Niles Library tax hike passes by almost 2-1 margin

By nearly a 2 to 1 margin, Niles voters approved Tuesday's library district referendum to raise the tax rate ceiling from .151 to .28 per $100 of assessed valuation. With 60 of 63 precincts accounted for, 4,070 approved the increase and 2,496 opposed. Library board president Terri Carman said the result of Tuesday's vote will make it possible to continue with the five year plan to improve services and facilities. "We are ecstatic. We finally have the money to raise the salary schedule for the staff, maintaining Bookmobile service, and library hours which would have been cut if the referendum failed," she said. "We can also in-

Blase leery of new Lawrencewood offer

Niles condemnation suit against Robert Krilich, owner of Lawrencewood shopping center, took a new twist in efforts to reach a settlement to end litigation.

According to Thomas Burke, representing the village of Niles, a Denver developer has offered to take over the shopping center for redevelopment and to pay "just compensation" to Krilich for the property. As part of the deal, the village will acquire six acres of the Lawrencewood site on Oakton.

March 11 the Selin Corporation received voter approval to take over 100% of the stock of the First National Bank of Niles. It is likely it will also own 100% stock in five other Chicagoland banks.

The principal stockholder in Selin is Howard A. McKee, whose son-in-law is president of the First National Bank of Niles.

Legal counsel for Selin said there are no management changes at the bank and the local board of directors will still function in that capacity.

Other stockholders in the Selin Corporation are Northland and Municipal Insurance Companies, both owned by McKee. Legal counsel said Municipal does some credit life insurance business for people receiving loans from the bank.

At the end of last year another company owned by McKee, a data processing company, was created. It also does business with the banks which will be taken over by the Selin Corporation.

Mr. McKee received legal fees of about $15,000 from the First National of Niles in 1986.

"Who is nervous about writing for a newspaper?" asked Linda Zachow, reporter for Bugle Publications. Twenty-one students nodded yes without hesitation. The students, ages 6-8, were all participants in the Nelson PTA sponsored Lunch Plus a Whole Lot More Newspaper Club. Their apprehension stemmed from the fact that students this age are just learning to write or print. Their spelling skills are not fully developed. Their analytical potential has barely been tapped.

Lessons differentiating fact versus opinion and identifying basic elements of a news story were taught by Linda Zachow and Judy Davis. This learning process acted as a catalyst in confidence building. Stories about school and extracurricular activities began to pour in. Zachow and Davis went a step further, teaching the children the art of interviewing. Students formulated probing questions in advance and proceeded to track down subjects.

Insecurity vanished and a full scale writing marathon began. The final product, a 28-page newspaper called the Eagle was hot off the press last week. The children were officially called staff reporters and actually functioned in that capacity. Judy

Tam opening set for early April

Niles Park District has announced plans for opening Tam Golf Course in the beginning of April, weather permitting. The 9 hole park district course is now being prepared for the upcoming season of play. Crews have been working to restore all holes, fairways and greens after winter for what the district believes will be a very successful golf season. Many of the greens were covered this past winter to promote

Niles Fire Dept. calls

The Niles Fire Department responded to 14 fire alarms and 38 ambulance calls from March 4 to March 11.

A fire alarm on March 5 at Wilson Jones, 6150 Touhy, was attributed to workmen repairing telephone lines in the area. The alarm panel was reset.

Firemen responded to Father & Sons shoe store in the Gold Mill shopping center March 5. A malfunctioning heating and Niles officials are uncertain whether a potential lawsuit filed by residents living near the AT&T property may delay the first construction phase for the shopping center expected to begin construction this spring on the village's portion of the site.

Developers of the AT&T factory site at Touhy and Carpenter Rd. are Taxman Corp and Trammell Crow Corp. Plans are to build a regional shopping center on the property which straddles Skokie and Niles.

Residents of Chicago's Edgebrook community went into action because of contaminated ground water found on the Skokie portion of the site. Residents filed a 60-day notice of "intent to file" against AT&T, Village of Niles and developers, opening the door to filing a suit by the beginning of May, according to attorneys for the homeowners.

At issue is the first phase of construction in Niles. Residents contend that opening the asphalt surface on the former AT&T parking lot could contribute to spread of the contaminants said to contain high levels of carcinogens and two potentially harmful chemical compounds.

According to Edgebrook attorneys, Skokie would not be named in a suit because officials put in requirements that any hazardous waste and contaminants must be cleaned up before building permits are issued.

Joe Salerno, Niles director of code enforcement, said the village stipulates the same requirements in its ordinance. "That was a 'must' for rezoning approval for the site. I don't know at this point whether a suit would delay construction on the Niles side, but no building permit will be issued to developers unless we receive documented proof the site is free from any hazardous material," Salerno said.

AT&T has the responsibility of cleaning up all hazardous wastes on the entire site, an agreement made before the property was purchased by Taxman-Trammell Crow. The company's environmental consultant, Environmental Research and Technology, is conducting the cleanup project.

Although the Edgebrook group has a right to file a suit, Salerno said he wasn't sure how valid their arguments are. "I can't understand how construction in Niles could speed up the movement of contaminated ground water," he said.

Salerno noted Edgebrook may decide to proceed with the case in the event a permit is issued on receipt of said documentation from developers. "The

Well wishers at Giovannelli welcoming luncheon

Norwood Park Home honors 17 year employee

"I was going to work here six months so I could make enough money to take the kids back to Ireland." Those were the words from Mrs. Sarah McGing who was honored at her retirement party held at Norwood Park Home, 6016 N. Nina Ave., a Retirement Facility that's been serving the elderly in both intermediate and sheltered care for over 90 years.

Sarah began working for the Home in 1971 as a housekeeper and four years later was hired by the Activity Department. Ask any resident about Sarah and you'll probably get the same reply: "What a ball of fire, she always cared and made you feel extra special." Caring was probably second nature to Sarah who was born on a farm in County Mayo, Ireland. She well remembers life on the farm, which is where her mother still lives, and the advantages of being second eldest in a family of twelve. In 1949 she moved to Pittsburgh and shortly thereafter moved to Chicago where she married and raised six children.

The biggest changes Sarah's seen since she started working for the Home: "The new intermediate section which was built in 1975 and the purchase of two vans for the Home. Prior to that time there were a lot fewer residents and we used to do all the activities in the hallways and in the room that's now used by the maintenance department."

Additionally Sarah commended the Care Plan Coordinator, Barbara Firak, for her efforts in organizing the Quality Incentive Program (QUIP) in 1985 "which brought all the departments together and has done great things for the residents in both sections."

What will Sarah miss most? "Oh my, why the residents, some of them I'll never forget. It's the residents that make this home." Sarah likes to talk about the residents and how in her early days as Activity Assistant she used to sit and watch the opposomons, with their babies, who would frequently visit an area where the new section now stands.

The party complete with Irish Dancers and staff gazoo players who serenaded Sarah with "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" was held in the main dining room.

Residents from both intermediate and sheltered care applauded Sarah and amidst misty eyes said good-bye. The cake she received may have said what everyone at the Home was thinking: "Employees like Sarah don't retire they just become volunteers!"

A final agreement is signed between the individuals outlining the expectations and acceptable arrangements. In addition, NSC continues to be available for the homesharers in the event problems occur. For more information about the NSC Senior Shared Housing program call Susan Grossinger at 577-7070.

Hebrew Marathon set for Sunday

On Sunday, March 20, fifty adult members of two area synagogues will partake in an all-day Hebrew Marathon. The Marathon's goal is to teach adults who read no Hebrew at all to be Hebrew readers by the end of the day's program.

Rabbi Noah Golinkin, of Columbia, Maryland, is the guest teacher for the Marathon. Adult students are members of Congregation BJBE in Glenview, and Congregation Beth Shalom of Northbrook.

Rabbi Golinkin is the creator of the Marathon's technique and materials. He says that he has so far taught 60,000 adult Jews to read Hebrew through his unique one day program, which uses his textbook "Standing on One Foot."

"Learning Hebrew has frightened many people since childhood," says Rabbi Golinkin. "They are embarrassed over their lack of knowledge and scared to admit it. But they can learn - and in one day."

The synagogues will be offering post-Marathon refresher sessions so that the Marathon participants will begin to exercise their newly learned Hebrew language.

The program will be held at Congregation BJBE, in Glenview.

Amlings featuring "Easter wreath"

This year for Easter Amlings is featuring their exclusive "Easter Wreath". This beautiful, permanent wreath symbolically depicts the religious events of Holy Week.

1. Palm fronds represent Palm Sunday, the day of Jesus' triumphant entry into the city when His followers greeted Him by strewing palm fronds in His path.

2. Two large coins on either side of the wreath are reminders of the incident when Jesus drove the money changers out of the temple.

3. Bread and grapes represent the Last Supper, when Jesus met with His disciples and asked them to remember Him by eating bread and drinking wine.

4. The black ribbon represents Jesus' betrayal by Judas, His arrest by Roman authorities and His sentence to die on the cross.

5. The cluster of dogwood blossoms behind the ribbon represent the Crucifixion, since the cross is said to have been made from the trunk of a dogwood tree.

6. The wreath itself is made from a large circle of thorny branches, representing the Crown of Thorns placed on Jesus' head.

7. A black stone held in a ribbon of white cloth together represent the shroud of Jesus and the stone that was rolled away from the entrance of His tomb.

8. A cluster of beautiful Easter lilies commemorates the Resurrection and the belief in life after death.

A beautiful Easter Wreath, sure to become a yearly tradition with your family. Carefully researched to represent the period from Jesus' arrival in Jerusalem for the annual celebration of the Passover and several days after His Resurrection.

All materials used in Amlings Easter Wreath are artificial, so it can be saved and used as an annual Eastertime decoration.

Sooner or later, we all begin to plan for it...

It's not easy to reconcile ourselves to death, but many people find that pre-planning funeral services offers peace of mind. With pre-planning, you can specify services, burial instructions, clergy, memorial funds and costs. It's only natural to have concerns about these things. For confidential information, please call us.

Invite a sailor for Easter dinner

Sailor recruits need a family for Easter, Sunday, April 3.

Recruits at Great Lakes have liberty Easter, but need a host family here in the area. That means opening homes to two young men for the day. The only expense is the cost of two extra places around your dinner table.

The sailors last year said it meant a lot to be with a regular family on special holidays. Our host families asked us to expand the program. The Navy agreed and added Easter.

Several churches and towns already participate. Still, every year, many recruits go back to the barracks - all dressed up with no place to go.

Glenview Navy League will provide transportation between Great Lakes and Glenview Playdium.

You'll pick up your guests from Glenview Playdium at 10 AM and return them to the Playdium by 6:30 PM. Your guests will all be young men in uniform (no lady recruits at Great Lakes).

What do you do with two guests at 10 AM? You sit them down in front of the TV - they haven't seen one for six weeks. The recruits will supply appetites, big smiles and many thank-you's.

Please phone in your open house invite for Easter, April 3, now: 751-4810 (daytime) or 988-5694 (evenings).

begin at 2 p.m. in Room 147, Damen Hall, on Loyola's Lake Shore Campus, 6525 N. Sheridan rd. in Chicago.

On Wednesday, March 30, Hillel will host a workshop for those interested in celebrating the traditional Passover seder dinner. The workshop, which will feature traditional foods, will be led by Moshe Gresser, Ph.D., professor of Judaica at Loyola. Gresser will explain the central parts of the Passover seder to all participants.

The free workshop is open to the public by reservation only, and is scheduled from 2-4 p.m. at the Assist. Center, at 1132 W. Loyola ave., on the Lake Shore Campus in Chicago.

For reservations for the seder workshop, or for more information about either event, contact Patti Ray, Hillel director, at 508-2193.

Miniature dolls by Hazel Samuelson and daughter Lorille, Doll House Miniatures by Dorothy Hensler of Cicero and Eichelberger Enterprises, Sandwich, Illinois had so many goodies to delight doll house families as well as the collector. It was a great Show from 9-4 p.m. as the collectors were eager to see what was new and wanting to purchase the treasure or add to a collection that small accessory so difficult to find. Driving Violations...

A Chicago man was arrested for no valid driver's license and defective brakes after he was involved in an accident on March 4.

The offender was going south on Milwaukee and struck a car making a left turn from Milwaukee onto Touhy after waiting for a traffic light to change. The offender's car, which had defective brakes, left visible 120 foot-skid marks in an attempt to stop.

He was released on $1,000 bond and assigned an April court date.

A Chicago man was arrested for speeding and driving with a suspended license on March 4 after he was observed driving northwest in the 8800 block of Milwaukee at 52 mph on March 4. He was released on $1,000 bond pending a March court date.

Gas pump damaged by fleeing driver

An employee of a service station in the 7600 block of Milwaukee Ave. told police March 6 he had finished work and got into his car to warm up the engine. A man approached by the driver's side of the door pointing a handgun at him, causing the frightened victim to place his car in reverse striking a gas pump before fleeing the area.

The offender was described as tall, thin and had blonde hair. A search of the area proved negative.

Someone used several bricks to break a large thermopane window on the east side of the Bunker Hill Country Club in the 6600 block of Milwaukee on March 7. No entry was made to the building.

Damage is undetermined.

Safety hints on right-of-way

By Secretary of State Jim Edgar

Illinois law establishes who has the right-of-way in any traffic situation. However, courtesy and common sense are also important in preventing accidents.

When two vehicles approach an intersection from different roads at the same time, and there are no stop signs, yield signs or traffic control signals, the driver on the left must yield to the driver on the right. If the driver on the left fails to yield, the driver on the right should use common sense and yield.

If more than one vehicle arrives at a four-way stop intersection at about the same time, the first driver to stop should be the first to go, and the others should take their turns. Do not delay traffic behind you. Take your turn when it comes. However, if another driver turns in front of you, let him go and avoid an accident.

You must also yield the right-of-way to oncoming traffic if you are making a left turn at an intersection, alley or driveway. If you are in an intersection with a traffic control signal, you may finish your left turn even if the light has changed to red. If you are not in the intersection when the light changes to red, you must wait for a green light before turning left. And when you get a green light, you must not turn left until all cross traffic has cleared the intersection safely.

Remember, the right-of-way is something to be given, not taken, at every intersection.

SCI INFO

by Walter E. Kramer, Ph. D.

BUSTED FUZZBUSTERS

A fuzzer is a small microwave detection unit many drivers place on the tops of their dashboards to report the presence of police radar beams. Police routinely monitor traffic speed with a microwave sending and receiving unit. The radar unit sends out a signal which bounces off vehicles back to the receiver. The time it takes for the signal to go out and return is converted into a speed reading. When turned on, the present radar units send out a continuous signal which the detection units pick up and warn the driver that he is in a speed surveillance zone. The driver then slows down to the legal speed limit and speeds up when he feels it is "safe to go faster".

Police departments will soon make these fuzzbusters worthless when they buy the latest, intermittent radar units. These units send out short bursts of signals which accurately determine a car's speed. By the time the radar signal is picked up, it is too late. The car's speed is already known. If you want to avoid speeding tickets do one of the following: a) obey the law; b) drive behind a truck; c) stay in a long line of cars.

SAFE AUTOMOBILE JUMP STARTS

Everyone sympathizes with a driver whose car has a dead battery. If he is lucky, someone will give him a jump start and send him on his way. Few realize that an improperly performed jump start can be very dangerous. Each year many people are killed or maimed by exploding batteries which had been accidentally shorted while giving a jump start.

A battery is a plastic case filled with sulfuric acid, water, and lead electrodes. Each battery has two terminals stamped with either a (+) or (-) mark. The (+) terminal is connected to the spark plugs and all the electrical accessories. The (-) terminal is attached to the car body which serves as a common ground. The current completes its circuit by going from the (+) terminal to the accessory and then to ground. If the terminals are misconnected and the battery is shorted, a rapid, violent reaction occurs accompanied by the formation of a huge volume of hydrogen gas. The battery then explodes showering all with its contents.

Make sure your jumper cables are well insulated and have end clips with color-coded plastic handles. One cable should have red handles and the other black. When connecting the batteries of the two cars, first attach the red handles of one cable to the (+) terminals. Then, attach the other cable ends to any metal part of each car body. It is not necessary to directly connect the two (-) terminals. Once the car has been started, carefully remove the cables in the same order in which they were attached.

DNA FINGERPRINTING

There is an old saying: maternity is a matter of fact while paternity is a matter of faith. Thanks to modern biomedical science, paternity is now also a matter of fact. All children carry a 50/50 mixture of their parents' genes and chromosomes. With the exception of identical twins, each person has a unique DNA pattern in his genes and chromosomes. This pattern can be easily and reliably determined from a tiny amount of sperm, blood cells, skin tissue, or hair. By comparing DNA patterns of a child and his suspected father, paternity can be established with absolute certainty. The previous blood-typing tests could only prove that a man was not the child's father.

The legal profession of several countries has been shaken by these new biomedical tests and the job of defense attorneys has been made more difficult. The ability of a witness or a victim can no longer be attacked when it comes to identifying an accused person if analyzable cell and/or tissue traces have been left at the scene of a crime. In a recent case, a woman was assaulted and raped in her bedroom in the middle of the night. To prevent identification, the rapist first tied a sack around the woman's head. The DNA pattern of the sperm he left behind matched that of his blood cells. The rapist was given a 27 year prison sentence even though the woman could not identify him. It is possible that future identity cards may contain the DNA pattern of the bearer.

BBB launches Remodelcare Program

A new complaint settlement program for home improvement firms was launched today by the Better Business Bureau of Chicago & Northern Illinois, Inc. Called Remodelcare, the program signals a new and vigorous commitment by responsible home improvement contractors to maximize customer satisfaction. Participating companies must pledge that they will deal with disputes speedily when they arise and abide by the ruling of a neutral third party arbitrator if the homeowner is not satisfied with the company's settlement efforts.

Last year, BBB/Chicago handled 1,375 complaints involving heating, home remodeling and repairs, ranking the industry third in number of complaints handled locally. To participate in the program, home remodelers must agree to adhere to the REMODELCARE Code of Ethical Conduct and the BBB Standards of Practice for the Home Improvement Industry. In addition, each participating contractor must pledge to arbitrate disputes through the BBB that cannot be resolved through mediation. All participating firms must meet BBB prescribed standards and be checked out first by the Bureau. Consumers can learn which firms are part of REMODELCARE by calling the BBB's Inquiry Center, 444-1188, or by sending a stamped, self-addressed business size envelope to the BBB, 211 West Wacker Drive, Chicago, IL 60606.

As part of the program, each REMODELCARE firm will designate a special contact person who will have the authority and responsibility to settle customer problems, should any develop. Consumers who contact the Bureau with a complaint against a REMODELCARE contractor will be referred to this individual. Disputes which are not immediately resolved will then be mediated by BBB staff. If the homeowner is still dissatisfied, he or she can choose to have the dispute heard by an impartial trained volunteer arbitrator.

The decision handed down by the arbitrator is legally binding. Technical advice, if needed by the arbitrator, will be provided by experts who are not associated with either the customer or the firm and who are not potential competitors of the contractor.

The REMODELCARE program was developed by the Council of Better Business Bureaus, the national headquarters organization for BBBs, and the National Association of the Remodeling Industry, a trade association with 55 chapters and over 3,500 members.

Log home exhibitors at the Spring Home and Energy Show will have a wide variety of floorplans to show, with both rustic and contemporary decors available. Expert free advice will be offered on log home site selection, cost estimates, construction tips, availability of professional building help and other facets involving log home projects.

Keep cool at minimum expense

ARLINGTON, Va.—What are some of the basic rules to follow for keeping cool at minimum cost? Is central air conditioning more energy-efficient than using window units? Should I turn my thermostat up when I leave for work in the morning? What are the advantages of buying a system with a high seasonal energy efficiency ratio (SEER)?

These are among 47 questions answered for consumers in the new free pamphlet "How To Keep Your Cool and Save Cold Cash." Published by the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute—the trade association representing manufacturers of central air conditioning and heat pump systems—the 24-panel pamphlet updates and combines questions and answers from the first two Keep Cool pamphlets in ARI's popular series of free consumer information pamphlets.

Topics discussed include: typical savings from higher seasonal energy efficiency ratios; heat pump cooling and heating compared to other systems; how often to change air filters; augmenting central systems with window units or ceiling fans; humidification considerations; replacing systems before they wear out; cleaning registers and ducts; heat pump supplemental heat; finding out more about radon and indoor air quality; and how to get more free information about indoor climate control.

For a free copy, send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI), Dept. U-79, P.O. Box 37700, Washington, DC 20013.

Vinyl siding covers solid investment

The stock market's recent fall from grace has convinced many consumers that owning a home isn't just prudent; it's one of the most solid investments anyone can make.

To remain so, it has to be kept in good repair. Since upkeep can be time consuming as well as expensive, homeowners look to invest in building materials and products that are designed to reduce maintenance indoors and out. Frost-free refrigerators and self-cleaning ovens are examples.

Another is solid vinyl siding, says the Vinyl Siding Institute, because it eliminates the bother and cost of painting every few years and it all takes care of itself. It will not rust, pit, dent or corrode. Since it has color clear through, there's no surface color to peel or wear off. About the only maintenance it requires is an occasional washing with a mild detergent and water.

Available in a variety of designs, textures and colors, vinyl siding is suitable for most architectural styles ranging from traditional to contemporary.

It also comes with matching accessories such as downspouts, fascia, gutters, soffits, shutters and other trim for additional low maintenance protection.

For a copy of a free booklet, "What Homeowners Want to Know About Solid Vinyl Siding," send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to VSI, 355 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Spring Home and Energy Show opens Friday

most popular experts appearing at the Home and Energy Shows. Benson shows how trees and shrubs add to the appearance and value of the home and help to reduce heating and air-conditioning costs. He suggests that home owners bring a photo or plat of their property which he uses as a basis for his free recommendations. Benson also will present formal landscape design lectures at 8:00 PM Friday, 5:00 PM and 7:00 PM Saturday and 3:00 PM Sunday.

Pat Gerlach, Home Furnishings Editor of the Daily Herald, will discuss the latest furnishings trends and will help by advising on color coordination, window and wall treatments and other phases of improving interior decor. Szwedczyk also is Executive Director of the Home Building Institute which teaches consumers many basics of home construction.

Trans Designs, a Chicagoland interior decorating firm, will have representatives available to explain how to use the power of color to give the home a unique new look. The latest trends in furnishings for the home or office will be covered. Trans Designs also conducts a formal presentation on home decorating and color coordination at 8:00 PM Saturday.

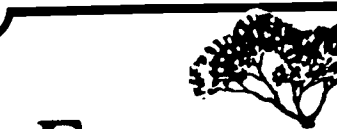

For visitors seeking the services of professional remodeling contractors, representatives of the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) will staff a booth throughout the show to handle visitor inquiries. NARI, a co-sponsor of the show, also will conduct a formal presentation at 5:00 PM Saturday. Rounding out the speakers' program is Miles Home Co., whose formal presentation on new trends in pre-cut, owner completion homes is set for 1:00 PM on Saturday. Miles' personnel also will be available for individual consultation during the show.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. (AT&T) will again offer free three-minute phone calls to show visitors, utilizing a bank of specially-installed phones. Family room wet bar saves steps Tired of climbing stairs with loads of dirty dishes after entertaining guests in the basement family room? Then consider solving your problems with the addition of a wet bar.

A wet bar can be very functional — and a lot more. It can greatly facilitate the preparation for parties, as well as the cleanup afterwards. Shelves below the bar can store dishes, glasses, silverware, or practically anything you'll need for entertaining.

Cozy Nook For Entertaining

But besides being useful, the wet bar can be an attractive design element and a cozy nook. If you build the wet bar into a cabinet and cover the front with attractive paneling, then add a full-length countertop for serving snacks and refreshments, you'll create a warm and inviting setting for entertaining friends and relatives. You can also be sure Mom will use the wet bar as an "oasis" where she can serve thirst-quenching beverages to the kids.

Wine Rack Adds Appeal

Want to make the wet bar area even more appealing? Consider building a wine display rack on the wall opposite the serving counter and built-in cabinets with shelves on either end of the bar. The possibilities are practically endless.

If you would like plans to build a wet

Keep energy bills down

Prepare to keep the cool air in your home this summer, and you'll be ready to avoid cold drafts in the winter. You'll save on energy bills too. If you are working on the cracks which appear outside your home, use a siliconized acrylic latex caulk such as that made by Elmer's. It adheres very well to different types of building materials. Old caulk should be removed before applying new. Try a rigid piece of wire or the side of a paint scraper.

If the crack being repaired is deeper than 1/4", it is a good idea to fill it in with glass fiber insulation or urethane foam first. This makes certain the gap is filled and the caulk will not be sucked into the crevice. Remember, too, that the nozzle of the caulking gun or tube should always be pushed along at about a 45 degree angle. This will push the caulk into the crack rather than let it rest on the top.

Gas Grill Cooking Tips

The natural gas grill provides dependable outdoor cooking with a convenient fuel supply. The American Gas Association recommends these energy saving tips when using a gas grill:

- Limit preheating time.
- Use only one burner on dual burner grills unless both burners are needed.
- Use the lowest flame setting possible.
- Cook with the grill cover closed for more smoked flavor and shorter cooking times.
- Prepare slow cooking foods on the grill to keep heat out of the kitchen and save on air conditioning.
- Cook several foods or entire meals at one time on the grill.
- Cook a full grill of steaks or burgers.
- Thaw frozen foods before grilling unless otherwise directed.
- Use a thermometer or timer to eliminate overcooking and guesswork.
- Keep "burn-off" cleaning time to a minimum.
- Keep grill clean and properly maintained.

Springtime is house-hunting time

Each spring, thousands of prospective home buyers begin their search for a new dwelling. Obviously, there are many factors such as location of the home, size, design and proximity to schools, shopping and work which are considered before a final decision is made.

The CertainTeed Home Institute, also recommends a thorough inspection of the home. "Convenience and appearance are important, but a careful review of the structural stability, energy efficiency, plumbing and heating/ventilation/air conditioning system within a house can also make a great difference in your personal enjoyment and comfort," says George Hoffmann for the Home Institute.

When visiting homes, look carefully at the roof and gutters. Are the shingles in good condition? Are the gutters rusted or bent? Inside, are there many cracks in the walls? Observant home shoppers will spot these potential problems before purchasing a home.

Next, look at the home's energy efficiency. Check to see if it is caulked or weatherstripped and if the storm windows and screens are in good condition. Make sure there are adequate levels of insulation in the attic, sidewalls, floors, garage walls and crawl spaces. A properly-insulated home can help you save big dollars in fuel bills.

Plumbing and heating/ventilation/air conditioning systems are also extremely important to check before you buy your new home. Check the condition of the pipes by turning on the sink faucets in the upstairs bathroom, then turn on the tub. If the water level drops more than 25 percent, the home may have a problem with pipe corrosion. As for heating, turn the furnace on for at least 15 minutes to see if it runs smoothly and quietly. Check for oil stains and signs of wear. Ask how old it is. The average furnace can be expected to last about 25 to 35 years.

It pays to be a smart consumer when shopping for a home. If you do notice any problems, get an estimate for repairs and use that information when negotiating price.

In addition, when reviewing prospective homes, the CertainTeed Home Institute suggests these hints:

- Refrain from negative comments about the house when the seller is nearby.
- Don't wander away from your broker.
- Don't handle valuable items in a house, as they can arouse territorial instincts.
- Find something about the house to compliment.

For more information on home buying, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, Pa., 19482 for a free copy of the "Home Buyer's Checklist."

Home improvement expenses may add up to tax deduction

Many do-it-yourselfers eagerly await the start of warmer weather to take on a variety of home improvement projects including the building of decks, upgrading attic insulation and installing exterior lighting. When purchasing the materials for these projects, however, it's important to keep sales receipts in a special home improvement notebook or file folder.

Why? Because under today's tax laws, the cost of home improvements may help to reduce the amount of capital-gains tax you'll have to pay when you sell your home. Also, if a home equity loan is being used to finance home improvements, your interest costs also may be fully deductible.

Keeping records is also important because general home maintenance can easily be confused with home improvements. Most often only the latter is deductible. By maintaining adequate records, you'll be able to discuss work on your home with your tax advisor and he or she will make the proper decision for you.

As a rule of thumb, projects that qualify for tax deductions include capital improvements such as room additions and adding extra levels of insulation.

Whatever home improvement projects you're contemplating this season, remember to keep accurate records of the entire process. It will help you if a tax audit comes and it's also important to your pocketbook.

If you're interested in learning more about home improvement projects that are tax deductible, write to CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, Pa., 19482.

Enjoying Household Electricity Safely

Checklist For Choosing An Insulation Contractor

- ✓ Look for someone who's been in business in the same area for at least five years.
- ✓ Try to obtain referrals from friends and neighbors.
- Find out if your state requires licensing; if so, make sure the contractors you're considering have valid licenses.
- ✓ Check credentials by calling the Better Business Bureau. They will report any complaints that have been made against a firm.
- Ask contractors for references. If they're well established in the community, they'll have a list of satisfied customers for you to contact.
- ✓ Ask what professional organizations they belong to.
- Check their credit with suppliers.
- Obtain firm estimates in writing of the work that is to be done and the materials to be used. Make sure that estimates are for comparable jobs, using the same materials, quality of workmanship, and R-values.
- Look for quality products. One material that more and more contractors are recommending is CertainTeed's INSUL SAFE III™ fiber glass blown-in insulation. Pure white in color, the insulation offers outstanding thermal performance and is noncombustible.
- Double check the quality of work of the contractors you're considering by looking at jobs they've done in the past that are similar to yours.

Electricity gives the average household a modern version of the magical genie in Aladdin's lamp. It's a powerful, obedient, invisible servant, summoned instantly at the flick of a switch.

But that power must be treated with care.

With a little knowledge and some common sense, everyone can practice electrical safety and teach it to children, too, says Edison Electric Institute, the association of investor-owned electric utilities.

The main risks to be avoided are electric shock and fire. When you understand the potential causes of those risks, it's easier to eliminate them around the house.

Electric shock is not just a "contact." It's a flow of electricity through the body. Electricity always flows through a circuit or to the ground through the easiest path it can find and if that's you, you'll get a shock. So don't turn yourself into an electrical conductor. Avoid contacting any source of electricity, and don't become a better pathway to the ground than you have to be.

It's also important to realize that parts of any electrical device are "live" (electrified) as long as it's plugged in, even when its switch is "off."

Recognize, as well, that water is a good electrical conductor and a dangerous pathway to ground. Finally, be aware that short-circuited, damaged, or overloaded electrical conductors generate heat, enough to start a fire very quickly.

Put those simple facts together, and they lead to some common sense safety precautions:

Never tamper with an electrical device or poke anything inside it while it's plugged in. You would risk "live" electrical contact, even if it's "off". Unplug it first.

Never touch a plugged in electrical device with wet skin or while standing on a wet surface. You'd be a good conductor to the ground.

Never leave a radio, TV, razor, curler set, hair dryer or other electrical device plugged in nearby, even if it's "off", while taking a bath or shower. If it falls into the water, it can electrocute you.

If an electrical device does fall into water, pull the plug immediately, or shut off the current by removing the fuse or turning off the circuit breaker. Do not touch or retrieve the device until you're sure it's disconnected. Have it professionally serviced before you use it again, because water can cause hazardous unseen damage. If it isn't worth fixing, replace it. Don't risk a life to save a few dollars.

If a device malfunctions, it may electrify exposed parts. For added safety, many devices can be grounded through a special wire or a third prong on the plug. Always ground such devices as instructed. If you can't ground it properly, don't plug it in.

Unplug any appliance that sparks, stalls or malfunctions, and have it serviced before you plug it in again. Where there are small children, unplug idle electrical devices and cover unused wall outlets with the plastic protective caps available in most hardware stores.

Never touch an unprotected live wire. Have household wiring installed and repaired by an electrician. If you must make an emergency repair, turn off the current and make sure nobody will turn it back on while you're working on it! Household wiring can be made safer by installing ground fault circuit interrupters in critical areas of the home, such as the bathrooms, kitchens, work spaces and outdoor receptacles, as recommended by the National Electrical Code. These devices detect electric shock and shut off current fast enough to limit injury.

If someone is shocked and remains in contact with a live electrical source, shut off the current before you touch him. Don't become another victim.

To reduce fire hazards, inspect electrical cords periodically and replace any that are frayed, cracked, scorched, crushed or otherwise damaged. Don't place cords where they will be mashed by foot traffic or furniture.

Don't overload wiring with too many electrical devices on the same outlet, circuit or extension cord.

If lights flicker, appliances balk, switches or outlets feel warm, or fuses blow, your wiring may be dangerously overloaded. Unplug appliances on that circuit, and have an electrician inspect your wiring.

Never replace a properly rated fuse with one of a higher current ratings. To protect your home, a fuse has to blow out before its circuit overloads, not the other way around. A fuse with excessive capacity can't protect you.

Outside the home, stay away from electric power lines and never touch them with anything. Always check overhead before raising a ladder or any other tall object outdoors.

The electricity industry urges everybody to play it safe with electricity. Enjoy its benefits, but respect its power.

How To Fix And Repair Broken Closet Doors

Closet doors appear simple and usually operate smoothly for years. Fixing one, however, can easily become an exercise in futility! Many homes have malfunctioning closet doors because, either the repair parts cannot be located, or the principle of their operation is so unique that the average homeowner is reluctant to undertake the project.

Tips On House Selling—Informing Potential Buyer

If you're contemplating selling your home and buying a new one, now's the perfect time to do it. The appearance of green grass and blooming flowers, warmer weather and extended vacations often planned for this time of year are factors which contribute to the convenience of making a move. Before you put your house on the market, however, the CertainTeed Home Institute recommends following some practical guidelines to make your home selling experience more pleasant.

First, consider the exterior appearance of your home. Is the paint peeling anywhere? Are the shrubs or bushes overgrown? Remember, first impressions can make a big difference to a potential home buyer. Take the time to trim bushes and repaint peeling areas. Keep the lawn mowed and sweep the walks. Repair cracks in porches and sidewalks if necessary. Wash the windows until they sparkle. Also, examine the roof and replace any missing shingles.

On the inside of the house, concentrate on energy efficiency. Studies show this is a leading concern among home buyers. Take an afternoon to upgrade the insulation in your attic with materials like CertainTeed Fiber Glass Insulation. Caulk and weatherstrip around windows and door frames.

Next, check to see if your furnace and water heater are in good operating condition. Fix any leaks in faucets and caulk around bathtubs and shower enclosures as needed. Make sure door locks work smoothly. Lubricate them if necessary. Also replace light bulbs in the garage. If it tends to be dark, keep the door open and clean out any clutter.

Now that you've made your home attractive to potential buyers, it's important to keep in mind the following tips when prospects are visiting your home:

- Don't overemphasize closets. Pushing buyers into the closets the minute they arrive is intimidating.
- Don't draw attention to any defects in the home.
- Don't follow buyers around the house. It makes them uneasy.
- Don't volunteer financial information about the heating/cooling bills unless asked.
- Don't continuously compliment your home. It turns prospects off.

By taking the time to prepare your home for sale and following these simple tips, you'll most likely sell your home faster. For more information on buying and selling a home, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482 for a copy of the "Home Seller's Checklist."

Repair wood

Be sure the surface is clean, dry and free of grease, oil and loose particles. Using a putty knife, apply Elmer's Professional Carpenter's Wood Filler generously.

Remove excess with the knife, leaving just enough to allow for sanding the surface flush after it dries.

Sand surface of shallow repairs 15 minutes or so after application. Wait one to eight hours for deeper ones.

Consider a greenhouse

If your home improvement plans include adding a room to take advantage of a great view, bring more light into the home or increase the value of a house, you should consider a greenhouse or a "sunspace" addition. Over 150,000 Americans add on these light, airy rooms each year, rapidly making sunspaces the most popular way to add space, character and value to a home. With a sunspace available to fit almost any design or budget requirement, it is sometimes difficult to make the right choice. Greenhouses For Living, the only buyer's guide to residential sunspaces can help.

Greenhouses For Living contains step-by-step details, illustrations, and color photos to help plan and create a sunspace addition that fits any need or personality. The 130-page, full-color guide contains information and ideas on: kit vs. custom; selecting a builder; foundation design; heating and cooling; decorating and furnishing; maintenance and preventive care; growing healthy plants; financing your sunspace and much more. The guide also provides comparative descriptions of over 60 sunspace manufacturers and a nationwide directory of sunspace builder/dealers.

A copy of Greenhouses For Living is available by sending $8.00 to Greenhouses For Living, 350 Fifth Ave., Suite 6124, Dept. NFS, New York, N.Y. 10001. Phone 212-967-8382, for American Express orders only.

Nifty ways to use your vacuum

Today's vacuum cleaners are so much more versatile than those of the past that we sometimes need reminding of all they can do. Here are a few examples, compiled by The Eureka Company for busy housecleaners:

Clean up your shack, Jack — or your house, apartment or condominium. If you have a large ranch-style house with wall to wall carpeting, your vacuum cleaner needs are different than if you have a one bedroom apartment with wood floors and area rugs. An upright is the vac to use for large expanses of carpeting, while a compact canister vac, such as a Mighty Mite, cleans both rugs and bare floors and then stores handily in a small apartment closet.

Make it look new, Sue — The average 9' x 12' rug can hold its weight in dirt and still look clean. The hidden grime, grit and gunk eats away at carpet pile, weakening the tufts at their base. To keep your carpeting looking new, vacuum at least once a week to prevent matting and damage.

Find the dirt, Burt — Thanks to extension hoses and a wide variety of attachments, there's no place in your home where dirt can hide from the vacuum. Special nozzles and brushes are available for upholstery, curtains, blinds, radiators and vents, crevices, baseboards, lampshades and pictures.

Cat's too hairy, Mary? — Keeping up with shedding pet hair is a seemingly never ending battle. Regular cleaning of furniture with a hand-held vac like the Mini Mite minimizes unsightly pet hair that can stick to your clothes.

Clean on the fly, Di — Today's modern homemaker usually has two jobs, one at the office and one at home being a wife and mother. Since your time is valuable, consider owning two different vacuum cleaners — a canister and an upright. While you're vacuuming the floors with the upright, your spouse can use the canister attachments for above-the-floor dusting. With two workers, the entire job can be completed in half the time.

Getting personal through "straight talk"

Since the beginning of time, the gender trap has placed many unspoken boundaries on the way men and women relate to each other. Ninety-eight percent of women surveyed for the "Hite" report say they would like more verbal closeness with the men they love. In the eighties, it has become more than an assumption that men and women do not necessarily speak the same language.

Phyllis Levy, noted talk show host and counselor, will share her views on how to negotiate for more communication intimacy in an evening of "Straight Talk," at Holy Family Hospital, 100 N. River rd., in Des Plaines, Thursday, March 24, at 7:30 p.m.

Ms. Levy, 48, earned a master's degree in social work at the University of Illinois, Jane Addams School of Social Work, and began her professional career 20 years ago as an educator, social worker and therapist, first working as a counselor at Jewish Family and Community Services.

In 1978, she founded All About Women in Arlington Heights, the first women's center in the northwest suburbs, now a full-service counseling center for men and women, where she is clinical director. She has lectured, as well as conducted workshops and training programs on sexuality, intimacy and depressive illness throughout the Midwest.

Ms. Levy has delivered speeches on topics including "Sex and Singles," "Sex and Media," "Women and Sex," "Manic/Depressive Illness and Sex," and "Post Feminism Dilemma."

She states that her work gives her a perspective on the major intimacy problems in our society today. "What I hear is that people are most concerned about 'mattering.' They want others to care about them," she says. Levy further contends that "there is not enough time spent on improving the quality of a relationship."

Admission to "Straight Talk" is $3.50 per person. All tickets will be sold in advance. To register, please send check or money order payable to: Holy Family Hospital, 100 N. River rd., Des Plaines 60016. Attention: Med-Connection. Please include your name, address and day-time phone number. Your tickets will be mailed to you.

Free lecture on patients' responsibility

"Patients' Responsibility" is the subject of a free lecture sponsored by the Homeopathic Association of Greater Chicago, Sun, Mar. 20 at 2 p.m. in the Skokie Public Library, 5215 Oakton, Skokie. The speaker is Des Plaines instructor of homeopathy, George Skuby.

Homeopathy is well known in many areas of the world. The Queen of England has a homeopathic physician. In Europe, pharmacies specializing in homeopathic medicines are common. But, until recently, homeopathy has been largely ignored in the United States.

Homeopathy is a comprehensive, holistic therapy that considers all mental, emotional and physical factors. But it does not use addictive or toxic drugs or "quick-fix" remedies which mask symptoms.

Most of the medicines have been classified as non-prescription by the FDA. In the absence of a physician, an intelligent person may use homeopathic medication to treat injuries or self-limiting illnesses of family members. For this reason, as well as its concentration on overall cause, rather than immediate effect, interest in homeopathy is growing rapidly.

Survival skills for business professionals

Business professionals can learn to increase awareness of personal safety problems and lower the risk of being a crime victim in a new program introduced by the Institute for Business and Professional Development at Oakton Community College.

"Street Smarts: Life Survival Skills for the Business Person" is an informative program which will benefit people working in business and industry both on the job and away from workplace, according to Jim O'Shea, leader of the program, and professor and chairperson of Oakton's Law Enforcement Program.

"It is especially intended for managers and supervisors who are responsible for employees who are exposed to elements outside of the workplace like messengers, truck drivers, salespersons and customer service representatives," said O'Shea. "Street Smarts is simply being aware of what's going on around you. It means knowing the little things like who is behind you when you are walking, or what neighborhood you are driving through when you are traveling, or who is sitting behind you when you are in a bus."

O'Shea will present a "Street Smarts" seminar from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, March 23 in the Business Conference Center, 1600 E. Golf Road, Des Plaines.

The cost is $155. For information and registration, call Kim Gordon at 635-1932.

District 207's Operation Snowball Friday

District 207's Operation Snowball 1988 will be held Friday, March 18, at Messiah Lutheran Church in Park Ridge, according to Jan Cannon, a counselor at Maine East, who is serving as co-chairperson with Joan Lampert, a social worker at Maine East.

Officially approved by the State of Illinois, Operation Snowball is a program that encourages young people to adopt a drug and alcohol-free lifestyle. Founded on the belief that all people have the capacity to make sound decisions and to exert a positive influence on others if they have adequate information and self-understanding, Operation Snowball takes its name from the idea that positive thinking and behavior can spread from person to person, growing as a snowball grows.

Not a treatment program, Operation Snowball is not intended for drug users. Rather, it is a program designed to equip teenagers with the interpersonal skills to "say no to drugs," according to Cannon and Lampert. The program provides a full day to educate teens on the various aspects of alcohol and drug abuse, enhance self-esteem, build self-confidence, and teach sound decision-making skills.

Maine East Academic Team competition

Maine East's academic team faces some stiff competition in the weeks ahead, but the team has some impressive wins so far this year. For example, Maine East's varsity academic team overpowered Niles North on February 24 by a score of 510-125 in a dual meet. Last year Niles North ended the season third in state.

Maine East then participated in the largest academic tournament in the state, 80 teams, held in Wenona, Illinois. Maine East won its group and division, eliminating 76 of the 80 participating teams. Maine East lost to Quincy, IL, the current state champions by just one question. Maine East junior Matt Guerrieri of Niles was the highest individual scorer of the tournament. Earlier in the day Quincy eliminated IMSA (Illinois Math/Science Academy), the winner of the Maine East Tournament on February 6 by a score of 328-125.

Maine East meets Quincy again at the Bradley-Bourbonnais Tournament on Saturday, March 19, and plans to compete at the Quincy Tournament of Champions on Saturday, March 26. On Saturday, April 23, the Maine East varsity will compete at a tournament at Stevenson High School while the junior varsity team will travel to a tournament in Peru, IL.

A lot of time and effort are given to the preparation of the food in order that families may have their seder services in a traditional fashion. Cast set for Woody Allen comedy

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild will ring with the side-splitting laughter only a Woody Allen play guarantees when "Don't Drink the Water" opens in April. This is the tale of a caterer from Newark and his family who must hole up in the U.S. embassy in an Iron Curtain country because Daddy unwittingly took snapshots of secret installations. Produced by Kathy Brachmann, Des Plaines, and directed by Judy Mercurio, Park Ridge, the cast includes: Julie Ann How and John McGuckin, Arlington Heights; Larry Andres, Buffalo Grove; Carl Reed, Chicago; Randy Brachmann, Louie Lancilotti, Beth Pauze and Robert Starn, Des Plaines; David Monterosso, Hoffman Estates; George Pochos, Lake Forest; Amber Mandley, Libertyville; Gary Levinson, Northbrook; Linda Kay Williams, Palatine; and Laura Springer, Park Ridge. The technical crew consists of Della Baldwin, Mt. Prospect, assistant to the director; Joe Lusignan, Park Ridge, assistant to the producer and set designer; Joe Brhel, Des Plaines.

The show opens April 1 and plays Friday, Saturday, and Sunday through May 1. For more information, call 296-1211, between noon and 8 p.m.

Torvill and Dean to star in Ice Capades

In 1975, when a policeman in Nottingham, England, and a young secretary joined hands for their first skate around the ring together, few could realize that history was in the making. Known today as Britain's "Royal Couple of Ice Dancing," Jayne Torvill and Christopher Dean will add a new dimension to Ice Capades with their golden reputation as Olympic Ice Dance Champions and four-time World Champions.

Fans and television viewers around the globe have been enthralled by their electrifying skating and now Chicago audiences can witness their artistry, live and in person, when Ice Capades and Torvill and Dean perform at the Rosemont Horizon March 22 through March 27 in the all-new extravaganza, "Salute to Hollywood." Tickets are priced at $8.50, $10.50, and $12.50. For more information call 635-6600 or to charge tickets by phone call 559-1212. For group information call 961-7922.

St. Scholastica presents The Boyfriend

The roaring twenties, complete with the Charleston, and the flair of the flappers, will come alive on the St. Scholastica High School stage March 24-27, as the school presents The Boyfriend.

This musical comedy, set in a fashionable finishing school on the French Riviera, tells the story of a group of young girls and their amusing antics with their boyfriends. It is a good humored, tuneful, and affectionate valentine to the innocence and the high spirits of the Charleston, cloche hat and short skirts, with tap dancing scenes, chorus line performances, orchestral accompaniments, solo and duet singing and good talented acting, costumes and set designs.

The Boyfriend is directed by Ms. Donna Martin, who directed Meet Me in St. Louis, Oliver and The American Dame previously at St. Scholastica. Ms. Martin acted in The Boyfriend at one time, and comments that it is "well suited" to Scholastica's student talent, with particular appeal to high school students.

The dates for the play are March 24 through 26 at 8 p.m. and March 27 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $4 and seating is reserved. The school is located at 7416 N. Ridge in Chicago. For more information call 764-5715.

Weight Control Group

A Weight Control support group dedicated to those who are 20 or more pounds overweight is being offered at the LifeCenter on the Green, 5145 N. California, at 6:30 on Tuesdays from March 22 to April 26.

Members of the group will learn about the process of change and begin to make positive lifestyle changes with the help of professional guidance and peer support. Don Timm, Ph.D., director of the LifeCenter, will conduct the program.

Fee for the course is $30; $20 for LifeCenter members. To register call 878-8200, ext. 5680. The LifeCenter on the Green is affiliated with Swedish Covenant Hospital.

Parkside sponsors free lecture

Parkside Human Services Corporation is sponsoring a free lecture series. The series consists of eight lectures that explore important health issues. The next program begins at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 23 and is entitled "A Woman's Place is..." The lecture will be held in Johnson Auditorium on the lower level of Parkside Center, 1875 Dempster in Park Ridge, adjacent to Lutheran General Hospital.

Elaine Fleming, A.C.S.W. and Jeri Kaminsky, A.C.S.W., social workers at Developmental and Psychiatric Services, (DAPS) will give the presentation. They will explore issues that affect women such as stress and parenting. They will also discuss new and emerging roles for females in today's society. A question and answer period will follow the lecture.

For more information or to register for the program, call DAPS at 696-5880.

Parkside Human Services Corporation is a member of the Lutheran General Health Care System.

The New Cholesterol Guidelines

Though many people have a basic understanding of what cholesterol is and what it can do, they don't always know what to do about it. In response to this concern Northwestern Memorial is joining a country-wide effort to battle cholesterol through an informative lecture entitled "The New Cholesterol Guidelines" on Tuesday March 22 from 12 to 1 p.m., Galter Carriage House, 215 E. Chicago Avenue. Admission is free.

A registered dietician from the dietary department at Northwestern Memorial Hospital will be the speaker. The discussion will focus on the new National Heart Lung and Blood Institutes guidelines for cholesterol testing, what they mean, and information on how to make effective dietary changes to reduce elevated levels.

For more information and registration call, The Health Education Department at 908-7014.

St. Francis walking club

St. Francis Hospital's new walking club, the St. Francis Striders, offers people of all ages a safe and enjoyable way to receive the health benefits of walking. Beginning March 22, the Striders will meet at 6 p.m. each Tuesday to walk through Evanston's historic residential districts and along the scenic Lake Michigan shoreline.

Each session will begin with short lecture on proper walking techniques.

Entry fee for program is $5, which includes a St. Francis Striders t-shirt and other educational materials. The club will participate in a 5K walk on May 15 at the annual St. Francis/Kiwanis Classic race.

For registration and additional information, call 492-6170.

Every 'dog' has his day

Village personnel had arranged for the special "hot dog" luncheon after Hodge took three of Niles high ranking department personnel to a luncheon at a local hot dog stand. The high level luncheon meeting had been planned for a month and surprised Hodge guests decided to "get even" with the village manager.

Dr. Eldon Gleichman, School District 63's superintendent, (far right) smiles at the joke as he prepares to enjoy the roast beef plate lunch served all the other luncheon guests.

NI-Gas awards Mortgage Bond issue

Northern Illinois Gas Company (NI-Gas) today awarded a $50 million 5-year, eight and one-fourth percent First Mortgage Bond issue to Salomon Brothers, Inc. and Merrill Lynch Capital Markets at a price to the company of 99.36 percent.

The sale represents a cost to NI-Gas of 8.41 percent, said Thomas L. Fisher, president. The registered bonds will be publicly offered at 99.85 percent. The maturity date for the new issue is March 15, 1993. For the first four years, the bonds will be nonredeemable by NI-Gas.

Net profits from this sale of bonds will be used to redeem on April 11, 1988, the Company's $50 million 11 percent First Mortgage Bonds due March 1, 1993. NI-Gas will pay a redemption price of 103.14 percent plus accrued and unpaid interest to the redemption date. Registered holders of the 11 percent bonds will be notified of the time and place of redemption.

NI-Gas, a wholly owned subsidiary of NICOR Inc., Naperville, Ill., is a public utility principally engaged in the purchase, storage, transportation, distribution, and sale of natural gas.

Red Cross tells how to cope with spring floods

Residents of the Chicago metropolitan area are probably accustomed to the unpredictable weather trends that occur in our city throughout the year. But the flood disasters of August, 1987 and September-October, 1986 proved that many people are not necessarily prepared for heavy rains and other conditions that can cause floods any time of the year, not just in spring, says Alan Altheimer, Chairman of Disaster Services for the American Red Cross, Mid-America Chapter, in Chicago.

According to the Red Cross, on a nationwide basis, each year 200 persons are killed and more than $2 billion worth of property is damaged or destroyed from floods. The August, 1987 flood alone affected over 11,000 families living in the Chicago area and required expenditures of nearly $65 million, Mid-

America Red Cross Chapter and Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) records showed.

"Taking the necessary precautions and being aware of the possible dangers in a flooding situation can help alleviate or diminish property damage and injuries or deaths caused by flash floods," Altheimer said.

If you live in a flood prone area, the American Red Cross suggests that you follow these preparatory and precautionary steps:

*Verify that your home and family members are covered under flood insurance.
*Know where the main electric and gas switches are located in your home in case you have to find them without much warning.
*Keep a flashlight, extra batteries and a portable radio at hand.

If a flood occurs or is imminent in your area:

*Move furnishings and appliances to the highest level possible.
*Attach identification tags to your belongings.
*Turn off main electric and gas switches.
*If time permits, remove electric motors and oil and gas burners from stoves, furnaces and other fixed appliances and stow them out of reach of expected flood levels.

*Cover electric outlets with tape to keep out mud.
*Stack sandbags away from the outside foundation. (Do not place them against the foundation or the pressure of underground water may cause in basement walls.)

*If evacuation is necessary, take important documents, prescription drugs, eyeglasses, a change of clothing, special foods, toys and books for children and blankets.

*Listen to the radio for safe evacuation routes. Do not try to drive through water of unknown depth. If your vehicle stalls, immediately abandon it and seek higher ground. (Many deaths have been caused when persons were swept away by rapidly rising water while attempting to move stalled vehicles.)

All persons living in a flood prone area should be familiar with the following terms in the case of imminent flooding conditions, Altheimer advised.

*FLASH FLOOD WATCH means heavy rains may result in flash flooding in the specified area. Residents should remain alert and prepared for immediate action if flood conditions worsen.

*FLASH FLOOD WARNING means flash flooding is occurring or is imminent in the specified area. Persons should immediately evacuate their homes and move to safer ground.

The mission of the American Red Cross is to help people avoid, prepare for and cope with emergencies. The Mid-America Chapter covers a 3,500 square mile area encompassing Chicago, Cook County and five surrounding counties, providing disaster preparedness and relief, services to military families and veterans, and health and safety education programs for seven million people.

Roosevelt offers scholarship in memory of DP official

Mary M. Taylor, former chief administrative officer for the City of Des Plaines, passed away two years ago, but the memory of her dedication to municipal government continues.

It lives on through a scholarship fund organized by her professional colleagues, friends, business associates, village heads and former students. The Mary Taylor Scholarship Program is open to mid-career individuals seeking advancement and professional development in municipal and local government administration. The award includes six semester hours of tuition in Roosevelt's graduate public administration program.

Scholarship criteria include: academic standing, financial need, character and commitment to public service. In addition, the recipient must have applied for admission or be enrolled in the first semester of the Roosevelt graduate program.

Municipalities and local governmental agencies are urged to co-sponsor their employees in this program. "Indication of an employer's commitment to match or exceed the scholarship support is encouraged," said Hank Rubin, director of Roosevelt's Public Administration Program.

Applications and/or nominations will be accepted year round. They should be accompanied by an essay (not to exceed 500 words) describing the applicant's qualifications, an employment resume, proof of admission to Roosevelt or official transcripts from the college most recently attended, and a letter of support from the applicant's employer. These should be mailed to: Mary M. Taylor Scholarship Committee; c/o Director, Public Administration Program; Roosevelt University; 430 S. Michigan ave., Chicago 60605.

Public administration courses are offered at Roosevelt's Downtown Campus, the Albert A. Robin Campus in Arlington Heights, and at the Highland Park Hospital.

Additional information is available by calling 341-3744.

Caregiver information and support group

The Living-At-Home program, which coordinates services to help caregivers aid older people, will host a caregiver information and support group program.

Becoming a caregiver to a spouse, parent, or friend is often unexpected, but a common life experience, particularly for women over 40 years of age. There are stresses and needs for information that are unique to the caregiver experience.

The Living-At-Home program understands these needs, and will host a six-session group meeting to inform and educate caregivers, while also offering them an opportunity to share experiences. The meetings will be held Thursday evenings from 7:30 - 9:00 p.m. beginning April 14, at 2710 W. Devon, Chicago.

Discussion topics will include: Characteristics of a Caregiver.

Legion Auxiliary Past Presidents celebrate birthday

The past presidents of the Morton Grove American Legion Auxiliary Unit 134 meet on a bi-monthly basis for a luncheon meeting and social afternoon. A former leader of the large women's service organization takes a turn in performing hostess duties.

At a recent session, the birthday, that very day being celebrated, was saluted by the ladies of past president Mrs. Jeanette Hack, who resides in Morton Grove. Mrs. Hack was the head of the group for the 1971 year.

She is still active in the organization performing such duties as the Christmas Cheer luncheon chairman wherein a huge holiday party is held to derive funds to make the holiday cheerier for the still confined veterans, and acting as Girls' State Chairman, wherein a young high school student is sent to a truck city week's convention with a hundred of other teen aged women from the state.

Mrs. Hack is currently the Unit vice president. She has also served as chaplain and is active in Characteristics of Aging, Resources for Long and Short Term Care, Legal and Financial Resources, Role and Relationship Changes, and Planning for the Future.

The Living-At-Home program is new, and coordinates the services of six neighborhood agencies: The Council for Jewish Elderly, Five Hospital Homebound Elderly Program, Japanese American Service Committee, Jewish Family and Community Service, Metropolitan Chicago Coalition on Aging, and Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center. The program helps the caregiver plan and coordinate effective services.

The fee for the six-session group meeting is $12. For more information and to pre-register call Ellen Cervantes at 570-7065.

other civic and church groups.

This particular session for the ladies was planned by past president Mrs. Frank Selzer.

Mrs. Selzer, also, continues to serve as a chairman in the Morton Grove Legion Auxiliary. She has been and is the Visitation Chairman again, visiting the sick and deceased families of members, sending out commemorative messages and remembering special occasions of members. In the past she also maintained the Lending Closet of supplies for the sick citizens of the community to borrow without charge. These medical pieces of equipment were formerly collected by the now disbanded Morton Grove Nurses Association and turned over to the Legion Auxiliary quite some time in the past when Mrs. Selzer handled the chairmanship of this lending function. At the present villagers may phone to the Morton Grove Village Hall and borrow any such items as walkers, commodes, canes and other needed medical articles. The village office is presently handling the disbursement of this.

Regina's 30th Spring Benefit

Franz Benteler and the Royal Strings will be the featured artists at Regina Dominican High School's 30th Annual Spring Benefit at 7:30 p.m. Sun., Mar. 30 in the Regina Auditorium, 701 Locust Rd., Wilmette.

They will be joined by Regina Chamber Singers, Swing Chorale, orchestra, and performing arts students in "Metro Magic." Script and narration will be provided by Regina DeLeonardis, Edgebrook, with Suzanne Senese as musical director, Judith Speer as technical director, and Hope Phillips as art director.

Jim and Ellen O'Connor, Evanston, are general chairpersons of the benefit. Co-chairpersons are Cathy and Hanley Dawson III, Wilmette.

"The benefit, Regina's thank you for parents' efforts throughout the year, is specially dedicated to Sister Ann Fallon, O.P., president of Regina, who will be moving to a new post as treasurer general of the Adrian Dominican Congregation in June," said Ellen O'Connor.

Sister Ann came to Regina as principal in 1977 and was named its first president in 1983.

College seeks class clowns

High school seniors - there's still time to get into the college of your choice, especially if you're the class clown. Anyone from 17 to 107, come take your S.A.T. (Silliness Aptitude Test) at 1 p.m. on Saturday, March 19, when Steve Smith, Dean of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus Clown College, will conduct auditions for the crazy class of '88. Often referred to as the "Harvard of Hilarity" or the "Yale of Yucks", Clown College is the only source of new clowns for The Greatest Show On Earth.

Auditions will be held in the dance room of De Paul University's Alumni Hall, 1011 W. Baldeau Ave., Chicago. There is no age limit, but auditioners must be at least 17, high school graduate, and available to travel. No costumes or props are necessary for the auditions.

Clown College hopefuls will be asked to try a little improvisation, learn some classic clowning, practice pratfalls and maybe even sample some cream pie, clown style.

Though Clown College students major in mirthmaking, funny business is serious business at this unique institution of higher learning. The rigorous curriculum at the 10-week tuition-free Clown College has students attending class from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., six days a week.

For information, call Clown College at (800)237-9637.

Amlings earns Gold Award from landscapers

The Illinois Landscape Contractor's Association recently held their Awards Program at the Mid-American Horticultural Trade Show. The eight categories in the program included interior landscape installation and interior landscape maintenance. The only Gold Award for these was presented to Amlings Landscape Services, Hinsdale, for their interiorscape maintenance of the Kraft corporate office center in Glenview.

This extensive project includes approximately 1500 foliage plants distributed over several floors. Four technicians provide 40-60 man-hours per week on the project, which features a three-story atrium, eight 15' plus Ficus trees, and 176 blooming plants that are replaced on a rotational basis. Amlings also received the Merit Award for their interiorscape installation at the Marriott O'Hare Hotel, Chicago. This project involved the conversion of a six-inch-deep reflecting pool into a three foot raised planting bed. In addition, a deteriorated planting in a nearby planter was replaced.

The Awards Program of the IL-CACA presents an exceptional opportunity for those who earn their livelihood in the landscape industry to increase public awareness of the role of ornamental horticulture in environmental improvement. At the same time, the awards allow the landscape industry to recognize individual firms for the quality of their work. The second objective of this awards program is to encourage a greater public awareness for the environmental beautification among business, institutional and governmental organizations, as well as the homeowners public; and to promote a greener, more beautiful Illinois.

Niles man honored by Mapping Agency

A former Des Plaines, Ill., resident has been honored by the Hydrographic/Topographic Center of the Defense Mapping Agency here for his participation in the Agency's employee suggestion program.

Salvatore M. Cascio, son of Joseph and Lorraine Cascio of Niles, is a physical scientist in the Center's Digital Products Department where he works with an automated digitizing map making system. He has earned two awards for suggesting to management more convenient and time-saving procedures to perform this work. The monetary awards were based on the annual savings to the government for each suggestion. Cascio graduated from Main North Township High School in Des Plaines in 1976 and earned his bachelor of science degree in geology from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill., in 1983. He currently resides in Thurmont, MD.

He received cash compensation for that year of about $75,000 and the 14 person board of directors and executive officers received about $467,000.

Mr. McKee also receives dividends from the six banks which amounts to several hundred thousand dollars per year.

We report that preamble to illustrate what is happening in the business world today. We read about mergers in the financial pages of the newspapers but cannot relate to what is happening in the American business world. We thought by localizing this bank merger, you might get a better understanding of what is happening in corporate America in 1988.

What is happening among the local banks is the big guys are swallowing up the little guys.

In 1960, the Bank of Niles was created by local businessmen who had little or no experience in the banking business. They did the yeomen's work which got the bank off the ground and then the big boys came onto the scene.

In the sixties we were very supportive of the bank. We wanted it to succeed since it was an important ingredient to a growing viable community. We devoted endless pages of pictures and copy to the bank, praising the directors' efforts for their civic-mindedness as well as their business acumen. Like most residents, we knew most of the people in the bank and there was a close personal relationship with this institution.

Subsequently, the bank was taken over by a different kind of businessman who had great financial problems. The wheeling and dealing surrounding his era of ownership caused the bank to assume a very precarious position.

As the years proceeded new money came into the bank, taking over its ownership and righting a financial ship which was listing badly. In more recent years, the McKee interests bought the bank and it is now doing well.

Unlike the early days it is no longer a local bank. It is part of a six-bank group which it claims has greater money flexibility than the previous local banks. With this increased business efficiency the local closeness of its customers with the bank people decreases. There is no longer the rapport between the $200 depositor and the people who work there, which existed in bygone days.

Morton Grove Library News

A Prairie Gardener Workshop will be presented at the Morton Grove Public Library on Sat., Mar. 26 at 1:30. Mary May, a volunteer with the North Branch Prairie Project, will be the speaker. This is the last lecture presented on prairie restoration in Morton Grove and surrounding area.

Gary Wolcott, Niles resident and author, will discuss his book, "The Long Way Back" at the Library on Wed., Mar. 30 at 7:30.

What is happening in the banking business is happening in all areas of business. The Lerner newspapers, which were a family-owned operation for more than 50 years, were recently purchased by the Pulitzer Company in St. Louis. They also purchased newspapers on the southside and a third group on the far southside.

The Spectator and Champion newspapers, formerly owned by Bill Carroll, were sold several years ago to Time, Inc., the magazine people, and they've since sold it to Marshall Field.

Last year three large newspaper groups were interested in buying The Bugle.

It is the era of swallowing up small successful businesses by the bigger boys who represent large successful businesses.

The same impersonal relationships exist in the larger newspaper operations as exist among the banks. Personnel changes at the two aforementioned papers are more frequent as the management teams demand more from their people. And we're sure you'd have a hard time dropping into the office and chinning with the top guy or gal there. It's not the way it's done among the big boys.

The local nature of retail shopping has also decreased in our area. When the Golf Mill Shopping center renovated its property, several locally-owned businesses left the center and were replaced by the chains of corporate America. They rented smaller stores at higher rents with more updated merchandising methods which increased the flow of dollars into the community.

The bigger guys with the large sums of money invested are taking over the laissez faire free enterprise system. The little guys are being bought out or are moving out to be replaced by the computerized, modern management companies.

The Ma and Pa stores, banks and newspapers, have now become a part of the new corporate America.

I get the feeling the Joes and Janes of America have been diminished. They're working more, buying more, seeing more and doing more. But I'm not sure the quality of their life has improved.

I'm also not sure I'm adjusting well to this new era.

documents would be cleared with Niles village attorney Richard Troy before the permit is issued. Then if the matter goes to court, a decision will have to be made on the merits of the case," Salerno said, adding construction at the site would proceed pending outcome of the litigation.

Troy said Monday only an injunction filed by Edgebrook attorneys would delay the first construction phase at the Niles site if the matter goes to court. "Otherwise, a suit would not block construction."

In a precautionary measure, Troy has sent a letter to attorneys for Taxman-Trammell Crow calling attention to a provision in the ordinance that states the Niles site should be brought into compliance with Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) standards, and no permit would be issued until evidence is furnished to the Niles department of code enforcement.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) has been in close communication with AT&T concerning the ground water contamination at the Skokie site, according to Stanley Black, IEPA community relations officer.

Black explained the company reported there were several industrial chemical leaks during removal of underground storage tanks causing soil and ground water contamination near some buildings on the Skokie portion of the property. No contamination on the Niles side has been reported, Black said Monday.

"It appears via monitoring equipment that the industrial solvents are contained in the Skokie area and away from the Niles side. However, AT&T contractors doing work must inspect the entire site to comply with EPA standards," he said.

In testing procedures, monitoring wells are put in the ground to measure the extent of contamination from the solvent spill and underground water movement.

"The leak occurred on the eastern portion of the property near some buildings. Through testing, it appears the water movement is going in an east-northeast direction on the Skokie side," Black said.

IEPA will require a comprehensive report on the site, including any possible chemical remnants from the industrial work done by AT&T. In addition, the agency will want plans to review remedial procedures concerning extraction and treatment of the underground water. The report should be submitted by the end of this month, Black said.

"We want a comprehensive report on the entire site, along with the remedial plans. The agency, in turn, will determine whether the procedures are viable and will make a decision as to what can be done in removing the contaminants on the site," he said, adding the Land Pollution Control Division will oversee the cleanup project.

Black noted the IEPA does not consider the underground water a threat to public health, because it is not used for drinking water. "There is always concern where there are wells in the area that could be vulnerable to ground water seepage."

In this case, he continued, the AT&T site and surrounding area is supplied by piped-in Lake Michigan water. "However, the agency wants to make sure the contaminants are safely removed before any construction takes place on the site."

Tax reduction for Oakton residents

by Linda Zachow

Good news for residents of Oakton College District 535 was announced at Tuesday night's Board meeting. The Board officially authorized that taxes will be reduced this year from 22 1/2 cents to 18.9 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Despite the sharp decline of state funding for higher education, Oakton College has reduced its taxes 13 of the last 18 years since its inception 19 years ago. According to Oakton's treasurer David Hilquist, "Decreasing the maximum tax Oakton is allowed to levy (22 1/2 cents per $100 of assessed valuation) will save district residents $1,800,000."

In other financial news Hilquist summarized the state of Education and Building Funds Revenue and Expenditures for February:

"Revenue slightly in excess of prorate budget due to interest on investments, tuition, and chargebacks running in excess of prorate budget...All categories of expenditures are within prorate budget except rent and insurance." The Board also approved payment of February bills in the amount of $2,114,481.41 for all funds.

Trustees took action to replace an 800 foot stretch of College Drive, the entrance at Golf Road. The repairs are necessary to correct bumps and dips caused by differential settling. The work will be done during semester break between May 23 and June 6. Due to the fact the Oakton campus is built on a landfill, this section and other areas of the campus will need periodic repair and replacement. Oakton's President, Thomas TenHoeve stated:

"Soil engineers looking at the tennis courts in the same area as the road replacement said there will probably be organic activity for at least 20 years."

air conditioning system was shut down and management was advised to make repairs.

Firemen responded to a reported lockout at 7321 Breen St. on March 6 and found the homeowner had already gained entry to the house.

A fire alarm at a food store in the Golf Glen shopping center was attributed to a telephone company crew working on lines near the center on March 7.

Firefighters on March 8 went to 924 Courtland Dr. to investigate a report of a gas odor in the two-story building, and found a flame had gone out on a stove. Windows and doors were opened for ventilation and a check of the building showed no hazard.

Firemen responded to F. W. Woolworth store in the Golf Mill shopping center on March 8. The small fire caused by careless use of smoking materials by an elderly customer was already extinguished when firefighters arrived. Damage was estimated at $500.

A car fire at Harlem Ave. and Crain St. was extinguished on March 9. The blaze which started in the engine compartment caused an estimated $500 damage.

Firefighters on March 10 went to Uptown Federal Savings & Loan in the Lawrencewood shopping center after receiving a report of heavy smoke in the building. A check of the building showed no fire hazard.

earlier regrowth and restoration of this area. According to staff, the results of the covers will be very beneficial to the avid golfer at Tam this year.

The Tam Clubhouse has received a facelift this past winter, complete with new carpeting and an expanded food menu available to clubhouse patrons.

Beginning Apr. 1, Tam personnel will be available at the course to answer questions concerning the course opening, fees, times, lessons and special events. Also starting on Apr. 1, the course will begin validating golf course ID cards. Those interested in revalidating ID's should bring in two forms of identification (one a driver's license) and their 1987 ID Card. Residents of the park district may revalidate at no charge, while residents outside Park District (but in Niles Village) boundaries may purchase cards or revalidate cards for $5/person. Should you have questions about the golf ID card, please call Tam Golf Course after Apr. 1, at 965-9697.

Trees not only beautify our lives, they are essential to our survival. Trees remove carbon dioxide and give us oxygen in exchange, they muffle noise, filter pollutants from the air, discourage soil erosion, help control floods. Trees break the winds around our homes, saving heating energy in winter; and their shade serves as natural insulation against the sun in summer. Oh, and let's not forget the haven they provide for our feathered friends. - Trees simply are one of nature's "most remarkable inventions".

Debate swirled around the problems of definition. The Morton Grove zoning ordinance permits cartage and trucking companies.

According to Corporation Counsel Jordan Kaplan, Consolidated Freightways is a trucking company, not a cartage company. It is not listed in the C telephone directory under cartage or transfer, but in the B book under trucking companies and terminals.

Kaplan further pointed out this distinction is at the discretion of the customer not the phone company. Kaplan said Consolidated Freightways is an inter-state line without a permit for intra-state. They will not pass the criteria of having completely enclosed facilities. The cab switching has to be done outside and they will probably be storing cargo outside also.

Illinois Bell lawyer Bo Pritchard accused the board of "zoning at will." He felt the board was stealing property by taking away the cartage and trucking use of property. He said, "If the village can spot zone at will, they render property usage uncertain. Buyers will have to make guesses before deals are consummated."

He pointed out the condo owners knew this was an industrial area before they bought their property. He maintained there would be less noise and less traffic than under Illinois Bell to which there was a resounding chorus of "no's" from the packed audience.

Kaplan responded by describing the changing nature of the area. When Illinois Bell first went in there, Waughan and Dempster were the outskirts of the village. Now it is right in the middle, has become the village's busiest intersection, and a large B2 residential complex is directly across the street. Under Illinois Bell there was 25% less trucking and the facility was predominantly used for truck repair, mostly done inside.

Trustee Don Snieder asked why the Illinois Bell attorney was presenting for Consolidated and stated he resented Consolidated applying for permitted use before the use is approved. Snieder also described a run-through the company made last Friday night. He complained it was done at 8 p.m. when traffic was light instead of at 5 p.m. He specifically described the foul odor emanating from the diesel fuel and how it seemed to just hang in the air. He finished by stating, "We don't need a trucking company across from the condos."

Sid Condit, counsel for Consolidated, asked for a special permit to be included in the zoning variance. He objected along with Illinois Bell to an adding on of exclusion of carting and express companies without special permission. In response to Trustee Lew Greenberg's questions of "Why there when you knew there were residents across the street", Condit said their broker found the property listed as a truck terminal and that is what they thought they were buying.

Kaplan responded a lot of shifting needs to be done outside. Morton Grove ordinance requires all business must be done inside. "You are not a cartage company but an interstate carrier."

Everyone present agreed they were against the trucking company but became confused on whether they were for or against the motion that was up before the Board. The actual motion was to allow "Freight Terminals Without Maintenance Facilities" as a special use in the M limited Manufacturing District.

Irv Goldstein, an officer in the condo association, was in favor of the amendment only if residents would be notified as to what business goes in there. He, too, referred to the foul odor of the trucks.

George Rissman, master president of all 5 condo buildings, brought up the subject of safety risks for the village. He pointed out the change of traffic patterns and the fact that Consolidated sometimes stores hazardous materials. "What would have to happen if the area needed to be evacuated?" He also mentioned that if the company goes from 65% to 100% use of the facilities, how will this impact the pavement?

Several other residents all spoke against having a trucking company across the street with its resulting noise, traffic and air pollution.

President Hols very succinctly said it "would be smelly and noisy," a statement that met with resounding cheers from the audience. He said near a wooded area, the diesel smell will hang. "Morton Grove is like a postage stamp," he said. "It is 14 blocks wide and 24 blocks long. Do we really need a truck terminal right in the middle?"

Leonard Bloomfield, plan commission chairman, was not at the meeting. However, in an interesting turn of events, plan commission members Ronnie Brenner and Larry Shrybel gleamed on the basis of information said that evening—e.g. the diesel fumes hanging in the air—they would change their votes to no.

After a heated 1 1/2 hour exchange of positions, Don Snieder moved to vote not to pass the entire recommendation. Leavitt seconded. Even at this point it appeared the trustees were not too sure on what position they were voting and kept clarifying their unanimous votes to reject making the freight terminals a special ordinance.

In an almost anti-climatic move, Corporation Counsel Kaplan moved to make Richard Hols Village Board President rather than Acting President which met with unanimous approval from the trustees.

at no cost.

Burke said the developer, Jerry Biehl, was among various developers inquiring about Lawrencewood after learning about the condemnation suit. "I think a settlement is imminent," Burke said.

Mayor Nicholas Blase had a more cautious view of the Biehl offer. "Nothing is finalized. We have to know if he (Biehl) has the money to put it all together," Blase said. "The deal could fall through...and that's all I can say about it at this time."

Blase's lack of optimism could be attributed to memories of other developers who, in the past, expressed interest in purchasing or redeveloping Lawrencewood only to back out for various reasons.

Lawrencewood attorney Thomas Foran could not be reached for comment by Bugle Publications deadline.

The proposal was made at a hearing in the Cook County Circuit Court last Monday, with Judge Alfred Walsh presiding. Walsh heard the two sides at a Feb. 10 hearing that they should settle their differences and avoid a lengthy trial.

Burke said the village would have a say in the redevelopment of the center, as well as getting the six acres to consolidate village offices on the site.

According to the attorney, Biehl must present necessary papers and documents regarding assets and other financial criteria to the village before April 11 prior to the next court hearing.

Prior to the condemnation suit, the village offered Krilich $5.6 million for the shopping center which was turned down. Krilich has stated Lawrencewood is worth much more than that.

Niles is seeking the property so it can consolidate village offices. Other parts of the property would be used for commercial development and possibly a performing arts theater. Niles filed the condemnation suit last June in an attempt to upgrade the center.

Prior to the suit, a tax increment financing (TIF) district was set up around the shopping center to help pay for redevelopment expenses.

Under TIF, village bonds will be used to pay for the shopping center's improvements which would increase its value and increase the amount of property taxes it would generate.

After the shopping center is upgraded, property tax would be frozen at current levels for other taxing districts, and the village would use the increased revenue to pay off the bonds it used to fund the project.

13th District Illinois House

In a heated race between two Republicans for the 13th District Illinois House, early returns show Kevin Alexander in the lead with 1,917 votes and Scott Jackew with 1,368 votes.

The victor will attempt to unseat Democrat Ralph Caparelli who ran unopposed.

The district covers parts of Niles, and the northwest side of Chicago. The seat is for a two-year term.

11th Congressional District

Republican George Gottlieb, who lost to U.S. Rep. Frank Annunzio (D-11th) in 1986, tallied 11,944 votes in unofficial returns. His opponent Elias Zenklich received 4,383.

Gottlieb will oppose Annunzio in the November election. Annunzio received 53,794. The district includes all of Norridge, Harwood Heights, Franklin Park, Schiller Park, Stone Park, and Lincolnwood and parts of Skokie, Niles, Morton Grove, Melrose Park, Northlake, Rosemont and Chicago.

6th Congressional District

In unofficial returns Democrat, William J. Andrie of Chicago appears to be leading in a vote tally of 10,063. His opponent, Thomas Glosenger of Wheaton received 6,213 votes. Glosenger is follower of political extremist Lyndon H. LaRouche.

The victor will try to unseat incumbent U.S. Rep. Henry Hyde (R-6th) in November. He has served the district for seven terms.

The 6th District includes 24 suburbs in northwestern Cook and northeastern DuPage counties, including Park Ridge, Niles, Des Plaines, Schiller Park, and Rosemont.

9th Congressional District

Unofficial returns show that Republican Dr. Herbert Sohn of Chicago beat his opponent Jeanette Sarkesian of Chicago.

Sohn received 5,720 votes and Sarkesian, 1,712 votes. It was her first run for public office.

The winner will oppose Democrat incumbent Sidney Yates this fall.

The district includes Evanston and portions of Niles, Skokie, Glenview, Northbrook, Morton Grove, Wilmette and Chicago.

1st Illinois Senate District

In the first Illinois Senate District race in the Republican primary, unofficial returns shows that John Handzel, Sr. of Skokie received 829 votes and his opponent William Miceli, Sr. 837 votes.

The 1st Senate District includes parts of Chicago, Skokie, Niles, Lincolnwood and Morton Grove.

Illinois 7th Senate District

Metropolitan Sanitary District

For the three open seats on the MSD board, Democratic endorsed candidates James C. Kirie received 128,687 votes; Harry "Bus" Yourell, 185,999 votes and Joseph E. Gardner, 181,265. Terrence J. O'Brien had 150,627 and Frank E. Gardner received 117,583 in unofficial returns.

28th Senate District

Democrat M. Belgrad ran unopposed in the primary. Incumbent Robert Kustra (R-28th) also ran unopposed.

Illinois House 56th District

Incumbent State Rep. Penny Pullen (R-56th) ran unopposed in Tuesday's primary. Her opponent Democrat Bonnie Lindquist also ran unopposed.

At Maine Township Democratic headquarters in Niles Tuesday evening, Committeeman Nicholas Blase said the moderate turnout was about the same as in 1984. He estimated about 10,000 voters in Maine Township went to the polls.

Blase said he was generally pleased with the primary results. "Sutker won a victory and the party's endorsed candidates for the Metropolitan Sanitary District have a good chance of winning seats in the November election. Pucinski also could be a big winner", he said.

Blase and the Maine Township Regular Republican Organization.

"Judging from the results, people were more informed this time around than in 1986," Carman said. The referendum failed by 1,405 votes at that time.

With the tax raise, the cost to the average taxpayer would be approximately $12 on real estate tax bills, according to Carman.
