today's modern hearing aids have become extremely sophisticated and are a marvel of high technology. What this means is that they can be precisely adjusted to the requirements of almost any hearing loss. Don't put off clearer hearing one day longer, call and make arrangements for a trial fitting. We think you will be pleasantly surprised.

Seeing China from the inside out

by Robert H. Schultz

Social Science Instructor Maine Township High School South

Now that the summer is behind us, I would like to share one of the most exhausting but rewarding vacations a person could hope to experience by traveling abroad. For almost six weeks my wife and I visited South Korea, Hong Kong, Macao, the People's Republic of China, and Taiwan. The highlight of our trip was a three-week zigzag bicycle odyssey through the provinces of Guangdong and Guangxi Zhuang in the PRC. Besides my wife and I, our "merry band" included a 70-year-old bicycle enthusiast from West Simsburg, Connecticut, an entrepreneur from Lantau Island (the largest of the off-islands near Hong Kong) who served as our English guide-director, and two young Chinese functionaries. One of these government operatives served as our official translator while the other drove the van ("sagwagon").

By cycling through the tropical areas of southwest China we were able to see China from the inside out. As we biked in the wop wops ("boonies") it dawned on me that unlike the other areas we visited this summer, China is a land as foreign as any you'll possible ever see, it is a land where Americans are still a curiosity to the seemingly friendly Chinese. Many of the Chinese we came in contact with, in both the urban and rural areas, were eager to engage us in conversation when the opportunity presented itself. The pattern was similar wherever we went. On the roads we would greet the Chinese with ni hao ("hello") and the rural inhabitants would smile and say ni hao. Almost everyplace we stopped to rest along the roadside in the farm areas small groups of locals would surround us. The verbal pattern was almost always the same. Those Chinese who could speak English would ask, "How are you? Where are you from? How do you like China? Tell us about the

After years of discouraging contact between the "ordinary" Chinese and foreigners, the Communist government of China is now permitting its citizens to meet and talk with westerners. Though there is still a distinct but unwritten policy against becoming too involved with foreigners, the authorities encourage casual conversational contact, especially with the qwai los ("foreign devils"). Our daily encounters and experiences were overwhelming. The sights on the congested city streets and country roads made our heads spin trying to avoid the aggressive bus and truck drivers who seemed to take great delight in seeing how close they could come to you without causing an accident. Countless bellclanging "tanks" (Chinese bicycles) made our movement through the cities an adventure. Animal-and-human drawn carts and wagons also clogged the streets in cities like Shenzhen, Guangzhou (Canton), and Guilin. Almost everywhere we biked in the wop wops legions of farmers using wooden implements and water buffalo worked in the fields. The rice harvest was spread along the roadside to dry. This along with dodging a variety of domesticated mals made our trek more challenging. The country roads were dotted with brigades of construction workers who cracked heavy rocks with sledge hammers. Unlike our country large numbers of Chinese men and women worked side-by-side in building and repairing their roads in the summer heat. Everywhere we went bare-bottomed babies tied to their mothers by a shawl-type of harness were too numerous to count. This made me wonder if the single-child-family policy is really having any positive effect in the

Our visit to a small village outside the town of Kaiping where the family of our English-guide's wife still lives proved to be one of the more pleasant experiences our "merry band" was afforded. This informal six-hour visitation gave us a chance to observe how ancient traditions help keep mutual respect and harmony in households that have several different generations of people living together. Seeing how a rural family lives in a multi-room complex was indeed an educational experience. This was not a government orchestrated progaganda excursion. Just people meeting people! The housing in this village was spacious compared to the urban housing patterns. The home was family-owned. The furnishings consisted of separate bedrooms for the members of the family, a dining area, and a living room with a TV. The kitchen was adjacent to the dining area. Toilet facilities were located outside the home. The only way a person could get to the second level in this building was by climbing a ladder. From the roof of this complex, we had a panoramic view of the village and the surrounding plots of privately owned land. We not only enjoyed the hospitality of the family, but we gained some insight into how the rural people of Guangdong Province live. Towards the end of this visit we were introduced to a 14-year-old girl who was learning English in school. For almost an hour we carried on a conversation with this young lady. We thought it interesting that the one thing that made her eyes light up, was when we asked if she'd someday like to visit Hong Kong. Before leaving the village, we walked over to the local primary school. I'm sure that the government would not have approved of our seeing this school. To say that the building complex had seen better days is a gross understatement. The environment was drab and damp. How any learning could take place here was beyond my comprehension. Later, I found out that over 3 million school-age girls in the PRC are being deprived an education because of sex discrimination and abusive child labor in family workshops or farms. Historically, girls living in the rural areas of China go to work in the fields at an early age.

If we Americans hope to gain a better understanding of the Chinese culture, it is important that we abandon some of our

Completion of new library roof near by Eileen Hirschfeld

About three working days remain to complete a $59,000 roof replacement for the Niles Public Library District, according to trustee Myles Dimand at a regular Jan. 13 board meeting. The portion of the roof undergoing work consists of about 13,500
