Court rules confiscated handguns as contraband

by Joyce Hoyt

Corporation Counsel Jordan Kaplan reported at the July 11th Morton Grove Village Board meeting that the court appeal by the Village of Morton Grove was unanimously upheld in the case of David Thillman who had been caught with a handgun in his car after a traffic altercation. The court held a handgun is contraband under the village ordinance and can therefore be confiscated, even if it was illegally obtained. Handguns may now be treated the same as drugs or machine guns.

From the Left Hand

by Bud Besser

The love affair sports fans have for their teams is a phenomena which defies analysis. The guys and gals who dig the ditches or reside on LaSalle Street all have this same fixation with sports.

Any Monday morning from mid-August until February, you can breakfast at Booby's, Jack's, Kappy's, Seven Brothers or any other coffee shop and pit stop, and you'll hear the troops expounding and complaining and eliciting all sorts of opinions about the Bears and Jim McMahon and his fraternity brothers who exposed their limbs to the previous day's mayhem.

Monday night, we found the ultimate sports nut. His name is Terry Cummings.

Sunday and Monday nights during the summer weeks, Schlitz Malt-Liquor hosts a summer basketball league at the Illinois Tech gym at 31st and Wabash. The teams are comprised of basketball players who have been the top

Niles follows IEPA rules at AT&T site

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) and the Illinois Attorney General's Office have recommended to the Village of Niles a series of environmental safeguards in regard to proposed construction activities at the former AT&T Teletype plant. Village officials have been considering whether to approve the start of construction on the Niles side of the plant, located at 5555 Touhy Avenue. IEPA was provided for non-industrial purposes." The IEPA letter to Niles suggests a set of conditions under which construction in this area might be carried out without disturbing portions of the plant.

IDOT to begin resetting rail traffic lights

The Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) will upgrade traffic signals to implement safety changes near two problem railroad crossings in Niles, which were the scenes of two fatal car-train accidents this year, according to Niles Police Chief Ray Giovannelli.

IDOT officials recently informed the village that work would begin soon at Lehigh Ave. and Howard St. and Touhy Ave. and Lehigh St., with a completion date of Sept. 1. Cost of the project is $5,500 to be borne by the state.

Giovannelli said he was happy about IDOT's decision to implement safety changes at the two intersections. "It will help prevent confusion by motorists trying to make a left turn and into an oncoming train," he said. "It's not a 100 percent solution because there are always the daredevils who try to beat trains."

According to Patrick Pesole, IDOT office technician, traffic signals will be reset at the corners of Lehigh and Howard and Touhy and Lehigh. With the change, the signals will turn red for southbound Lehigh, as well as Touhy and Howard, upon the approach of a train.

Currently, the lights turn green for Lehigh at both intersections when a train approaches and red for east-west streets. IDOT has

A public hearing is scheduled for 6:55 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 10 on a tentative appropriations and budget ordinance for the Niles Public Library District with district expenditures estimated to be more than $2,000,000 this coming fiscal year, according to board action at a July 8 meeting. The hearing will be held at the library, 6960 Oakton St.

Specifically, the library is requesting appropriations of $3,214,500 and an operating budget of $2,235,471. According to state law, the library must appropriate more funds than are necessary for operating expenses.

As the first year of the library's five year plan, several major additions or improvements may be added at a cost of about $308,000. They include resurfacing and landscaping of the parking lot adjacent to the library as well as the former lot, electrical work and a neon sign for a total of about $150,000. Court yard repair is estimated to be about $10,000 while tuckpointing along the east side of the building will be about $3,500.

In addition, the library plans to add a computerized cataloging system consisting of four components that will cost about $27,390.

Board members hope to increase the staff by hiring two additional librarians, four and one-half time clerks and one page to total about $94,257.

Also, a quarterly newsletter will cost a total of $14,371 for postage and printing.

A breakdown of the total tentative budget includes: salaries, $916,151; library materials, $388,870; operating expenses, $191,000; mobile units, $197,700; employee fringe benefits, $94,000; miscellaneous, $259,250; board contingencies, $128,000; expense outstanding, $21,600 and special fund items, $75,900.

Library Administrator D.J. McKenzie reported to the board that annual measures of library service showed gains during the 1987-1988 year from the 1986-1987 year. Ongoing measures of service must be presented to state in order to qualify for certain grants.

According to present statistics, book circulations for each person in the district increased from 4.98 to 5.68 in-library materials use received a 1.55 gain from 2.21 to 3.76. Persons requesting a certain

Dominick's subsidizes life-saving video as public service

As a public service to customers, Dominick's Finer Foods is subsidizing in their stores starting Monday, July 18, the retail price of a 30-minute home video that teaches viewers how to handle common life-threatening emergencies until medical help arrives. The video, Emergency Action, was produced by Chicago-based Access Video and is available nationally for $19.95. Dominick's is offering Emergency Action for $9.95.

"We think that we're contributing an essential service to the community by making this easy-to-follow video available at a special price," says Larry Nauman, Vice President of Public Relations for Dominick's Finer Foods. "Knowing the step-by-step procedures demonstrated in Emergency Action, the viewer may save the life of a loved one or even his own."

"Knowing what to do for common emergencies while waiting for professional help to arrive can make the difference between life and death," according to Stanley Zyldo, M.D., a pioneer and national authority on emergency and trauma medicine, and medical adviser to the American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care. He is currently Chief of Emergency Services, Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, IL.

Emergency Action dramatically shows step-by-step procedures for eight of the most common and life-threatening home medical emergencies. Emergency Action covers important emergency procedures for infants, children, and adults, such as:

- CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) for heart attack, drowning or shock

- Heimlich Maneuver for choking, to save others of yourself
- Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation for a person who stops breathing
- What to do for severe bleeding
- How to treat heat and chemical burns
- What to do for poisoning and drug overdose
- Staying alive if trapped in a fire and how to avoid breathing smoke
- Recognizing the symptoms of frostbite and the correct way to treat it

"The easy-to-follow demonstrations encourage viewers to practice along with the video. Even children can learn the techniques," says Zyldo.

According to Zyldo, a relatively small percentage of the population enrolls in first-aid classes, and research shows about one-third of what is learned is usually forgotten within six months. "Emergency Action video is a good memory refresher for these people and it is next best to taking a class for those with no knowledge of basic first-aid and life-saving procedures," says Zyldo.

Emergency Action was produced by Jan Brown, a former consumer affairs syndicated columnist with a talent for translating technical information into easily understandable language. Brown decided to produce the video when she became involved with a life-threatening emergency. Even though she had taken first-aid and CPR classes, she wanted to produce a video with updated procedures.

"I really intended to take a refresher course, but it always seemed inconvenient," says Brown. The convenience of her home exercise tapes prompted Brown to search for a home video on emergency care. "After discovering that no up-to-date, affordable tape existed, I produced Emergency Action. It's as easy to use as an exercise tape," she adds.

Zyldo served as a consultant for the video to ensure accuracy. "The video is based on the revised standards established by the American Medical Association in early 1987. Many of the emergency procedures with which people are familiar are no longer recommended and could be harmful," says Zyldo.

A quick action card recapping procedures featured in the video and an emergency telephone sticker are packed with the video. Emergency Action was produced solely by Access Video. A portion of the proceeds goes to the American Lung Association.

St. John Lutheran film series

Dr. James C. Dobson knows it's difficult for today's parents to keep their priorities straight. In "Turn Your Heart Toward Home," Dr. Dobson alerts parents to the threats kids face, and urges them to take a stand for their families, and turn to the values that make homes strong. In this provocative six-part film series, Dr. Dobson speaks openly about the issues. His front-line perspective inspires, compels, and motivates. The second film, "Power in Parenting: The Young Child," gives practical help for facing the common battlegrounds in child rearing such as bedtime and mealtime. This film will be shown at St. John Lutheran Church, 7429 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, (one block south of Harlem) on Sunday, July 17 beginning at 7:30 p.m. Child care for small children will be provided.

No need to pay for Social Security services

People in the Northwest suburbs of the Chicago area have been receiving direct mail solicitations asking that they pay $7 to join an organization that says it will provide many services related to Social Security. Thomas A. Curin, Social Security manager in Des Plaines, said recently.

First, Curin said, there is no need to pay any firm money to obtain any of the services provided by Social Security.

In return for the $7 payment, this firm offers to provide a statement of a person's earnings covered by Social Security, a plastic Social Security card, and a guide to Social Security.

Any person can obtain a statement of Social Security covered earnings without paying anybody. All a person has to do is call any Social Security office and ask for a request for statement of earnings form. After completing the form and mailing it, the person will receive the statement in a few weeks. This firm can do no more.

In addition, there is no need for a plastic Social Security card, Curin said. It is of no use for Social Security purposes. The Social Security number card issued by the Social Security Administration is the only official card and should be used whenever a Social Security card is needed.

People can obtain many publications about Social Security free at any Social Security office. Just call any office and ask, Curin said.

Free information about Social Security and free Social Security cards can be obtained by calling the special telephone number for the Northwest Suburbs, 823-0815.

situations. Taking care of an older person who needs help with everyday living is an enormous responsibility, says Audrey Cantor, one of the two social workers coordinating the support group.

The Council for Jewish Elderly was organized in 1972 to help meet the growing needs of older people and their families in the Metropolitan Chicago area. For more information and registration, call Audrey Cantor, or Judy Mitchell at 570-7000.

Cancer grant awarded to University of Illinois

The possibility that the consumption of alcohol over a long period of time may increase the risk of developing breast cancer is the subject of a new research grant awarded to a scientist at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign by the American Institute for Cancer Research. Keith W. Singletary, Ph.D., Assistant Professor in the Division of Foods and Nutrition, has received $64,887 for a two-year study on the effect alcohol may have on breast cancer risk.

About one in ten American women will develop breast cancer during her lifetime. Recently, alcohol consumption has been identified as a possible risk factor for this cancer in women. With this new grant, Dr. Singletary will be investigating whether long-term alcohol consumption affects the growth of normal breast tissue, and at which stage in the development of breast cancer alcohol may have an effect.

This research project is one of eleven new grants awarded by the American Institute for Cancer Research during its Spring research grant cycle. Almost $1 million has been committed by the Institute so far this year for cancer study at universities and hospitals across the country.

The American Institute for Cancer Research is a national, non-profit organization which has focused its research and education programs on the relationship between diet and cancer. Current scientific knowledge links as much as 30 to 60 percent of all cancers to our diets, and researchers have estimated that as much as 35 percent of cancer deaths could be eliminated through simple dietary changes.

The American Institute for Cancer Research has committed more than $3.2 million over the past four years to research on diet and its relationship to cancer prevention, cancer treatment and the cancer process. In addition, the Institute provides a wide range of education programs on cancer prevention for both consumers and health professionals.

Additional information on the Institute's cancer research program is available by writing to: American Institute for Cancer Research, Director of Grants, Washington, D.C. 20069.

Openings are still available in the Bonim Program (Builders), held Thursday mornings from 9:30-11 a.m., for children who will be 2 years of age by Sept. 1, 1988, accompanied by a parent. The Kadima Program (Forward), has openings for children who turned 2 on or before Apr. 1, 1988. This transitional nursery school class is the first experience for most of the children, and is held Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9:30-11 a.m. Both programs, in their second year at Beth Emet, emphasize socialization in a small group, providing opportunities for exploring a variety of experiences including storytime, outdoor and indoor free play, art and music activities all within a Jewish environment. Pre-registration for both programs is required.

The Shabbat Afternoon Program at Beth Emet, now in its 4th year, is for children 4 and 5 years of age. The program offers exciting activities to familiarize the child with the synagogue, Shabbat and the variety of Jewish holiday celebrations and rituals. The program is held Fridays, from 1-2:30 p.m. Pre-registration is required.

Beth Emet also offers a Drop-In for children newborn through age 3. A non-structured weekly program, the children play, while parents share advice and support on a wide range of parenting and religious issues. Staffed by synagogue volunteers, the charge is $2 per family, no registration is required.

Our Nursery School Classes, for children 3-5, which meets 3 and 5 days per week are filled. We are waiting for families at this time. Please inquire about these programs if you are interested.

The commitment to education throughout one's life has always been a basic tenet of Judaism. At Beth Emet, the early childhood programs introduce the continuum of Jewish educational opportunities. The early childhood program focuses on the developmental theory of early childhood education. We recognize both the uniqueness of each child and their participation in the group process. Combined with play and exploration, the child and family build a strong foundation of Jewish identity through the celebration of the Sabbath, the cycle of Jewish holidays, and our Jewish heritage. This positive experience for young children can strengthen their attitude toward Jewish learning throughout their lives. Beth Emet also invites and encourages parent participation in all its programs.

Burglars

drill safe in restaurant

Persons unknown gained entry to a pizza shop in the 9100 block of Milwaukee Ave. on July 3.

According to police reports, the manager went to the restaurant in the morning, and in the process of opening the door with a key, the lock cylinder fell out. He then entered through a kitchen door.

A check showed the offenders ransacked a file cabinet, but nothing was found missing. They then opened a cash register and removed two keys used to operate the safe located under the counter.

According to police reports, the offenders did not know that using the keys activates a 10-minute timer which automatically opens a safe. They proceeded to drill the door open when the keys didn't work.

Taken from the safe was $400 in currency and $565 from the previous night's receipts. Police recovered a paper cup half full of soda on the floor next to the safe.

The offender was observed giving the cashier a case of soft drinks and a box containing a desk top file. The cashier rang up the items and the offender attempted to put the box in a shopping cart, at which time a bagger tried to help and became suspicious of the weight of the box.

When the subject saw the manager approaching, he threw a $100 bill at the cashier, grabbed the box and ran to the back shopping area with several security men in pursuit.

He was found standing near the box in an aisle of the shopping area and a check showed the box contained 22 Sony micro discs totaling $220.

He was released on $500 bond pending an Aug. court date.

An Indiana man was arrested for battery and retail theft on June 22.

A Sears security agent observed the offender stuffing women's clothing worth a total of $350 in a bag. When security agents approached, he dropped the bag and ran out the store in the parking lot where he was caught. While taking him into custody, the subject kicked and shoved the agents until he was subdued.

A bicycle worth $745 was stolen in front of a store in the 8700 block of Dempster on July 4.

The driver then bumped the victim with his car and more words were exchanged between the two, at which time, the man got out of the car and pushed the victim onto the ground. The offender then entered his vehicle and proceeded west on Oakton.

I Bet You Didn't Know

By Jim Jennings
Here's a surprising fact... Although Wade Boggs is one of the top hitters in big league baseball today, leading the American League in batting in 4 of the last 5 years, he spent 6 full seasons in the minors before anyone would give him a chance in the majors... Boggs played in the minors from 1976 through 1981 and wasn't protected in the minor league draft, so anybody could have had him... The Red Sox brought Boggs up in 1982... He hit .349 that year and has been a great hitter ever since.

Did you know that a major league baseball manager was once replaced after just ONE game at the beginning of a season? It happened in 1960 when the Philadelphia Phillies lost their opening game of the year... Manager Eddie Sawyer was then replaced by Gene Mauch.

One of the most amazing and little-known records in big league baseball was set by Ed Roebuck of the Dodgers between 1960 and 1962... Roebuck appeared as a pitcher in 80 straight games without ever losing a game... During that streak, Roebuck recorded 12 victories and was never tagged with a loss in any of those 80 games.

The Nuggets will be representing Niles in the best way they can, staying on their best to win, but always displaying good sportsmanship, honor and dignity. This is the first time the Nuggets will be traveling and staying overnight and we are filled with great expectations.

Come out and support the community and catch some of that Nugget Fever!

Capparelli & McAuliffe support Chicago White Sox

The Chicago White Sox may find their decision to stay in the city of Chicago much easier under a bill supported by State Representative Ralph C. Capparelli (D-13th) and passed by the General Assembly late Thursday night.

Capparelli stressed the fact that the proposal does not call for any new taxes on Illinois residents. "The Sports Authority will generate funds for the construction of a new stadium through money collected from the Hotel/Motel tax which was passed two years ago in 1986," Capparelli said. "This tax which is levied on Hotels and Motels within the boundaries of the city of Chicago."

St. Petersburg, Florida and the state of Florida have been waging an all-out attempt to acquire the White Sox. Incentives have been given in hopes of luring the team south.

"Florida and other states have been offering incentives because they realize the importance of a Major League baseball team in their state," McAuliffe added. "It is both economical and traditional for Chicago to maintain two big league ball clubs. While promoting tourism to our city, the Sox also generate jobs and over $100 million into the state economy."

Capparelli said, "I felt that the White Sox will accept the new stadium proposal and Chicago will continue to stand in an elite class of cities by providing a home for two professional baseball teams."

Safe use of barbecue grills

Chief Farberman of the North Maine Fire Department has issued an information bulletin concerning the safe use of Barbecue Grills. The North Maine Fire Department is urging all residents of the Fire District to use care when barbecuing. Safety is the responsibility of the individual and if they heed these safety precautions it is hoped that they will have a safe and sane summer season.

The proper use of barbecues is necessary to insure that the operator and the area around the barbecue will be safe.

The North Maine Fire Department is suggesting that the following procedures be followed when using an outdoor barbecue:

Yard - Be sure that all equipment is in working order and is clean.

Be sure that the area around the barbecue is clean of debris and combustibles.

Be sure not to use any type of charcoal lighter fluid on the coals after the fire has started.

Be sure that a water supply is near at hand and usable.

When finished, dispose of the coals properly: Wait until they are cold before removing. Do not put hot coals in the garbage. Do not put hot coals on the hot barbecue into the house, garage or storage shed.

Be sure to properly store charcoal and lighter fluid so it is out of the reach of children or contact with open flame.

If using a propane gas type grill, be sure that the tank's safety valve is working, that the fittings are correct and tight, and that it is properly turned off and allowed to cool before covering.

Keep open flame, stored combustibles and flammables away from the tank. Never allow children to operate the grill.

Using a charcoal or propane operated barbecue on your porch or balcony is not recommended by the North Maine Fire Department - precautions:

NEVER allow the hot grill or any part of the flame to come in contact with a combustible surface, ie: furniture, curtains, clothes, floor, ceiling, walls or railing.

NEVER dispose of hot or warm coals in the garbage, garbage shoot, or store them inside.

Be sure that all equipment is in proper working order and are clean.

DO NOT USE any type of lighter fluid when flame is visible or if the coals are glowing.

Have an extinguisher close by and ready to use if necessary. Keep children away from hot grill, controls, lighter fluid and matches. Properly store charcoal and lighter fluid so as not to be in contact with the hot grill or available to children.

The safe operation of a charcoal, propane or natural gas barbecue grill is the full responsibility of the operator. Be sure that you take all necessary safety precautions. Accidents happen and are all preventable - you are the one who decides if the barbecue will be safe, happy and fun.

No new state costs for mandatory auto insurance

State Sen. Bob Kustra (R-28) says now that the General Assembly has wound up its business, it is clear that passage of his legislation for mandatory auto insurance is one of the major achievements of the session.

"Mandatory insurance has been a perennial issue in the legislature for 17 years," Kustra said. "It's something the people of Illinois have been wanting, even demanding, but until now there wasn't a plan that was affordable. One of the pluses of my program is that the costs of administering it are built through fines and reinstatement fees for auto registrations."

Kustra explained that the bill, which awaits action by the Governor, requires liability insurance for all vehicles. The law would take effect next July, and persons who fail to carry the required minimum coverage could be fined $500 and lose their auto registrations for two months. Repeat offenders would pay $1,000 and their auto registration would be suspended for four months. After a suspension, a reinstatement fee would be charged.

"Not since 1975 has a mandatory insurance law been approved by both Houses," Kustra pointed out. "And that one was a victim of the Governor's veto, because of its cost to the state. As a member of the Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committees, I knew that the state couldn't afford an expensive program, so I made sure this one would be self-supporting, through the fines."

Kustra predicted that his legislation (HB 3900) will be easy to administer, because all responsibility is placed with the Secretary of State. "Previous bills would have had one agency enforcing and another running checks on enforcement, which would mean that a lot of uninsured motorists would never be caught," he noted. "My bill allows police to check for compliance at the scene of an accident or when they stop a motorist for some other violation. The Secretary of State would also run random checks, just as the IRS conducts random audits."

Kustra said 39 other states already require motorists to have liability insurance. "About two million of our seven million drivers do not carry insurance, but with this law, I expect to see that number cut in half by 1991. Drivers will finally be enforced to live up to their responsibilities to others who travel our streets and highways," he concluded.

See for yourself... a guide to healthy eyes

As a large percentage of the American population moves into its middle or elderly years, vision changes due to aging are affecting an increasing number of people. These changes may be as minor as needing glasses to read the fine print or as significant as cataract removal and intraocular lens implantation or treatment of glaucoma.

"Each year, about 50 percent of new cases of blindness occur in the elderly," said Melvyn A. Gerstein, M.D., an ophthalmologist at Northshore Eye Center, a Medicare-approved facility in Chicago. "Nearly half of these could have been prevented by early detection and treatment."

The effects of the aging eye are more noticeable by the time most people reach age 40. At this time, the lens begins to lose its elasticity and develops problems switching back and forth to focus from far objects to near objects. The inability to adjust is called presbyopia. By age 50, nearly 100 percent of Americans experience some form of presbyopia.

"There is no exercise or medication which will reverse presbyopia," explained Dr. Gerstein. "In order for the eye to focus, reading glasses or bifocals are prescribed. About every two years, new glasses are required to overcome the continuing effect of aging."

Among the more serious diseases of the eye common in the elderly are glaucoma, cataracts and macular degeneration. Nearly two million people over age 65 are affected by glaucoma. Glaucoma, the build-up of excess fluid in the eye, causes blindness if not treated early and properly. Although glaucoma has no early symptoms, it can be diagnosed through a routine eye examination.

Treatment of glaucoma includes medication to lower the eye pressure, or in more serious cases, laser treatment. "Other causes of blindness in senior citizens are macular degeneration and vision loss linked to diabetes," said Robert M. Stein, M.D., ophthalmologist and partner at Northshore Eye Center. "In macular degeneration, the macula, or central area of the retina, deteriorates leaving the eye unable to clearly see objects straight ahead."

"Although patients suffering from macular degeneration cannot expect to regain their vision, new methods of examination and early treatment with a laser have successfully reduced vision losses in some patients."

Laser treatment is also being used to treat diabetic patients suffering from changes in the retina. Diabetes can affect the eyes through leaking blood vessels which causes detachment of the retina.

The most common disorder of the eye in elderly patients is cataracts. Cataracts are the cloudiness that develops in the lens and reduces vision. They are Rose Jacobs lives alone at the age of 85, but she and her family aren't worried about her getting sick and being unable to reach help by telephone. She can summon emergency assistance from any room in her NorthSide apartment, just by pressing a button on a small transmitter she wears on her wrist. She is among an increasing number of older people enrolled in Weiss Hospital's new "Well Elderly Care Continuity" electronic emergency notification system, bringing immediate help in response to an emergency call 24 hours a day.

Sonia Rodriguez, who coordinates the program, says, "Care Continuity enables a person to notify the Center and receive response within 60 seconds. Many life-saving rescues have been possible because help arrived on the scene within three or four minutes. Weiss Hospital is offering this low-cost service because we believe that the support, reassurance and ability to summon help in a medical emergency is vital to the patient's well-being and independence at home."

When a person enrolls in the program, she explained, a small unit, or Communicator, is installed in the home, linking the patient to a regional Support Center via toll-free telephone lines. The patient is provided with a special, small lightweight wrist unit to wear at all times. The tiny transmitter's range is approximately 200 feet, so the patient can activate the system from any room in the house, or even from the front yard.

"If a medical emergency occurs at home, the patient simply presses the recessed button on the unit and a special signal is sent to the Support Center. The Center dispatcher reviews data pertaining to the patient appearing on the computer screen at the Center as soon as the patient signals for help. The data includes information about the patient's vital medications, allergies, directions to the house, access information, and the names and phone numbers of those who are to be contacted in an emergency. The dispatcher then immediately notifies either the paramedics, or the patient's designated relative, friend or neighbor to render assistance. Help can be dispatched within 60 seconds."

The patients and their families agree. According to Mrs. Jacobs, "I feel safer and more secure with this service. It really gives me peace of mind to know that if I have a problem, someone will come to help me." Her daughter added, "If we didn't have Care Continuity for my mother, we would probably need to consider hiring a full-time companion. This way, Mom can stay as independent as possible, and we know she has access to emergency help 24 hours a day."

The Care Continuity program is coordinated by the hospital's Social Work Services Department. Cost of the service is $30 per month. Arrangements for service may be obtained by calling Ms. Rodriguez, at 878-8700, Ext. 1850.

Mount Sinai North opens respite care unit

Mount Sinai Hospital North announces the opening of the first Respite Care Unit on the city's Far North Side, Friday, July 15.

The Unit, located within the hospital facility at 2451 West Howard, Chicago, is specially designed to care for elderly, disabled or pre/post-surgical persons for short periods of time so that primary care-givers can attend to their own needs.

According to Jean Goldman, Director of Social Services, Mount Sinai Hospital North, "Caregivers can feel confident leaving family members in the care of medical professionals. Practically every major medical specialty, including X-ray, CAT scan, Intensive Care Coronary Unit and surgery are close at hand should an emergency arise. Furthermore, the hospital is staffed to provide activity therapy and other forms of diversion to make each stay as comfortable as possible."

The Mount Sinai Respite Care Unit is open to guests on weekends and offers two levels of care. Custodial Care is available for individuals who require minimal nursing supervision, but benefit from the comfort and security a hospital setting provides. Intermediate Care is available for guests who require more assistance, such as bathing aid, light incontinent care, minimal tray set-up and ambulation assistance.

The guest rooms, located on three North, have recently been refurbished to make guests feel at home. Televisions and

Dentist provides care on wheels

Two days a week, dentist Kenneth Freedman is on the road making housecalls.

At a time when most healthcare professionals find the time and cost involved in making housecalls prohibitive, Freedman is devoting two days of his busy practice to delivering dental care to senior citizens.

Freedman, chairman of Geriatric Dentistry at the University of Illinois, takes his senior students with him as he makes the rounds of nursing homes and nutritional centers and visits the homebound in the Dodge van.

"Many senior citizens don't think they need dental care. They have so many other problems that their teeth aren't important to them," Freedman told colleagues attending the 36th annual meeting of the Academy of General Dentistry in Chicago.

Only one in five senior citizens have visited the dentist in the last year, Freedman said. Two most common reasons seniors do not go are: 1) difficulty getting to the dentist and 2) inability to afford dental care on a fixed income.

As a result, Freedman often hears from senior citizens who are experiencing some pain because of a dental problem.

Freedman said that with his portable equipment he can do anything he can do in a dentist's office.

"One thing nursing homes seem to have in common is that they all have a beauty shop," Freedman said. With the chair that leans back, the sink and electrical outlets, he can quickly set up a makeshift dental office amid the hair dryers.

Freedman said that as the number of senior citizens who have their own teeth increases, getting dental care to them is becoming more of a problem. Last year Freedman and his University of Illinois students saw 787 senior citizens and treated 355 of them. But, his work doesn't come close to meeting the need for dental care. "The problem is financial; Medicaid or public aid reimbursement for dental care," he said.

Contrast sensitivity test detects vision loss

The summer's bright sunlight or hazy days may cause you to have difficulty seeing. Oncoming headlights or very bright lights may also cause problems. Now, a new contrast sensitivity test is being used to detect vision loss.

"Many persons who are experiencing problems in various contrast situations have their eyes tested using the Snellen E test (standard eye chart) and find nothing wrong," said ophthalmologist Melvyn A. Gerstein, M.D., who treats patients at Northshore Eye Center. "The contrast sensitivity test measures their vision in real life situations such as bright sunlight, glare from oncoming headlights among others to determine if there is a reduction or deterioration in vision and what may be causing it."

The Snellen E test measures vision in a one contrast situation — black letters against a white background. People who pass this test may still complain of vision disorder in other circumstances. That's why the contrast sensitivity test has been developed.

The advantage of the test is that it mimics real life situations that impair a person's vision, which are not picked upon a standard test.

"We recently saw a patient with 20/40 vision, which allows him to pass a driver's test, yet, he tells me he can't see at night," explains Dr. Gerstein. "Testing for contrast sensitivity can determine if there is a disability caused, for example, by cataracts or something else."

In addition, contrast sensitivity can detect many neurological and pathological problems that affect vision. It can aid in accurate assessment of cataracts and glare disability, early detection of glaucoma, more efficient refraction and contact lens fitting, and evaluation of low vision aids and vision training.

The contrast sensitivity test is being performed in addition to the Snellen E visual acuity test at Northshore Eye Center for patients experiencing vision disorders. If you are experiencing difficulty seeing in any of these conditions, call Northshore Eye Center for an appointment, 973-3223.

For reservations, please call 864-6400.

Goodmans at North Shore

The popular husband-and-wife duo, Bill and Sue Goodman, have added a new dimension to their musical act and they will highlight it in their next performance for the senior citizens residents of the North Shore Hotel, 1611 Chicago Ave., Evanston, on Wednesday, July 20 at 7:30 p.m. A synthesizer, played by Sue, added to the saxophone, clarinet and drums played by Bill, has added immeasurably to their already highly-regarded vocal act.

The public is invited to join the North Shore seniors to hear this new sound at no charge. For reservations, please call 864-6400.

Seniors Helping Seniors

Retired persons who enjoy being of help to others are being sought to serve as Senior Companions. They would be asked to visit in the homes of several homebound neighbors.

The Senior Companion Program, funded by ACTION, the Federal volunteer agency, brings together some men and women who are over 60 and the many individuals in their communities who are isolated in their own homes. The Companions, who must meet a low-income eligibility requirement, are paid a tax-free stipend of $2.20 per hour, plus expenses and other benefits. "For the homebound there is a real advantage in having a visitor about their own age, who shares many of the same interests with them; for the visitors, they know they are making a real difference in a neighbor's life and earning money at the same time," said Sheryl Rawson, the Program Director.

Interested persons can learn more about the Program and obtain an application by calling the Senior Companion Program at Family Care Services, 427-8790.

New psychiatric unit for elderly

Lutheran General Hospital-Park Ridge (L.G.H.-Park Ridge) recently opened a new psychiatric unit for geriatric patients. The new 16-bed unit has been specially designed to accommodate the needs of the older patient aged 62 and older. It incorporates such specially designed features as more space for large meeting rooms, rails to aid walking and showers and bathtubs which can be used by people in wheelchairs.

The geriatric patient is different than other adult patients. Older adults have more physical illnesses. They require more professional visits and utilize the other services of the hospital to a greater extent. They also have special psycho-social issues which tend to be different from those of younger adults. For instance, older adults are more likely to confront loss of loved one, difficulty with retirement, decreased mobility and increased numbers of medical illnesses. In addition their response to medications is different so dosages need to be changed and side effects more closely monitored.

The unit mirrors a general trend in medicine toward more specialized care and reflects a treatment program for geriatric patients which has been in existence at L.G.H.-Park Ridge from four to five years. The decision to place the senior patients on one unit was based partly on the fact that staff felt that other people would feel more comfortable being treated with those of their same age. "Hospitalization can be frightening especially for the infirm," explains Daniel Anzia, M.D., medical director for the new unit. "We feel that our patients will be more comfortable being with other older adults."

The types of patients anticipated to utilize the new unit are those dealing with such problems as depression, mania, schizophrenia, psychosis and organic mental disorders. The average length of stay is expected to be two to three weeks.

L.G.H.-Park Ridge is one of a few hospitals with the resources to be able to offer this specialized care. The 30 psychiatrists on Lutheran General's medical staff will be working with a team of social workers, occupational therapists, recreational therapists, pastoral care workers and nurses.

"Another advantage of the program is that it will allow staff to develop greater expertise in the treatment of the elderly," adds Dr. Anzia. "Because the staff will have the opportunity to specialize, it will further their own professional growth."

For more information about the new geriatric unit, call the Division of Psychiatry at 696-5887.

Hearing aids ease nerve deafness

The House of Hearing Aids, Ltd. is celebrating its 39th year in the Chicago area.

Throughout the years, it has treated nerve deafness, a condition that the vast majority of persons wearing hearing aids suffer from. Successful hearing aid adaptation is almost a certainty when assistance is obtained while the loss is still not too great.

"While the subject is somewhat controversial, it is the opinion of many hearing health professionals that hearing aids have a therapeutic value," said E.J. Taheny, chairman of the board of the House of Hearing Aids, Ltd. and board certified by the National Board for Certification in Hearing Instrument Sciences.

"After all, it is memory for the meaning of speech sounds which allows us to communicate." It is believed that hearing aid use helps to keep this memory fresh. The person with worsening nerve deafness—who waits until the loss reaches serious proportions—runs the risk of weakened acoustic memory for speech patterns. Therefore, that individual will have more problems adapting to the hearing aid.

At the House of Hearing Aids, Ltd., you will find Illinois certified audiologists who can help detect the early signs of nerve deafness.

The 6047 West Belmont Avenue location, House of Hearing Aids, Ltd. has established a service facility with factory trained technicians. No appointments are necessary, and in most cases, hearing aids are serviced while you wait. This eliminates a several week wait and the use of loaners. People with hearing aids belonging to other domestic or foreign manufacturers may bring them to the center. However, they will be sent to an out-of-state service center.

The House of Hearing Aids, Ltd. also has three suburban locations, Arlington Heights, Glenview and Skokie. All locations provide such complete service as the testing, fitting and dispensing of hearing aids.

Swedish Covenant first in revolutionary back surgery

Doctor's orders to remove a ruptured or herniated spinal disc used to mean a ten-day to two-week stay in the hospital, a bill for several thousands of dollars and the trauma that accompanies any major surgery. Now, however, a new surgical procedure, percutaneous lumbar discectomy, has almost incredibly changed this situation.

"Percutaneous discectomy has revolutionized herniated disc surgery," stated Linda Rebar, clinical supervisor of operating room services at Swedish Covenant Hospital, 5145 N. California. "Some patients have the operation done as outpatient surgery and go home the same day, others might be hospitalized a day or two at the most. This obviously drastically reduces the patient's hospital bill and time away from his or her daily routine."

To date the procedure has been performed six times at Swedish Covenant. Drs. John and Spiros Stamelos, orthopedic surgeons on the SCH medical staff, did the operations.

"We were the first hospital in Chicago to do a percutaneous discectomy, and that was three months ago," explained Supervisor Rebar. "There have been a couple more done in the area since then, but I believe we have the most experience."

One of the other benefits of the new procedure is that the nature of the operation itself greatly lessens the stress factor that previously was associated with disc surgery. It is done with a local anesthetic and an IVA (intravenous anesthetic) to relax the patient, so the patient is awake throughout the operation. There is no general anesthesia. Also, there is no muscle dissection, bone removal or incision, except for a cut large enough to accommodate the needle that is inserted into the ruptured disc.

"A slightly larger dilator is inserted over the needle which is removed," said Ms. Rebar, "allowing a two millimeter incision to be made in the disc. With the use of x-ray control, a specially-designed probe called the Nucleotome is inserted through the dilator into the disc space. Then the work of removing the disc begins."

The Nucleotome is a hollow probe with a cutting knife inside. Small pieces of disc matter are suctioned into the tip of the probe and then are cut by the knife. The disc matter continues to be suctioned out of the probe until the procedure is completed which usually takes about 45 minutes to an hour.

"Patients who should not consider percutaneous discectomy are those who have had previous back operations; persons with arthritis of the spinal joints, or bone spurs that may cause a similar type of pain; and patients whose disc is so large and extruded into the spinal canal that it cannot be suctioned into position," stated Dr. Spiros Stamelos.

"The risk factors in this procedure, although present, are markedly decreased from those in other ruptured or herniated disc surgeries," confirmed Dr. Stamelos. "The simplicity of the operation and the minimal incision reduce the possibility of complications. Add in the experience of the surgeon and the institution and the risk factors are even further minimized."

Some patients feel relief from pain immediately after the operation, and walking is usually allowed the same day. The only visible sign of the surgery is the band aid used to close the incision.

The Right To Representation

Most people who have business dealings with Social Security handle their own affairs with some help from Social Security personnel. So our aim is to make certain that those entitled to benefits get them, and we even help applicants establish their right to them.

However, a person who wishes to be represented in his or her dealings with Social Security may arrange for this. The representative may be a lawyer or any other qualified person. Social Security personnel are prepared to assist by providing a list of legal service organizations, such as the Legal Aid Society or the State or Local bar association, from which the names of attorneys may be obtained.

There are some limits on who may represent a person in his or her dealings with Social Security. First, the representative must be an individual, not a corporation or organization.

Second, a person cannot act as a representative if he or she has been prohibited from engaging in such activities because of having violated provisions of the Social Security Law.

Third, under certain conditions a current or former employee of the Government may not be able to act as a representative. Further details about this restriction may be obtained from any Social Security office.

Once a representative is decided upon, the appointment must be made in writing. A form for this purpose is available at any Social Security office. The representative's authority ends when final action is taken in the case or when the person being represented asks that it end.

More information about a person's right to be represented can be obtained by calling any Social Security office.

A caring senior enrichs a life

In 1986 a tall, good-looking woman, Josephine Rutzen, walked into The Center of Concern's office asking if there was a need for a volunteer to be a Senior Companion. She said she had recently decided to leave her duties as Program Chairman for a Norwood Park Club and, since she became a widow and had always been involved with people, she was looking for something new to fill her days in a worthwhile way.

She was accustomed to being busy. Sewing for herself and others came naturally to her because she had learned tailoring from her father in his occupation. She also had met and married Mr. Rutzen while working in the garment industry.

After World War II the government was looking for volunteers to teach returning servicemen tailoring skills so they could find employment when they reentered the civilian world. Josephine was chosen and spent many evenings for several years at Lane Technical High School doing this. She was also involved in volunteering in hospitals and active in local and church organizations.

When she came to The Center, a lonely woman who needed a caring person to assist her in maintaining her house and herself had requested a companion. Even though this woman had some idiosyncrasies and was known to be temperamental, Jo became her trusted helper in many areas, such as housekeeping and shopping as well as being a listener and counselor. She was outstanding in the extra, thoughtful ways she found to help to enrich this woman's life.

After two years of helping her in her desire to remain in her home it became obvious that a nursing home was becoming a necessity, so the need for a Senior Companion was supplanted by a Friendly Visitor one.

Now Jo continues to visit her even though she knows she will never be rewarded by the court-appointed guardian. Her generous and loving heart refuses to abandon someone who needs care and a friend.

Jo and her husband had one daughter who died a few years ago, leaving five children, all of whom have been a part of grandmother and now great-grandmother Josephine.

P.S. She is over 80 and drives in from Palatine to perform her volunteer commitments to The Center of Concern.

Be cautious during hot weather

Enjoy this summer's warm weather, but remember that heat, humidity and overexertion can be a hazardous combination. The American Heart Association of Metropolitan Chicago warns that vigorous exercise in hot, humid weather can cause heat-related illness and urges you to exercise sensibly.

"When the rate of normal body heat loss is reduced, heat cramps, heat exhaustion or heat stroke can occur. If not promptly recognized and treated, they can be fatal," said Dr. David L. Abrams, chairman of the Heart Association's Prevention Goal Committee and an assistant professor of clinical medicine at Northwestern University Medical School.

According to Abrams, symptoms of heat-related illness in an individual who is exercising or has just completed vigorous exercise include dizziness, faintness, headache, staggering gait, nausea, excessive fatigue, muscle cramps, confusion or agitation. "These symptoms should serve as a warning of an impending problem due to reduced body heat loss and dehydration," he said.

The Heart Association recommends the following guidelines to avoid the heat-related illness on hot, humid days when the temperature-humidity index exceeds 75-77:

1. Exercise in the early morning or early evening - avoid the hottest part of the day.

2. The long-held belief that you should avoid drinking water before and during vigorous exercise is wrong. Drink water freely before exercising and every 15 to 30 minutes or when moderate thirst occurs during exercise.

3. Stop exercising if you experience dizziness, faintness, headache, staggering gait, nausea, excessive feeling of warmth.

4. Exercise less strenuously than you would in cooler weather.

5. Wear light clothing to promote increased body heat loss.

6. Seek immediate medical attention if your symptoms do not subside shortly after you have stopped exercising.

In addition, Abrams stressed that everyone should be alerted to the warning signs of a heart attack. They include prolonged heavy pressure or a squeezing pain in the center of the chest and/or pain that may spread to the shoulder, arm, neck or jaw. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, palpitations, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur. The symptoms may come and go.

"If these symptoms persist for more than five minutes, seek emergency help immediately," Abrams said. "Avoid the tendency to deny warning signs. Minutes count when a heart attack strikes," he added.

Life After Retirement: Managing A Fixed Income

Retirement often means adjusting to a fixed income and altering one's lifestyle in ways never anticipated, says the Illinois CPA Society.

Retirement can radically change your financial priorities. You may no longer have to maintain a business wardrobe or pay commuter costs, but your credit card debts, mortgage or rent payments and utility bills are likely to continue unchanged. At the same time, your entertainment, travel, and medical bills may very well increase. In the past, you may have counted on promotions or raises to help you counter inflation or credit balances. But once you retire, your income may grow only by occasional Social Security cost-of-living increases.

Ultimately, retiring with financial security means handling a fixed income with intelligence and care. Start by examining your income and expenses and formulating a realistic budget. When you have an accurate picture of your financial capabilities, consider how your lifestyle works with or against your budget. Some retirees "live life to the fullest" and spend lavishly on travel and entertainment, without realizing that they may outlive their capital. Other retirees are exceedingly cautious, scrimping and saving whenever possible. Try to avoid either extreme.

For additional help in establishing a budget, consult a financial expert. In many cases, he or she will be able to analyze your economic situation and estimate how much money you can withdraw from your various investments each month without depleting your funds prematurely.

If, after careful consideration, you decide that your income is insufficient for your needs, don't despair. You still have options available. Take a part-time job. You can generally earn several thousand dollars a year without affecting your Social Security payments. If you have a vacation home, consider renting it to others for a portion of the year. Alternatively, you can convert a garage into a rental apartment. If you are living in a home originally designed for a growing family, investigate housing alternatives—say, a one-bedroom apartment or a condominium in a retirement community.

Although moving may be a frightening prospect, weigh all the pros and cons before dismissing the idea. After all, moving to another city or state where the cost of living is less expensive can dramatically improve the quality of your retirement life.

Another way to stretch your fixed income is by being aware of—and planning to minimize—your tax liability. Don't forget that pension income and IRA withdrawals are taxable. Take out too much money in one year, and you may end up paying more taxes than you anticipated.

Knowledge of the tax laws can mean more spending power. For example, the new law has replaced the extra personal exemption for people who are 65 or older, or blind, with an extra standard deduction of $750 for single individuals and $900 for married individuals. The amount of the additional deduction doubles for those people meeting both age and blindness requirements.

Medical expenses are still deductible, but only to the extent that they exceed 7½ percent of your adjusted gross income. Keep this information in mind, and you may be able to time annual checkups and certain foreseeable medical expenses so that you can take full advantage of the deduction. If you are considering selling your home, find out if you are eligible for the once-in-a-lifetime, tax-free gain of $125,000 on the sale. A CPA will be able to further explain the various tax benefits available to older Americans.

Dudycz elder abuse legislation receives approval

The General Assembly has passed legislation co-sponsored by State Sen. Walter Dudycz (R-7th, Chicago) establishing a state program to help older citizens who are victims of abuse and neglect.

"An alarming number of senior citizens in Illinois are being abused, neglected and exploited. The health and financial troubles that sometimes come with age make many older people vulnerable to abusive situations," Dudycz said. "We must provide a support system for senior citizens who have no one else to help them."

Senate Bill 1714 directs the Department of Aging to design and maintain a statewide program to assess alleged or suspected abuse or neglect of people 60 or older and provide necessary services.

"This legislation includes an important provision that grants immunity for people who responsibly report suspected abuse or neglect of senior citizens," Dudycz said. "If the threat of civil action is removed, people might be more willing to contact the proper authorities if they suspect senior citizens are being harmed."

The 7th District Senator also sponsored similar legislation in 1987, Senate Bill 1226 was passed by the General Assembly last spring, but vetoed by Gov. James Thompson because of its cost.

"The Governor vetoed the program last year because of its cost. Budgets are still tight this year, so we have stated in Senate Bill 1714 that a statewide program to fight elder abuse be implemented by the Department on Aging only as funding becomes available," Dudycz said.

Niles West senior named humanitarian

Joy Grossberg, a senior at Niles West High School, was selected as the 1988 recipient of the Ivy Lynn Chaplik Humanitarian Award. The memorial award was established by the Rubin Chaplik family to honor a Niles West graduating senior "whose practices and principles reflect a humanitarian heart." Joy showed much compassion for the people at these places and made a special effort to stay and visit with them," stated Tobey Sheridan, the Adult Advisor of B'nai B'rith Girls.

Grossberg's choice of elementary education as a career goal and her selection of activities indicate her interest in children. At the high school, her work with preschoolers in the nursery school of the Child Development course received high praise from the teacher.

Grossberg's interest in theatre spilled over into B'nai B'rith

Girls, a group in which she has been very active. She was instrumental in developing, producing, directing, and performing in the chapter's first traveling variety show. The show was performed at several nursing homes, a children's orphanage, and the pediatric unit of Lutheran General Hospital. "Joy showed much compassion for the people at these places and made a special effort to stay and visit with them," stated Tobey Sheridan, the Adult Advisor of B'nai B'rith Girls.

At the Skokie Park District, Grossberg has worked with children for the past year through the Latchkey program (school age child care), summer play park for children ages 3-5, and the Birthday Party Program for children ages 4-9. "Joy has done much to encourage and promote positive self-concept in so many of our community's children. I consider those that love, nurture and cherish them 'humanitarians,'" commented Pamela Surber, Joy's supervisor at the park district.

Niles North wins OCC contest

Niles North High School's accounting team captured 1st in Oakton Community College's 4th annual contest, with junior Brian Collender achieving the highest score in the meet. The 150-question examination tested first-year accounting students from 13 schools. Among their competitors were New Trier, Glenbrook, and Maine Schools representatives.

Though schools entered 10-member teams in the event, team scores were tallied by adding the top five scores of individual members. In the case of Niles North, players who earned the five highest scores were junior Brian Collender, seniors Stephanie Powers, Jasmine Suljic and Mathew Smith, and Junior Sasimar Sangchantr.

The victories brought more than accolades to the top winners. A medal, trophy, and a $250 scholarship toward coursework at Oakton went to first place winner Brian Collender. Again, three less points puts Jasmine Suljic in the seventh place, and Mathew Smith in 18th place. Both were honored with plaques.

Cancer grant awarded to University researcher

How vitamin A may help in the prevention of treatment of cancer is the subject of a new research grant awarded to a University of Chicago scientist by the American Institute for Cancer Research. Elaine V. Fuchs, Ph.D., Associate Professor in the Department of Molecular Genetics and Cell Biology, has received a two-year grant of $110,000 for a study on genes, examining the ways in which vitamin A affects the differentiation and reproduction of cancer cells.

Vitamin A is believed to be one of the most promising substances found in the diet for preventing or treating cancer. However, too much of some forms of the vitamin can be extremely toxic to humans. With her new grant, Dr. Fuchs will investigate how vitamin A interacts with human genes so that the future use of the vitamin in preventing or treating cancer will be based on its safest and most effective forms.

This research project is one of eleven new grants awarded by the American Institute for Cancer Research during its Spring research grant cycle. Almost $1 million has been committed by the Institute so far this year for cancer study at universities and hospitals across the country.

The American Institute for Cancer Research is a national, non-profit organization which has focused its research and education programs on the relationship between diet and cancer. Current scientific knowledge links as much as 30 to 60 percent of all cancers to our diets, and researchers have estimated that as much as 35 percent of cancer deaths could be eliminated through simple dietary changes.

The American Institute for Cancer Research has committed more than $9.2 million over the past four years to research on diet and its relationship to cancer prevention, cancer treatment and the cancer process. In addition, the Institute provides a wide range of education programs on cancer prevention for both consumers and health professionals.

Additional information on the Institute's cancer research program is available by writing to American Institute for Cancer Research, Director of Grants, Washington, D.C. 20069.

Large increase in summer enrollment at Oakton

A preliminary enrollment report shows that summer registration at Oakton Community College has increased significantly over the last year. As of June 13, the first day of the summer session, the headcount (including both campuses) stands at 5,714 compared to last year's 5,156.

Enrollment has gone up considerably at the College's Des Plaines and Skokie campuses. At Des Plaines, the total number of students enrolled is 4,570 compared to 4,122 last summer. The headcount at Skokie is 1,144 compared to last year's 1,034. The Full-Time Equivalent (FTE) enrollment has increased from 1,109 to 1,242 at Des Plaines and 254 to 279 at Skokie.

While the increase can be attributed to no one reason, both John Gagin, director of Registration and Records, and Robert Lawler, director of Enrollment Management, agree that the College's special marketing efforts and the popularity of touch-tone telephone registration have had an impact on registration.

"We have done a great deal of promotion to encourage four-year college transfer students and graduating high school seniors to take general requirement courses at Oakton in the summer," explained Lawler. "The support of our Board of Trustees in authorizing the expenses of recruitment and promotional materials has been enormously helpful."

Gagin points out that more transfer students are coming home in the summer to take elective courses. This, coupled with the convenience of Oakton's touch-tone registration, has added to the rise in registration figures.

"Forty six percent of enrollment is done by touch-tone telephone. Last year, it was 35 percent," Gagin said.

He also feels that students are taking advantage of Oakton's business service agreement and easy credit system (MasterCharge, Visa and Discover Card). The business service agreement, which started in fall, 1985, allows students to pay in-

Help plants during dry spell

The severe lack of rain being experienced in the Midwest is forcing gardeners and horticulturists to be extra careful about watering their gardens.

David Vismara, manager of horticulture at the Chicago Botanic Garden in Glencoe, says it's important to water using the most effective equipment and at those times during the day when evaporation from the sun and intense heat are minimal.

Vismara says it's important to not only plan frequency of watering, but to establish priorities as well. "Without water, lawns will become dormant, but will come back," he says, adding that they are a low priority at the Botanic Garden. Those items that should be marked as a priority are trees and shrubs which have been planted within the past two years.

"Those which have been planted within the last 12 months are at the highest risk and should be a top priority for homeowners," Vismara says.

The same holds true for flowers and vegetable gardens. Vismara recommends that plant material transplanted or newly planted in a garden is more vulnerable to the severe dry weather than items that have been in the ground a longer period of time.

Frequency of watering depends on several factors. In general, the newer plant material should be watered more frequently. Recently planted flower and vegetable gardens should be watered up to three times a week. By the same token, a well-established flower bed should be able to suffice on a thorough once-a-week watering.

Vismara says adequate mulching is a help during a dry spell, especially one as early as the one being experienced in the Midwest. "Using a lot of mulch helps hold moisture," he says, "and can be used for any type of garden." Effective watering is especially important as many suburban communities, as well as the city of Chicago have implemented, or are planning water restrictions.

To make the most out of limited watering periods, Vismara says the best time to water, if possible, is early in the morning when water pressure tends to be stronger. The second choice, he says, is in the evening when the sun and heat are considerably less than during the daytime. In either case, Vismara says watering is likely to be more effective because with less sun and intense heat, there is less of a chance for evaporation.

To achieve the best results from limited watering hours, Vismara says a root-watering system or soaker hoses provide not only optimum watering, but the most efficient use of water as well. "Overhead sprinklers may cover a large area," he says, "but they don't provide the soaking capabilities as soaker hoses or root-watering systems do."

Persons with questions about gardening can call the Plant Information Service at the Chicago Botanic Garden at 835-0872 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. daily. Questions about gardening may also be answered by visiting the Plant Information office in the Fruit and Vegetable Garden. It is open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily.

Home Equity Loans Provide Convenient Financing and Tax Break

By Richard Jahns

Under the rules of recent tax reform, the interest you pay on many types of consumer loans, including auto loans and credit card purchases, can no longer be deducted from federal income taxes. But the interest paid on home equity loans is still tax deductible, making them an ideal way to borrow money for almost any major purchase.

If you own a home, the new tax laws allow you to deduct interest payments on home equity loans up to $100,000. Generally, financial institutions will lend you 70 to 75 percent of the value of your home (which may have appreciated considerably since you bought it), less the remaining mortgage balance.

Home equity loans offer consumers a number of advantages in addition to tax deductions. These loans provide for easy access to large amounts of cash for virtually any purpose—home improvements, a child's education, an automobile, even vacation expenses. Most savings institutions offer competitive interest rates and long-term repayment schedules that make home equity loans an attractive way to finance a purchase.

The two most common types of home equity loans are lump sum loans, in which you receive your entire loan amount at one time, and credit line loans that provide for a line of credit up to the limit of your loan.

Credit line loans work like a checking account, with a line of credit instead of a cash balance. Each time you write a check, the loan is activated. You pay interest only on the amount owed and, as the loan is repaid, these funds become available for you to borrow again.

Although home equity loans are an attractive option for obtaining cash, you should plan carefully before borrowing funds in this way. Outline your family's financial goals and consider the household's financial security, health care needs, education, and standard of living.

Is it time to build an addition onto your home? Will your son or daughter need money for college this year? Are you anticipating a major medical expenditure in the near future? These are some of the things you may consider when developing your financial plan. You may need money for several important expenses, so you should set priorities which will help you tailor the loan to your particular situation and determine the best way to spend the funds.

Once you've decided to borrow on your home's equity, a good place to start looking for a loan is the financial institution from which you obtained your original mortgage, since it may offer a lower rate to current customers. Also, since most home equity credit line loans have a variable interest rate, you should find out from the lender how your rates—in dollars and cents—may fluctuate over time.

Before you borrow, ask the lender what your monthly payments on the loan will be and look at all your current loan obligations. As a rule, monthly payments on the home equity loan, plus all of your other types of loans, should not exceed 30 to 35 percent of your monthly "before tax" income.

To maximize the financial benefits of the loan, you should plan to repay it within a reasonable time. For example, if you use the home equity line of credit to buy an automobile, pay off that loan within three to five years, which is the typical term for an auto loan. Remember, use a home equity loan only for major expenditures that are in line with the financial plan you've developed. Never use the borrowed funds for unsafe or speculative investments.

Finally, read the loan agreement carefully and understand all of your obligations.

Home equity loans are easier to get today and offer many attractive benefits to consumers looking to finance a major purchase. Cashing in on your home's equity is an ideal way to borrow funds and still receive a tax break on your interest payments.

Richard Jahns is Senior Vice President and Regional Lending Center manager for the Cragin Federal Savings office in Chicago, which also serves the northern and western suburbs.

Edison files new summer rate reduction proposal

Commonwealth Edison today filed a new summer residential rate reduction proposal with the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC). The new proposal provides slightly more summertime rate relief than an earlier Edison proposal. On May 31, Edison asked the Commission to reconsider its suspension of the earlier plan. To facilitate ICC approval of lower summer rates, Edison has proposed the new, lower summer rate schedule.

Under the new proposal, summer electricity rates would be reduced immediately by about 13 percent below current rates and by about 25 percent over the next two years. Both proposals produce the same revenues in 1988 as current rates because the reduction in the summer charges would be offset by increased energy charges for the remaining 1988 non-summer months.

If the Commission approves the company's new plan, lower rates would be retroactive to May 16, when the summer rate phase-in began. The first bills reflecting the summer rate will be issued June 17.

Under the new proposal, this year's total summer bill for an average single family residence would decrease approximately $47. An average apartment resident would see a decrease of about $21. During the second year, these summer savings would increase to about $84 and $38, respectively.

Liberty Savings honors president

Liberty Savings board members gathered at a recent banquet to honor C.W. Smigiel as he celebrated his 30th anniversary as President of the 90 year old savings institution. Pictured from Business associates, political and community leaders, friends and family gathered to honor Chester W. Smigiel, President of Liberty Savings for the past 30 years, at the Lido Banquet Hall Tuesday evening. Smigiel has guided the 90-year old savings and loan institution for the past three decades through unprecedented changes in the financial services industry. Under his leadership, Liberty Savings has gone from a simple passbook savings and mortgage institution to become one of the strongest savings associations in the country.

Smigiel has been responsible for the traditional and conservative management that HAS LED TO Liberty's sustained growth and success. Under his leadership, the Association has grown to a $463,000,000 multiservice financial organization with four offices. A community leader, Smigiel served as President of the Illinois League of Savings Institutions and the Chicagoland Association of Savings Institutions. He had been an active member of the Edison Park Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club of Edison Park and of Logan Square and was Commander of American Legion Post 541, Edison Park.

Smigiel began working with Liberty Savings as an outside attorney in the early 1950's. The work interested him and he joined the staff in 1955. He was named President and Chairman of Liberty Savings in 1958. A former resident of Edison Park, Mr. Smigiel currently lives in Glenview; he is the father of two grown children. He holds a law degree from Chicago Kent College of Law.

Liberty Savings has four locations in Chicago. Headquartered at 2392 N. Milwaukee, there is a new facility at 6210 N. Milwaukee, and also offices at 7111 W. Foster Avenue and 6677 N. Lincoln Avenue. Liberty Savings provides a complete range of savings programs, mortgage and home equity loans, money market accounts and insurance services. Liberty Savings was founded in 1898 when a group of local residents on the Northwest Side pooled their money to form a savings and loan association. The name Liberty Savings and Loan of Chicago was adopted in 1939, and shortened to Liberty Savings in 1973.

NI-Gas wins Presidential C-Flag

Northern Illinois Gas (NI-Gas) has won the right to fly the red, white and blue C-Flag, the symbol of the President's Citation Program for Private Sector Initiatives. The flag, which bears the slogan "We Can - We Care," recognizes outstanding contributions to the American spirit of volunteerism and community action.

NI-Gas qualified for the C-Flag because of its involvement with the senior community. During 1987, the company focused on the use of existing aging service networks to carry information to older individuals in a two-county area concerning the dangers of cold stress. With experienced gained during the cold stress program, NI-Gas was able to coordinate implementation of another outreach effort called Gatekeeper. This program is designed to increase awareness of special informational and assistance services offered to elderly people through local agencies. These efforts will be considered for the top 100 Private Sector Initiatives awards and citations to be presented by President Reagan at the White House in July.

The Citation Program was established in 1984 by the White House Office of Private Sector Initiatives to recognize and stimulate extraordinary community involvement projects sponsored by businesses, trade associations and professional societies. It reflects President Reagan's belief that "private sector initiatives are more than a concept or ideology, they are a practical means of solving concrete problems."

In 1985, NI-Gas was recognized for extraordinary community involvement when its SHARING program received a citation as one of the top 100 Private Sector Initiatives. NI-Gas has since renewed its right to fly the C-Flag each year for its active involvement in various consumer programs.

According to William Taylor, president of the American Society of Association Executives, which administers the annual President's Citation Program, more than 1,000 applications have been received for this year's program. "NI-Gas joins thousands of other organizations which fly the C-Flag and proudly proclaim 'We Can' and 'We Care,'" he said.

Niles couple plan businesses in Hainesville

A self-service car wash has been proposed by Dorothy Ceisel and her son, Matt, of Niles, to be located next to an auto parts store on Route 120 in Hainesville. The family, who owns the Ceisel Construction Company in Niles, is purchasing the more than one-acre site that was formerly a bait and tackle shop. The project is estimated to cost between $450,000 and $500,000. The proposed building is of colonial design with a shingled roof and cupola. The facility will have eight or more bays for washing cars. The Hainesville village board is ironing out details on the plan with the Ceisels before approval is granted.

The couple also discussed possibly constructing a drive-through mini-mart in the village in the future. It was described as a small grocery store that patrons can drive up to and place orders for basic food and household items, then drive away with them.

A Chicago tradition, the North Dearborn Garden Walk and Heritage Festival, will celebrate its 30th Anniversary on Sunday, July 24, from noon to 5 p.m. Originally intended to open up private gardens in the Near North area, enabling the public to view horticultural accomplishment of urban home owners, the Garden Walk has expanded to a full blown festival, featuring not only the flowering gardens and the interesting architecture of one of Chicago's most historic neighborhoods, but good music, fine food, entertainment for all ages, and numerous exhibits as well.

Thirty gardens in full bloom will be open for inspection on North Dearborn Street, between Division and North Avenue, spilling over to North State Parkway, Astor Street and LaSalle Streets. The entire area will put its best foot forward for thousands of guests who annually enjoy this event.

The Chicago Architectural Foundation will conduct free tours of the area. A popular plant market will be on hand for those to take home an ornamental souvenir. The Chicago Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Dieter Kolber will perform between 1 and 3 p.m., and Anniversary treat, with entertainment also at The Three Arts Club, 1300 N. Dearborn Street. St. Chrysostom's Church at 1424 North Dearborn Parkway will present a carillon concert, with street entertainers drifting along North Dearborn for everyone's enjoyment.

For festival information please call: 312-472-6551.

Chapter 311, Vietnam Veterans of America, will be sending a group of members and families to participate in this latest Veterans Parade. Any Vietnam-Era Veteran, whether they served "in-country", or at some other place, or any interested citizen, may contact the Chapter for additional information on this "Welcome Home Weekend", in Cleveland.

Old Orchard Summer Concerts

The Lettermen light up the Old Orchard Gazebo on Monday evening, July 18 at 9:15 p.m.

The group's special style of harmony and ability to entertain keeps them as popular with fans today as in 1961 when they recorded their first hit "The Way You Look Tonight." Some favorites in over 50 albums made by The Lettermen include "Put Your Head On My Shoulder", "Hurt So Bad", "Goin' Out Of My Head", and "Shangri-La."

The third concert in this series includes the Chicago Orchestra under the baton of Arnold Brostoff of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on Monday evening, July 25.

All concerts begin at 9:15 p.m. on the stage located in the south mall. Free seating is available. Old Orchard Center is at Skokie Boulevard and Old Orchard Rd., just east of Edens Expressway in Skokie.

Young Performers Debut at Skokie Library

Imagine being a young musician and playing before half a million people with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra behind you. For Skokie audiences who watched the Illinois Young Performers Competition broadcast live on WTTW recently, the results of the competition were not surprising. For six reasons, they've been able to see these young prodigies perform in the Young Steinway Concert Series at the Skokie Public Library.

Carolyn Anthony, Library Director, mentions 16-year old cellist Wendy Warner who won the first place in the senior division of the competition this year. "Wendy was a participant in the Young Steinway series five years ago playing a junior-sized cello. This past season she was a member of the Diller String Quartet which played here last December. Marta Aznavoorian, this year's second place winner in the senior division, was a Steinway participant in 1985."

Jennifer Koh, the 11-year old violinist, who placed second in the junior division of the Young Performers Competition was a soloist this past year and will be performing in the upcoming season as second violinist on the May 7, 1989 String Quartet performance.

The upcoming seventh season will feature a performance by another of this year's Illinois Young Performers Competition winners, 18-year old Ingrid Gordon. Ms. Gordon placed third in the senior division with her marimba solo. Her scholarship winnings will come in handy as she starts at the prestigious Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York in September. However, she will be back in Illinois for her Jan. 8 performance in Skokie.

As of last season, the Young Steinway concerts are videotaped. Not only will this enable a larger audience to see the performance via the Library's Channel 22, but patrons will be able to check out the videotapes and view them at home. For example, two of last year's Illinois Young Performers winners, pianist Andrea Schneider and flutist Brian Davis, will soon be included in the Library's collection of Young Steinway Series performances on videotape.

Carolyn Anthony adds, "Young Musicians see the Young Steinway Series as an important addition to their resume." It has also gained the reputation as a "good luck" series. The concerts are held the first Sunday of the month at 3 p.m. The seventh season will debut Sun., Oct. 2. Thanks to Savings of America, corporate sponsor for the Young Steinway Concert Series, all concerts are free of charge to the public.

Audiences can now say they heard some of the finest young Illinois artists at the beginning of their careers, when they were Young Steinway performers at the Skokie Public Library.

Miami Bar & Grill brings Miami Beach to Chicago

While contemplating its transformation, Richard Gollinger, owner and executive chef, Miami Bar & Grill, 535 N. Wells, from the aged Chicago institution, House of Bertin, his thoughts ran wide from their source. Rather than retain a Chicago steak house which had decidedly seen better days, he decided to bring the best of Miami and the Keys to that gray stretch of Wells that ushers in the Loop. In the Miami Bar & Grill, River North has its warmest, most intimate and most delightfully different restaurant.

Gollinger took as key design elements the salt water aquariums which bring the tang of the sea to Miami Bar & Grill. An aquarist as hobbyist, Gollinger summoned his long and happy experience with aquariums to their present design and presentation. Key decor elements were brought back from research in Miami and the Florida Keys.

Because Miami Bar & Grill menu extends Gollinger's mastery of parton comfort. There's an easy range of fare from which to choose at both lunch and dinner. Because Miami Bar & Grill is the kind of restaurant to which patrons come back with pleasant anticipation, there is continuity but variety, as well. In justification of its name, fish and seafood have a featured role on the menu.

Hours are thoughtful. Lunch is served Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.; dinner from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. Dinner on Saturday from 5:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. and Sunday from 3 to 9 p.m. All major credit cards are accepted. There is valet parking. Reservations are accepted.

First Impressions

Pheasant Run Dinner Theatre, Rt. 64, St. Charles, continues its series of original dinner theatre productions with this new revue starring impressionists Louise Du Art and Ron Hawking. A cast of 18 singers and dancers, including performing waiters and waitresses, plus a four piece orchestra, are featured in this evening of non-stop comedy and music. Open run. Dinner shows every Friday at 7:30 p.m. and every Saturday at 6 and 9 p.m. $25 per person on Fridays and $30 per person on Saturdays. Reservations, call 584-1454 or (Chicago) 261-7943.

Des Plaines Theatre Guild holds auditions

Three couples and five chorus members are needed for the fall Des Plaines Theatre Guild production of "Baby." Auditions will be held at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines on July 25 and 26 beginning at 7:30 p.m. Singers should bring their own music if not singing a selection from "Baby," and wear clothing that allows movement. The cast consists of:

A college age couple; he plays in a rock band.

A couple in their early thirties, both athletic.

A couple in their mid-forties with grown children.

A chorus of three women and two men.

The show chronicles the changes felt by the three couples as they experience the challenge of having a baby. The Guild's production will be the first community theatre production of "Baby" in the northwest area. Catherine Davis will direct, with Harry Campagna as musical director and Nancy Uszler doing choreography.

Capparelli moves on School Reform Package

The beginning foundation for school reform in the Chicago Public School System has been poured according to State Representative Ralph Capparelli (D-Chicago).
In Springfield, the Illinois House passed a measure outlining a system which will create School Management Councils.
Capparelli pointed out that this is only the first draft and that further changes can be expected after arriving in the Senate.
"Parental and neighborhood support will increase under a plan such as this one," Capparelli said. "It is vital that parents of school children become more involved in the learning process if these young people are to benefit more from education.
Capparelli added the school reform package is based on the results of the House Democratic

Democrats unite in support of candidates

Nicholas Blase, Maine Township Democratic Committeeman and Chairman of the Cook County Suburban Democratic Committee, announced that Suburban Democratic Committeemen are united in support of Central Committee endorsements for candidates for county wide offices.
The Cook County Democratic Central Committee consists of elected party committeemen from 50 Wards in the City of Chicago and 30 suburban townships. The Central Committee normally interviews candidates and selects an endorsed slate for county wide offices. This year, however, with highly contested races expected for the offices of States Attorney, Clerk of the Circuit Court, Recorder of Deeds, and Commissioners of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the endorsement process has come into question.

Democratic Committeemen from the 30 suburban townships met Sat., Sept. 26 at the William Tell Inn in Countryside. By an overwhelming majority of 26-4, the suburban committeemen voted in favor of party primary endorsements. "Suburban Democrats are out front on this issue," Blase stated, "We want to send a clear message to the Chairman and the 50 City Committeemen. We are united in our belief that the slating of qualified candidates for office is a primary function of the Committeemen and the party." Blase indicated that he had sent letters to the 50
City Committeemen notifying them of the action taken.

Candidate discusses issues

Bonnie Lindquist, right, Democratic candidate for State Representative discusses campaign issues with Peg Reed, left, Joyce Moore, and Sally Murphy. These supporters handed out 1,000 information packets for this successful coffee.

Test vote indicates support for mandatory insurance

A "test vote" on mandatory auto insurance indicates that there are enough votes in the Senate to pass the measure, says its sponsor, State Sen. Bob Kustra (R-28).

Kustra explained that on June 2 the Senate voted to transfer his mandatory auto insurance bill from the Senate Transportation Committee to the Senate Judiciary Committee in order to give it a hearing. The Transportation Committee chairman had refused to call the bill for discussion and a vote.

"This was a procedural vote which 31 senators supported, and it could also be regarded as a test vote," Kustra said. "The fact that a majority of the members spoke out for moving the bill from a committee where it would never get a fair hearing to another where it will be considered shows that the votes are there for final passage."

HB 3900 would require motorists to carry insurance and affirm that they have it when they pay their annual registration fees. Compliance would be checked at accident scenes and whenever motorists are stopped for traffic violations. In addition, the Secretary of State would conduct random verification of registered vehicles.

A first offense of driving without insurance could bring a $500 fine and two months suspension of vehicle registration.
Repeat offenders would lose their registration for four months and pay fines of $1,000. Reinstatement fees would be required after the suspension periods. "Two key provisions overcome many of the objections to previous mandatory auto insurance plans," Kustra said. "It would be administered by just one state agency, and it would be paid for by fines. This eliminates extra expense and a lot of red tape."

HB 3900 had already been approved in the House before being bottled up in the Senate Transportation Committee, the same fate met earlier by another Kustra mandatory auto insurance bill.

Dudycz: State must not increase taxes

State Sen. Walter Dudycz (R-7th, Chicago) joined with other state legislators June 22 to oppose a 40 percent increase in the state income tax rate.
"I cannot support an income tax increase at this time because increasing state spending causes
to the tax-paying public," Dudycz said. "The legislature should not supplement the state budget at the expense of the family budget."

The 7th District Senator was among several Republican legislators who voiced their opinion to the proposed income tax increases at a press conference in the Capitol.
"The response from my constituency has been overwhelmingly against a tax increase. The residents of my district are telling me that they have had enough," Dudycz said. "They say we need to prioritize our spending and tailor it to meet revenues, instead of increasing taxes to cover spending."
"By rethinking and prioritizing our budget, we can increase spending for education, abused children and the mentally ill. By trimming spending waste, we can cover the essentials," Dudycz said. "It is time to give the tax-

stars in their high school leagues, on their college teams and in the professional ranks.

The eight team-league has most of the star players from DePaul (Rod Strickland, Kevin Edwards), Illinois (Ken Battle, Lowell Hamilton, Marcus Liberty) and universities throughout the country. There are a very few high school stars. The professionals include Mark Aguirre, Terry Cummings and Michael Jordan.

Monday night, we saw Terry Cummings play against a mixed team of college stars as well as several players who play overseas in the European professional leagues.

Cummings plays for the Milwaukee Bucks. He's a big husky guy, about 6-10 and weighs 245 pounds. He is awesome when he drives to the basket. But he's checkmated by several other players who are structured with similar dimensions. He stands out among these players though there are five or six outstanding players on the floor at all times.

Cummings makes a million dollars or more playing ball in Milwaukee. Yet, here he is playing ball two nights a week for free.

Many of the younger players need the experience they receive in this league. Last year's outstanding Illinois high school senior, Kevin Anderson, who will be playing at Indiana this year, was getting lots of experience from the elbows and the hips of guys who are three or four years older in experience than he is. What he's learning this summer will help him put up with Bobby Knight when he plays in Bloomington this fall.

But what about Terry Cummings? He makes one million or more big ones and yet, he could be jeopardizing his career playing in this summer league. And that means jeopardizing several future million dollar checks if he busts a bone running up and down the Illinois Tech gymnasium floor.

The guy sitting in front of me explained all these players come back to their community every year. He said they came from this area, grew up here, and they seem to want to re-establish themselves with their home community. He said no matter how far they travel or what success they've achieved, they still have to come home every year and receive the respect from their old neighbors which they had received in the past.

Basketball sports nuts are not unlike those Monday morning quarterbacks we previously mentioned. But they never get enough of their sport. On the court performing was Marcus Liberty, who was selected the number one high school player in the country two years ago. He was duly recognized. Three rows in front of us sat a young teenager who, one of the fans announced, was the number two player in California. And he added joyfully, "But he's number one on defense."

The man who told me why million dollar Cummings has to come back home every year said there was another reason why he was playing Monday night. He said he was playing because he enjoyed playing basketball. And I think that answer was more on target. The ultimate sports fan-player risked blowing all that money just so he could play again. It is that tantalizing desire to take one more shot, play one more game, run down the court one more time that drives a Terry Cummings.

It's the love of playing for its own sake that brought Cummings to Monday night's game. A million bucks aside, give him the ball one more time.

Library employee honored for 21 years service

Following 21 years of service, Virginia Zymian is retiring as chief of bookmobile services for the Niles Public Library District.

Library trustees presented her with a gift and served cake at a regular July 8 meeting.

A certificate read by board president Terri Carman said, Zymian "developed the library's Bookmobile and Outreach Service, making library friends at each bookmobile stop, nursing home and day care center."

Zymian said, "I don't know where those 21 years went. While in charge of the bookmobile, I began in the morning and punched out in the afternoon with the time passing very quickly."

Board members also cited Zymian for activity in the "Outreach Services Section of LACONI, the Library Administrators Conference of Northern Illinois, where she was an active member the past 10 years. All outreach services are aimed at serving the public which does not usually come to the library and includes homebound individuals such as the blind and physically handicapped, according to one library source.

Following Zymian's thanks to the board, trustee Myles Dimand said, "We thank you-going back to when our kids were so little they had trouble climbing up the stairs to the bookmobile."

Zymian's library career began in the children's department one month after the opening of the newly constructed Niles library. She advanced to the adult department prior to her job with the bookmobile. "Mr. (Frank) Allen, library administrator at that time, and I were drinking coffee together one day and he said 'You're going to be in charge of the bookmobile,'" she recalled.

Although retired Zymian will continue to find herself busy. She said, "I've plenty of things to do at home and two children who live far away, in Texas and Switzerland."

subject or author from the library received a 2 percent increase from 76 to 78 percent while library browsers experienced a gain of 7 percent from 83 percent to 90 percent.

Library visits per persons seemed to show a slight decline, from 4.8 to 4.2, which may be accounted for by this year's use of the detection unit to count foot traffic. In previous years, the number was obtained in a sampling and then estimated.

In other business, board members consented to repay $40,708 to the Working Cash Fund by transferring the amount from the Corporate Account.

McKenzie also reported that the library's air conditioner received a new compressor and motor last week, July 5. The tentative budget and appropriations ordinance will be posted in the library and on the bookmobile for 30 days prior to the hearing. The Niles library serves residents in Maine, Niles and Northfield townships.

Trustee Don Snider informed the board and residents that Continental Cablevision has made a video documentary of the recent Morton Grove Days. It will be aired on Saturday, July 16 at 8:30 P.M. There may be further airings later on. Snider also announced the appointment of John A. Braszewski as Village Engineer. Braszewski is a former employee of the city of Chicago. Trustee Dan Scanlon reminds us of the sprinkling ban due to the rain shortage. Hours are from 5:00 A.M. to 8:00 A.M. and from 7 P.M. to 10 P.M. Scanlon says the village is pumping from 6 1/2 to 7 million gallons of water per day.

Clerk Wilma Wendt read a letter from Richard Daley, Cook County States' Attorney announcing his new "Lawmobile"—office on wheels. Basically its mission is to be a neighborhood outreach against crime and fraud. It is a large van to be walked through with a trained staff to aid residents on issues that fall under the states' attorney's jurisdiction. It is available on request to the village and groups who would like it for a program.

Firemen responded to 7714 Monroe on a report of an odor of fuel oil in the house. Investigation showed an orange-colored substance in the basement's drain tile basin and a cleaning solvent was used to clean the drain. There was no hazard.

Niles firemen and the Maine North Fire Department extinguished a fire in a first floor apartment, 9020 Washington Dr., on July 5. There was no damage estimate. A pump can was used to extinguish a grass fire at 8800 N. Kathy Lane on July 5.

Tuscany Men's Club dedicates room to member

Approximately 150 members of the Tuscany Men's Club at the Leaning Tower YMCA, 6300 W. Touhy, dedicated a newly-refurbished recreation room to commemorate club member Harold Rashky who died last year at 83.

The plaque on the wall states, "The Harold Rashky Room of Good Fellowship for the man that never forgot a birthday and sent as much as 300 cards a year to fellow members," according to Bob Pohn, a Tuscany member for 18 years.

"The plaque also contains the birth date of each member instead of names to remind us he never forgot a birthday," he said. "He was a wonderful gentleman and deserving of the honor."

The dedication ceremony was held Sunday, June 26 and featured a buffet. Among the guests, who are also members were Judge Robert Egan of the Cook County Circuit Court, Dr. Sam Andelman, former department of health commissioner for Chicago and Skokie, and Ralph heger, former director of the Prairie State Games (Special Olympics). A guest speaker was Rashky's wife, Jean, who talked about her husband's long-time involvement with the Tuscany Club and friends he had made through the years.

Pohn recalled that Rashky would get up at 3 a.m. every morning to drive from his home in Lombard to the YMCA. "Once there, he would walk military-style 10 to 15 miles and did this in his 80's. He was a remarkable man."

Club members raised $10,000 to renovate the recreation room which now has a new television set, new carpeting and walls.

that are known or suspected to be contaminated.

A major condition would be to avoid construction activity within 195 feet of a wastewater tank located under the parking lot to the west of the plant buildings until remaining questions have been answered by further tests. If tests show contamination in this area, the developer would have to agree to follow State recommendations in remedying the situation. In addition, representatives of the IEPA and the Attorney General's Office would be granted free access for environmental sampling and considerable oversight approval regarding any pumping of groundwater from excavation areas. Pumping of groundwater is expected to be minimized by the fact that no basements or sub-basements are planned for the area, and foundations are designed to be only four feet deep. Groundwater levels at a number of points on the plant property would be monitored to assure that construction activities were not causing the movement of contaminants elsewhere on the site. The developer would need to agree to halt activities if chemical contamination is discovered in soils or groundwater in the excavation areas or if construction activities appear to be threatening to cause the movement of contaminated groundwater on other parts of the plant site.

IEPA officials emphasized that the letter sent to the Niles authorities applied only to the portion of the AT&T Teletype facility located in Niles and not to the Skokie portion. AT&T is also carrying out environmental investigations on the Skokie side of the plant property, where leaking tanks of industrial solvents and fuel oil caused soil and groundwater contamination. The IEPA and Attorney General's Office are also providing oversight for that investigation.

jurisdiction on both Touhy and Lehigh.

Although no accidents have occurred at the Oakton crossing in recent years, the signal at Lehigh (which is in Morton Grove), is also being changed for consistency, an IDOT official said. Two fatal accidents occurred after motorists turned left into the path of an oncoming train. The first accident on Feb. 12 took the life of an Arlington Heights man, and on March 1, a Glenview woman was killed. A third accident at Howard left a Morton Grove man uninjured after turning right off northbound Lehigh. "He told police he was disoriented," Giovannelli said.

Giovannelli said a timing study made by police at one of the railroad crossings shows that traffic would be held up about 45 seconds with the new signal for fast trains. "It would be a little longer for freight trains which move more slowly," he said.

He added safety improvements were needed at the crossings because the two intersections are large, contributing to confusion by drivers seeking to cross the tracks. "It's a mix of everything...warning bells, flashing lights and traffic lights that tend to disorient motorists," Giovannelli said.

Mayor Nicholas Blase said he was happy about the new traffic signals, but noted he was adopting a wait-and-see attitude. "Until I see the signals in place, the signs at the intersections will not come down. I think that's only fair."

The signs that are posted near the two railroad crossings blame Metra, (the commuter rail line) and the Illinois Commerce Commission for not making essential safety changes at the crossings.

of the pending case," Christie said.

The store last month filed an appeal on a court judgement that turned over the Lawrencewood shopping center to Niles via a settlement agreement between the village and Krilich.

At issue is a claim by Aldi it should have a share of the award because of its "invaluable lease" that has become more valuable than the current $6 a square foot on today's market. The store holds a long-term lease, according to a village source.

The store is among the remaining businesses that have until July 15 before their leases expire. Aldi officials have stated they are planning to relocate in Niles.

Niles police officials have notified tenants either verbally or by posting signs saying the premises must be vacated by the expiration of the leases. Current tenants (beside Aldi) include a car wash facility, tavern, savings and loan bank and a tire store.

The appeal put a snag in the sale of the Lawrencewood property. Denver developer Jerry Biehl is expected to purchase the 31.5 acre shopping center for $13.5 million. The major portion of the property will be redeveloped into a new shopping center and a 7-acre parcel will be given to Niles to build a new administration complex.

Niles Village Attorney Richard Troy previously stated the center's demolition was hoped to be finished no later than Aug. 1, with construction to begin the following month. The new center is scheduled to open no later than Nov. 1, 1990.

However, everything is in limbo, including finalization of the Lawrencewood sale, until the Aldi issue is resolved, according to a village official.

tenths of one percent increased estimated expenditures in the Educational Fund to $42,408,090, up from the original estimate of $42,397,890.

Other changes include the loss of expected Federal revenue of $35,965, and State aid of $25,000 for vocational education programs. A $100,000 increase in state aid for Special Education personnel will also affect totals.

A capital outlay of $8,000 was added for printing Maine West's student newspaper in-house as opposed to contracting an outside printer.

The final budget was unanimously approved. It includes a total opening balance of $23,421,182, estimated revenue of $53,305,110, estimated expenditures of $65,174,750, and an estimated closing balance in June, 1989 of $27,551,542.

According to Assistant Superintendent for Business Donald E. Kenney, "It will not be necessary to raise taxes. Enough money is being generated by the two percent assessed value at the present time." Kenney also pointed to the fact these are the smallest budget amendments the Board has ever experienced.

The sale of the Maine North property, approved at an executive meeting July 1, was only briefly mentioned. The earliest estimated closing date for the $7.75 million dollar transaction is not expected to be finalized for at least six months. Superintendent James Elliott announced all tenants presently using the property have been notified, and discussion is underway concerning details for moving the present occupants.

Id other news the Board authorized a student insurance plan which will be a prerequisite for any student participating in athletic activities. The fee schedule is as follows: Student Insurance (w/Guarantee Trust Ins. Co.) $12.00 Basic Prem.; 24-Hour Insurance, $39.00; Football Insurance, $29.00.

*$29.00 - Student pays $14.50, Board pays $14.50. The late Howard Blassman, former Maine Township alumnus, past Board President of Maine High Schools (1985-86), and trustee (1981-86), will receive special recognition. The Board unanimously approved a designated place on Maine East's Wall of Honor in memory of his contributions.

The next regularly scheduled meeting will be held Aug. 1.
