

Deadlines approach for property tax appeals

Local property owners seeking to appeal recent property tax assessments have only a few more days to act. May 14 looms as the deadline for Maine Township residents and May 21 is the last day to file for those in Niles Township.

According to Marie Berrigan, chief deputy assistant to Maine Township Assessor Thomas Rueckert, those appealing include some who have already filed with the County Assessor's office and are unhappy with that ruling. Berrigan said their Ballard Road office in Park Ridge had at

Union to act on Dist. 63 teacher's behalf

A two-year teacher in East Maine Elementary School District 63 was called into the board's closed session last Tuesday along with the president and representative of the East Maine Teacher's Union.

Speculation is that the union is filing two grievances on behalf of Kathleen Jarvis, a music teacher at Mark Twain Elementary School in Des Plaines. Neither Jarvis nor other teachers would

Front and back lot variances
may increase to 50 percent

Niles zoners ease building restrictions

by Nancy Keraminas

Niles Planning and Zoning Commissioners voted unanimously to increase their approval powers to allow construction of buildings within a 50 percent variance of front and back lot requirements. Currently, they are empowered to grant variances up to ten percent, a concession they granted to a Madison Court builder as their first agenda item.

The zoners stopped short of requesting authority to grant full maximum variances, a degree of power which Chairman John Frick was reluctant to accept, in view of earlier "emotional" decisions made by previous boards prior to enactment of current standards. "I don't think we should have 100 percent authority," Frick cautioned. "We may have gone a little farther than we should have (in the past)."

"Something has to change as far as the percentages," reasoned Commissioner Dorothy Dolack. "It's tying us up too. People are moving out."

Dolack also was concerned about having houses "too close together as we have in the city," as was Commissioner Angelo Troiani who noted people want to Niles village manager Abe Selman told us Tuesday it will take 1 1/2 to 2 years for Niles 911 emergency telephone number to be put in place. Abe said it would cost about $1 million to create the system.

There is a new enhancement system which Niles will be a part of when it is completed. It is a computerized system which will transmit pertinent information onto the emergency station's computer screen when it receives a call. When a caller dials 911 the screen will print the name and address and phone number of the caller at the station. Other information such as drug and allergy and other medical information will be available upon receipt of the call.

According to Selman, Skokie has had a 911 number for several years. Since the emergency number, 911, is the same in our local towns, Skokie has to approve an enhancement system to upgrade their older system. Selman said that has caused the delay.

Until the new system is in place, Nilesites will continue to call a police emergency at 647-2131 and a fire emergency at 827-2121. And Morton Grove must call a police emergency at 965-2131 and a fire emergency at 965-2121.

Niles District 71 custodian retires after 38 years of service, caring

by Sheilya Hackett

The day the tornado hit Niles Elementary school, South, custodian Helen Bacher worried about the kids. But teachers herded them to safety before angry winds tore off the school roof and shattered the skylight into shards.

"All I cared about (was) nobody got hurt" said Bacher, reminiscing. Bacher and her crews worked into the night that Friday in March, 1976, and for days afterward, to secure the gaping school top with tarpaulins and to clear away the glass.

Visiting Bacher's workplace is like visiting a private home. Bacher is proud of District 71 schools and the buildings' shiny windows and floors reflect that pride.

The tornado was a frightening experience, but most of her 38 years of service as custodian for Niles District 71 schools, Culver 6921 Oakton St., and Niles Elementary-South, 6935 Touhy Ave., have been devoted to keeping the schools clean, in order and in good repair.

Clen Grieshaber, principal of Niles, South, calls her "meticulous" and recalls inspectors from the state Board of Education complimented him on the school's cleanliness.

Bacher rotates daily between the two District 71 schools and is also on hand for PTA meetings and special school activities. At 6:30 a.m. she's at Niles, South to turn up the boiler and put on coffee for the staff. On weekends, she stops into the schools to check windows and pipes.

When Bacher began her service, her husband Ed, was head custodian in the school district, but when he became Niles Directarian furnace pumps; scalloped wooden valences edge lunchroom windows; at Culver's lunchroom, striped shades deter the hot sunlight and in both schools, she's brightened the halls with pictures she's purchased over the years. Most of the artwork portrays subjects kids relate to, such as flowers, animals and other kids.

Tom Ray, Culver principal, said "She thinks about the district seven days a week, all waking moments," and remembered Bacher recently returned from a shopping trip carrying a collage of baseball cards and pictures to hang in a vacant spot in the hall.

Bacher's fondness for the schools may stem from the fact she attended Niles, South as a child. She is quick to point out the classroom she, used and tell you her four children also studied at the school and now a granddaughter is in the fourth grade. Bacher's daughter, Helen, assists on the custodial staff.

The smiling, white haired custodian freely admits she likes kids. Living near Niles, South, she's accessible when kids forget hats or books in school and she's accompanied the kids on field trips, even taking an overnight tour to Springfield when her daughter Helen was in school.

Bacher's fondness for the schools may stem from the fact she attended Niles South as a child.

But Bacher isn't totally absorbed in the kids. Principal Ray said "Thoughtful" is the key word with (Bacher.) She gets to know all the people in school and what's important to them." He noted she'll often drop off a piece of cake from a school festivity and not wait around to be thanked. And her judgment is respected. For example, when Culver school was under construction, in 1965, school board members asked Bacher to make a regular site check to determine if work progressed smoothly.

As she leads a visitor on a tour of Niles, South, Bacher stops to check a floor tile that needs replacement, then points out the colorful wallpaper she chose for the school's small infirmary. Near the gym entrance, her fingers softly trace the carved channels in the wood pillars marking the door. Still positioned on either side are life-size busts of Washington and Lincoln, placed there by her husband years ago. Another Bacher touch, lush greenery she planted beautifies the inside of the school's main entrance. She describes the healing qualities of an aloe plant and confides she's waiting for the showy Savoy cabbage to bloom.

Bacher's exit from District 71 schools this spring won't be easy for her and even through she and her husband plan to travel, she reflected "I hate to think of leaving...I'll probably be stopping over for coffee...I'll bake a coffee cake and just come." As noted on one of the plaques Bacher hung in the school, "A merry heart finds welcome everywhere."

Niles West students surveyed on drug use

Although alcohol is the drug of choice among Niles West students, virtually all use occurs off school grounds, according to the results of a recent survey of all students at the high school.

The 50-question survey was given to 1,481 students on Nov. 28 to provide information for the school's drug and alcohol prevention programs.

The questions dealt with the types of drugs used, frequency of use, time and location of use, sources of drugs, reasons for drug use, parental reactions and expectations concerning drug use, and the success of prevention programs in the school.

While 69 percent of all students have tried beer, wine or wine coolers, only 6 percent admit to having used alcohol during the school day, and 11 percent have used alcohol before, during or after a school activity.

About 17 percent of the students said they had tried marijuana, 2 percent have tried cocaine

Skokie flood relief construction progresses

Substantial progress is being made on the Village of Skokie's Flood Relief Program in the Main Street Sewer District. Substantial completion of this season's construction areas is expected by the end of July.

In the area mostly to the west of Skokie Boulevard, the village has been installing 14,800 feet of storm sewers (18 to 72 inches in diameter) and has constructed detention facilities that can temporarily store a total of 827,000 cubic feet of storm water runoff.

Following is the planned timetable for this construction:

Oakton from Lamont to Skokie Boulevard/Skokie Boulevard from Main to south of Oakton: Work on Oakton has been completed. All main line sewers and inlets have been installed on the east side of Skokie Boulevard and in the Hull/Kirk area. Asphalt paving begins this week.

Library sets new policy on patron conduct

The Lincolnwood Public Library Board of Library Trustees has established a policy to deal with the conduct of troublesome patrons. The new statement regarding library materials was approved at the March board meeting. It establishes five guidelines.

The first guideline in the policy states that a patron of any age who is creating a disturbance or is damaging library materials or facilities will be asked to produce a library card or other form of identification and will be asked to desist from such activity immediately.

Secondly, if the patron refuses to comply or is abusive, the patron will be asked to leave the library premises immediately for the rest of the day. The police will be summoned if the patron does not leave.

In the case of a third offense, the patron may have to surrender his library card or may be barred from the premises for three months. In some instances both actions may be taken, according to the policy.

Wells' attorney says IEPA will notice decrease in emissions

Odors from Wells still a problem, survey says

by Nancy Keramias

A Niles Township citizens group formed to protest foundry emissions from a Skokie manufacturer disagrees with Wells Mfg. Co. that air quality near the plant has improved recently. The foundry is located at 7800 N. Austin Ave.

According to Robert Hanrahan of STOP (Suburbs Turn Off Pollution), 98 percent of the 86 homeowners who completed STOP-sponsored questionnaires regarding the question stated the problem had not improved.

Approximately 130 residents in the immediate vicinity were surveyed last month. The questionnaire was prefaced with the remark, "Wells Manufacturing is telling the Courts and the Newspapers that its emissions have been greatly reduced. Coaches, Teachers and some people in the neighborhood of the plant do not agree. What is your opinion?"

Respondents were permitted to check off one of three responses, answering "there never was a problem," "the problem is much improved," or "the problem is not improved." According to Hanrahan, only one respondent indicated there never MG police charge man with armed robbery

Morton Grove police on May 5 charged Daniel J. Valazquez, 24, of Chicago with armed robbery in the April 7 theft of tickets to a Madonna concert at a gas station.

His blond, long-haired male companion, 20, a resident of Chicago's far northwest side, is being sought. The two were identified in a photo line-up shortly after the morning robbery.

Valazquez's accomplice was taken into custody for questioning April 30, but was released, pending further investigation, although he implicated Valazquez with the robbery and sale of the tickets.

Acting on a tip, Morton Grove police staked out a Chicago lakefront night spot known to be frequented by the pair and apprehended Valazquez May 5. Although placed on $500,000 bond on charges of armed robbery, the bond was subsequently reduced to $100,000 by Judge Jo-

Former destroyer escort sailors reunite

Shown above are members of the Northern Illinois Destroyer Escort Sailors' Association who held their annual reunion meeting on Sunday, April 22 at Bunker Hill Country Club in Niles. Standing l. to r. are Adrian Galassi, a skipper from Niles and Ed Lesniak of Niles. Seated are out-of-town members who attended the reunion.

Shown above are members of the German children's choir group, Kinderchor who delighted the audience with their selection of German and American folk songs.

The Chicagoland chapter of the Destroyer Escort Sailors Association held their banquet/meeting at the Bunker Hill VFW post facilities on Sunday, April 22.

This group of former sailors served on destroyer escorts and those ships that were converted to APDs and DERs. Commissioned were 560 of the designated ships, which were manned by Coast Guard and Navy personnel. They served as escorts for convoys in the Atlantic and Pacific.

In the Pacific, these ships also served as a screen for the larger warships and landing operations. Many of these "small but deadly" ships were awarded citations for their achievements in sea and air warfare. The U-Boat #505 that is on display at the Museum of Science and Industry was captured by the destroyer escorts.

The Northern Illinois Chapter of DESA has area boundaries that are within two hours' drive of Chicago-South Bend-Joliet-Milwaukee. In the three years of existence, they have become the largest chapter of DESA. Over 280 members now belong. The skipper of the chapter is Adrian Galassi of Niles.

At the banquet that was attended by 120 people, the ladies of the former sailors received silk orchids. To entertain this group was the Kinderchor. It consisted of youngsters who delighted the audience with German and American folk songs. Their delightful talents have entertained thousands at various functions, including the Illinois State Fair.

SJB's Sister Alberta celebrates 60 years of service

St. John Brebeuf Church was the scene of a beautiful celebration Sunday, April 22, as Sister Alberta Bahl celebrated her 60 years as a Franciscan sister.

At the noon liturgy, Sister Alberta, her family, about 30 Franciscan sisters and many of her friends prayed with the parish community and thanked the Lord for the past 60 years of faithful service.

Father Robert Banzin, pastor, delivered a beautiful homily, based on the readings of the day, and how Sister Alberta has helped all of us continue Easter in our lives and has brought new life to so many people.

Sister Alberta Bahl is one of thirteen children and grew up in a rural area near Dubuque, Iowa. At the age of eighteen, she entered the Franciscan Order in Dubuque. After three years of formation, Sister began teaching in Iowa. Sister Alberta's teaching career spanned 41 years at schools in Iowa, Illinois and Oregon, and she taught every grade from kindergarten through eighth.

However, sister Alberta had a deep desire to minister to senior citizens, the sick and the bereaved. This new parish ministry began in August, 1978, when Father Duggan made known to the community director the needs of these special people. Father Banzin has continued to promote this ministry.

Following the Liturgy, the Golden Agers put on a lovely reception in Flanagan Hall at which Sister Alberta was honored again, and had an opportunity to visit with her friends and family.

New pastor at St. Matthew Lutheran Home

St. Matthew Lutheran Home, a program of Lutheran Social Services of Illinois, recently installed the Rev. Fred Hill as a new full-time pastor and director of pastoral care.

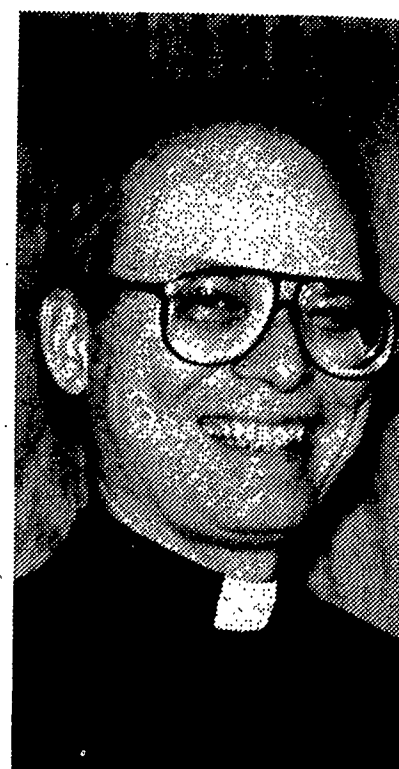

Hill fills the position left vacant by the late Rev. Warren Sigwalt.

Prior to his appointment with the nursing home, Hill served as associate pastor of St. Mark Lutheran church in Mt. Prospect, IL. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Ind., and a master of divinity degree from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

Hill spends much of his day visiting with residents. "I know most of the residents by name, but it is even more important for me to know them individually to know their specific interests, needs and concerns," Hill said.

As director of pastoral care at the home, Hill ministers to many different people. "I meet with the whole St. Matthew community, including residents, staff, visitors, and family members," he said.

In everything he does at the home, Hill said he tries to add a personal, caring touch. "I like doing the 'extras,'" he said. "I see how I can help today; how I can make the day special for someone else, for myself, for everyone."

St. Matthew Lutheran Home, a program of Lutheran Social Services of Illinois, a non-profit corporation, provides residential nursing care for more than 160 older adults.

Niles Historical Society schedules meeting

"Taking the Yuck out of History" is the topic for the final spring meeting of Niles Historical Society to be held on Monday, May 21, at 8 p.m. at Society Headquarters, 8970 Milwaukee Ave., Niles. The public is cordially invited, and refreshments will be served.

The speaker will be Marilyn Hess, a Palatine resident, who will pose as a typical wench of the Revolutionary War period, a German Yeoman's wife, who has joined her husband, a Hessian soldier, as he goes off to fight the British.

Fully costumed, Hess will delight us with tales of camp life, including her duties as a camp follower (not what you are thinking), and show us some of her everyday utensils used for making soap, candles, and char cloth for flint and steel fire starting, and the everyday necessities of cooking and laundry.

Hess is a member of the Northwest Territory Alliance, a group of some 400 individuals who represent 45 units which were present during the Revolutionary War. The contents of her program comes from historical research painstakingly done at the Newberry Library, public libraries, museums and historical places. By skipping dates and meaningless names, and concentrating on everyday facets of early American life, Hess hopes to eliminate the feeling of "yuck" often experienced by school children and carried over into adulthood.

Illinois Bell reorganization focuses on customer service

Illinois Bell announced a major reorganization to improve customer service and strengthen the company's competitive position for the 1990's.

"We want to put the customer in the driver's seat," said Richard H. Brown, Illinois Bell president. "We're making significant changes in our organization to prepare for an increasingly competitive marketplace."

"We're focusing on customers, creating a more efficient business by streamlining our decision-making process and realigning our resources," he said. "That includes reducing layers of management and eliminating barriers that interfere with the teamwork, speed and agility required to provide good customer service."

The changes, which go into effect May 1, include creation of a single Sales and Service department headed by Vice President James A. Eibel, formerly vice president-operations. That department will be responsible for all customer contact activities and will include about 80 percent of Illinois Bell's 21,500 employees.

"This organization will concentrate solely on customers and be responsible for the end-to-end delivery of service - beginning with the customer's order and ending with mailing the bill," Brown said.

John A. Brayman, formerly vice president-Marketing, will head a new Marketing and Business Development department, which will determine market place needs and plan new products and services.

"The organization will be responsible for strategic business development including market research, product and technology development and engineering," Brown said. "These are activities we never before have consolidated in one organization."

Brown said a number of other changes are taking place as part of the restructuring. For example, managers are shouldering more responsibilities and supervising more subordinates, and staff groups are getting smaller as support employees are transferred to customer contact assignments.

Illinois Bell completed a large part of its streamlining program in February when 930 management employees left the company under a voluntary salary buyout plan.

Brown said the company would continue to reduce its forces through attrition to about 5,100 managers by the end of the year. This would represent 160 fewer management employees than at present.

Two drivers argue in gas station

An argument ensued the morning of May 5 when an '85 Chevrolet station wagon pulled in front of a car driven by a Glenview man, 30, who was waiting for a gas pump in the station in the 9600 block of Waukegan Road, Morton Grove.

The gray-haired station wagon driver ignored the first driver's protests and continued to pump gas until the protester threatened to move the wagon if the owner did not.

During the argument, the wagon driver grabbed the first man's shirt and was pushed to the ground, but the wagon driver simply returned to pumping gas and then left to pay his bill. During his absence, the wagon driver's wife exited the car and warned the first man her husband had a heart condition and if he died, she'd sue. The wagon license plate checked out to another Glenview resident.

MG man arrested for aggravated assault

After responding to a call on domestic battery in the 8900 block of Oriole Avenue, Morton Grove, the evening of April 30, the police officer attempted to give the battery victim her copy of the report.

The offender, the victim's husband, became irate and argumentative, according to police reports, and insisted the police had no right to threaten arrest for the offense. Pointing his finger into the officer's face, the offender said "If you didn't have a gun, I'll kill you."

When the officer attempted to arrest him for assault, the man pulled his arm away and continued his efforts to free himself. Reinforcements aided in subduing the offender and he was charged with aggravated assault and resisting arrest; he has a court date of June 4.

Domestic argument ensues over carpeting

Early the morning of May 2, a husband 33, and wife, 31, living in the 9200 block of National Avenue, Morton Grove, began arguing as the husband cleaned house. The argument centered on whether to install carpeting. The wife was against it and underscored her feelings by allegedly punching the husband in the eye.

Although police noted a bruise and cut near the husband's eye, the wife denied the charges, saying she hit the wall instead. When peace was restored, the man continued cleaning house and the wife went to work.

When questioned by the officer about the bag, the man at first maintained he found it in an alley nearby, but finally admitted the bag which he hid in the drugstore, contained items from two stores in the 5900 block of Dempster Street, another drug store and a hardware store.

No employee at either store had seen the man, 38, of Chicago, take anything, so he was released without charge and the items returned. Safety rules for bicycle riding

Bicycling is fun and good exercise, but it is also an important responsibility. When you ride in the street, you must follow all traffic safety laws that apply to vehicle drivers.

May is Bicycle Safety Month. The following laws and safety rules are particularly important for bicyclists:

Always ride with the traffic flow as close as possible to the right edge of the road.

Obey all traffic signals and pavement markings.

Use hand signals to let drivers know your intentions.

Wear a helmet that does not block your vision or impair your hearing. Although helmets are not required by Illinois law, wearing one greatly reduces your chances of receiving a serious head injury in an accident.

Do not pass on the right. Motorists often will not look for passing cyclists in that direction.

When moving the same speed as traffic, ride in the middle of the lane, especially at busy intersections.

Be alert for cars pulling out in front of you, make eye contact with the drivers to ensure that you have been seen.

Avoid riding at night if possible. If you ride in the dark, your bike must have a front light that shines for 500 feet and a rear, red reflector that can be seen for up to 600 feet. Always wear light-colored or reflective clothing when riding at night.

Commonwealth Edison helps clear the air

Commonwealth Edison has been dedicated to clearing the air in northern Illinois for many years.

The company's concern for the environment dates back to 1929, when crews first installed an electrostatic precipitator at one of its generating stations. The precipitator, installed in the fossil-fueled generating station's stack, was designed to attract most of the particulates (polluting particles) that otherwise would be emitted into the atmosphere. By 1966, the company had installed 56 stack-cleaning devices, improved furnace combustion efficiency, and invested substantial funds toward research to improve the environment.

In the mid-1960s, Edison also committed to balancing its fossil fuel use with clean, efficient nuclear generation. Edison built the first privately-financed commercial nuclear generating unit, Dresden 1, which produced its first kilowatt-hour on April 15, 1960. On the cutting edge of the new technology with Dresden Unit 1, Edison began the huge undertaking of building its nuclear generating capacity to approximately 51 percent of the company's total capacity, (over 80 percent of its kilowatt-hour output for 1989), where it stands today.

In mid-1970, when environmental concerns were coming to the forefront of public debate, Edison took the lead once again by making a substantial commitment to low-sulfur coal. The use of this lower polluting but more expensive variety of coal would dramatically decrease emissions from the company's coal-fired generating stations.

Twenty years later, all but one of Edison's coal-fired stations burn low-sulfur coal. And, although electricity use has increased 174 percent in the intervening years, Edison's sulfur dioxide emissions fell 84 percent between 1969 and 1986 and its particulate emissions fell 98 percent during that time.

Man shoots 300 at Niles Bowl

This past Tuesday night Jim LaCroix did what many people dream about. He rolled his first perfect game on lanes 19-20 at Brunswick Niles Bowl. Jim's team had already won the championship and after his first game of 238, Jim rolled 300 then 194 for a 732 series.

The 732 series was his season's high. The 300 was the Hot Shot Mens League High Game. His 206 average is among the top 10 bowlers in the league. Although it was Jim's first 300 he was noticeably confident stringing 12 strikes with his ball he calls the 'MONSTER'. Jim actually strung 13 strikes having the 12 for the perfect game then the first strike in his 3rd game.

Jim will receive a $100. Savings Bond, Certificate from Brunswick Niles Bowl plus a patch, mug and a Gold Ring and Trophy from ABC.

Jim's 300 game was the third this season at Niles Bowl and the sixth award score this year. The Hot Shot Mens League has 3 of the 6 award scores.

Cesarean births on decrease at Holy Family Hospital

Family practice physician Grace Akiens, M.D., and her husband, Bruce Hertz, M.D., an internist, pose with their two daughters Danielle and Sarah. Drs. Akiens and Hertz chose Holy Family Feb. 12 and weighed 9 lbs. 8 1/2 oz.

The Maternal/Child Health department at Holy Family Hospital recently released statistics showing that the number of Cesarean section births at the hospital were down from 18.9 percent of all births in 1988 to 17.9 percent in 1989. This is well below the national average of 25 percent.

In addition, the number of children born at the hospital increased to 738 from 677 in 1988.

The statistics also demonstrate a low neonatal mortality rate for the hospital. For infants weighing more than 500 grams, (1 and 1/2 pounds) and a gestational age of 20 weeks or more, Holy Family's rate in 1989 was 1.36 percent lower per 1,000 live births. This compares to a state average of 7.8 per thousand in 1987 as reported in Pediatrics, December issue of 1989.

Holy Family's maternity unit, which underwent renovation in the summer of 1988, has 10 private rooms and two double rooms. Decorated in pleasant colors of mauves and blues, the unit furthers the hospital's philosophy of family-centered care by providing a wide range of services including prenatal classes, grandparent and sibling visitation and post-partum instruction by registered nurses. The unit also offers new families the opportunity to celebrate the birth of their new baby with a special dinner in the "Stork Club."

Mammography screening planned

As a follow-up to cancer control month, the American Cancer Society has encouraged all mammography facilities listed with the Northwest Cook Area office, to offer reduced rate mammograms during the month of May.

Research indicates that one out of every 10 women will develop breast cancer. Mammography has proven to be an extremely effective tool in detecting breast cancer in its earliest stages, when it is nearly 90% curable. The American Cancer Society recommends that all women between the ages of 35-40 get a baseline mammogram, women between 40-50 should get a mammogram every 1-2 years depending on their physician's recommendation, and women 50 and older should get a mammogram every year. Mammography is a part of an important 3-step breast health program suggested by the American Cancer Society, which also includes a physical breast exam by your physician and self-breast examination.

The American Cancer Society provides and educational program called "Special Touch" on self-breast exam and mammography. This program is offered free of charge to companies, clubs and organizations. To arrange to have this program offered contact the American Cancer Society office.

There will be 15 facilities participating in the mammography screening program in May. Most of the are offering reduced rates. Prices will range from $60-$92. For a complete list of facilities participating in the mammography screening program, or to schedule the "Special Touch" program contact the American Cancer Society at 358-3965.

Letters To The Editor

Fr. Chen expresses thanks to SJB parishioners

Dear Friends of St. Therese Chinese Mission, My heartfelt and sincere thanks to the St. John Brebeuf Youth Ministry--Dee, Sister Donna, Lorraine Beleit and all of the members for all your hard work and sacrifices in preparing the Soup Dinner. Our thanks also to all the dear friends who took the time to patronize the dinner and made it a great success--close to $800 was given to our Mission.

It is hard to express fully what your kindness means to me. Over the past years, you have actually helped me run the Mission by reducing its deficit and thus keeping it from closing. You are not just casual donors these past years, you are our lifesavers. I admire your generosity to our Mission, in addition to your obligation to St. John Brebeuf. I cannot thank you enough for all you have done for St. Therese Mission.

We all know there is much poverty in the world and in our city. There are many poor to be clothed, to be fed and to be cared for. The fact that you have chosen to help St. Therese Mission makes me realize that we have a close bond in the Lord. That is, you are true friends to me and this makes me more grateful to you and to the Lord who sent you my way. It also makes me realize why you have been inspired to choose our Mission amidst so many others. For while your contributions to us not only comforted Jesus in the disguise of the poor and needy, you also helped the visible body of Jesus Himself--His Church.

As for my part, I earnestly beg the Lord to bless and reward you a hundredfold in this life and give you eternal happiness in the next, as He has promised to those who help to promote His Kingdom. I beg also for your continued prayers for me during my Sabbatical year at Notre Dame and later visiting churches in China.

As an elected official, it is my responsibility to represent my constituency as well as to work for the benefit of the general public. It is also the duty of every responsible public servant to denounce bigotry and anti-semitism whenever confronted by it. That is why the recent inflammatory remarks by U.S. Congressman Gus Savage on his primary opponents' receipts of "Jewish Money" must be denounced by all elected officials.

Savage's comments have served his constituents, his fellow citizens of Chicago, and Jewish people everywhere a horrible disservice. To be outraged at his anti-semitic race-baiting, one does not need to be Jewish. I ask all area elected officials to join me in urging Representative Savage to retract his statement and work to heal the pain he has caused in the community.

Sincerely,

State's Attorney warns graduates to avoid drug, alcohol use

Dear Student, Parent, Teacher:

Graduation season is upon us. This is a time to celebrate our educational successes, set goals, and joyfully look toward the wonderful future that lay ahead. Unfortunately, for many, this season will not be a happy one.

Each year, 9,000 young people die in automobile accidents and another 650,000 are seriously injured, paralyzed or otherwise confined to wheelchairs, respirators and health care institutions. Drugs and alcohol contribute to almost half of the teenage deaths in America.

Students: I urge you to enjoy your graduation and prom without the use of alcohol or drugs. From my discussions with students at schools throughout Chicago and the suburbs, I have come to understand your pressures and worries related to drugs and alcohol. What I ask of you is this: value your life, and the lives of friends and family around you, enough to say no to alcohol and illegal substances. If you have questions or need someone to talk to, call my Juvenile Drug Abuse Prevention Program at (312) 435-4935 and one of my counselors will help you.

Parents: I urge you to host chemical-free graduation parties, and openly discuss with your children the dangers and consequences of drinking and driving. Please remind your children of the strict laws and severe penalties for driving while under the influence of drugs and alcohol. As State's Attorney, my highest priority is the prevention of drug and alcohol abuse by young people. I have seen its effects on society in the most horrible ways through my work in the State's Attorney's Office, and I am committed to stopping drug and alcohol related crime and destruction.

Graduation season signals the beginning of a wonderful future filled with friends, successes, and many good times to come. Don't destroy your future, or someone else's future, before it begins.

Sincerely,
Cecil A. Partee
State's Attorney of Cook County, Illinois

A message from Mayor Blase

Dear Niles Resident:

The Census affects your taxes! You ask why? Because for every person that is not counted, Niles loses $405 in revenues generated by the Federal Government which are used for different programs in our community.

For instance, if the Niles Census population count is 5,000 less than our actual number, that translates into a $200,000 loss. The only way to replace that money is to raise property taxes.

Therefore, it is very important for you to fill out your Census form and mail it back if you have not already done so. If you did not receive the Census form, make sure that you call the Village Hall

-- 967-6100, and we will make sure that you receive one. Again, I repeat, the Census means tax dollars! If you do not send in the Census form, it could result in a heavier tax load for you later on.

Very truly yours,
Nicholas B. Blase

Wagner thanks Niles residents for their concern

My Dear Friends in Niles:

Recently I had the misfortune of fracturing my leg, and, no, it wasn't caused when my wife's make up bag fell on it! Even though I now live some miles from Niles I did receive so many cards and letters wishing me a speedy recovery that I wanted to express my appreciation and do want to thank you all, especially my dear friends at the Huntington Building, for your kindness, prayers and concern--no one has bigger hearts than the people in Niles--Thanks again.

Frank Wagner Jr.
Former Niles Village Clerk

Participants thanked for work at recycling center opening

To The Editor:

The Morton Grove/Niles League of Women Voters wishes to thank the people, organizations and businesses who helped with the Earth Day celebration which dedicated the Niles Recycling Center at Civic Center Plaza, Oakton St. and Waukegan Road. We also thank the Bugle for helping us notify residents of the event.

It is gratifying to realize that, while the celebration is over, the recycling center will continue to keep alive the spirit of Earth Day by offering residents a place to take cans, bottles, newspaper, plastic milk jugs and other recyclables, making them available for reuse and keeping them out of the waste stream thus lengthening the life of our remaining dumps.

Reader compliments store's 'Back to Basics' philosophy

Dear Editor:

Your recent column from the Left Hand, in The Bugle dated April 12, 1990, goes along with what I have been stating for some time. "The Nordstroms Department Store article" regarding the effective way in which two clerks handled you as a human being is what I have been calling, "back to basics." Too many companies have forgot what made them successful in the first place, management has lost touch, they sit in their ivory tower instead of getting out and visiting their business (unannounced).

I stressed the word "effective" in the above paragraph. Why? There is a big difference between effective and efficient. If the two clerk's had simply pointed in the general direction, this might be called efficient, I call it deficient. What they did do, was very effective. You sure remembered.

Management should look at managing for results. If I were a CEO, I would ask myself, am I into result management? Is each manager and those reporting to me aware of what the results must be? Management is the process of getting things done through people. Again back to basics and effectiveness.

Sincerely,

by last week and mentioned he was involved in a Mended Hearts program. He had a heart bypass operation some years ago and now counsels people who are about to undergo a similar operation. He is put in touch with patients prior to the operation and allays their anxieties by telling the patient and his/her family about his experience.

The program sounds most worthwhile. People today are doing so many wonderful volunteer projects which are helpful to the many. We're sure the receiver of the information, as well as the giver, derives much satisfaction from the effort.

The former owner of the Lawrencewood Shopping Center, Robert Krilich, is being sued by the Illinois Attorney General, Neil Hartigan, for permit violations at an apartment complex near Lakemoor in Du Page County. The suit accuses Krilich of failing to comply with his sewage treatment plant permit and failing to obtain construction and operating permits for a sewer collection system and public water supply.

Hartigan said, "Krillich applied for and was issued a construction and operating permit in 1987 based on construction plans he submitted for a sewage treatment plant and spray irrigation system at his Lake Sullivan Lake Apartments."

The plans call for a 2,400-unit apartment complex located on 600 acres near Belvidere Road, about a half-mile west of Route 12 near Lakemoor.

During his many years in Niles, he was sued by the village several times for violations at the Lawrencewood Shopping Center.

Niles Director of Code Enforcement Joe Salerno told us Krilich's first major building project was 254 homes built between Greenwood and Cumberland Avenues known as Greenwood Estates back in 1958. Salerno said Krilich had been a superintendent for another firm. When a man named Dreyfuss gave him the Niles land to build on, the son joined with Krilich in the construction.

In subsequent years Krilich has become an international builder constructing huge projects in the middle east, in Saudi Arabia and neighboring countries, as well as building projects in this country. And it all began between Cumberland and Greenwood Avenues in Niles back in 1958.

However, Jarvis recently was denied a contract to teach next September because of alleged anti-semitic remarks made during class. Remarks were reported by students to parents.

If the board and union cannot come to an agreement, both grievances may be mediated by a hearing officer.

Teaching staff of both Mark Twain and Gemin Junior High schools signed petitions on Jarvis' behalf which were presented to board members at an April meeting. A petition stated in part, "We are requesting you give the matter more consideration." Superintendent Dr. Eldon C. Gleichman said the district will not respond to personnel matters in public.

In other matters, board members proclaimed May 8, 1990 as National Teacher Day, a time for a public salute to teachers who represent "An Investment in Excellence" in the community.

In other action, board members revised the Teacher Retirement System after a second reading so retiring teachers could work for least "a couple hundred" requests for help in compiling tax data and nearly ran out of complaint forms.

Earlier this year, taxpayers flooded local assessors' offices and over 3,000 complaints were filed in Niles Township; 5,100 in Maine Township.

Township offices are open Monday through Friday to assist in the process of compiling documentation necessary for the appeal. Hours at Maine Township hall, 1700 Ballard Road, Park Ridge, are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; at Niles Township offices, 5255 Main St., Skokie, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. State Representative Penny Pullen (R-55th) has also roadied her office at 22 Main St., Park Ridge to assist constituents, Monday through Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

According to Tom Jaconetty, chief deputy commissioner of the Cook County Board of Appeals, persons who appeal by the deadlines should receive notice of a hearing date within two or three weeks, since the board must close its books by the end of July. He urged petitioners to "pursue their evidence quickly and be ready to go."

Jaconetty noted that those who prefer not to travel to the County building, 118 N. Clark St., Chicago, for their hearing may complete the process by mail, but only if they waive their right to a hearing and submit their complaint and full documentation at least five days prior to their township deadline.

Jaconetty noted the tax appeal board is regularly busy since it services 38 townships, but with the quadrennial assessment being felt in the northern suburbs, more action is seen from that area.

Grounds for complaints include 1) over-assessment, or too high a market value on property; 2) mistakes by the Assessor, such as improper description of lot size or classification of property on a mathematical error in computing the assessment; 3) lack of uniformity, such as matching properties receiving different assessments, and 4) damage to property caused by fire, flood or other cause, or part or all of the building has been demolished.

A permanent index number (P.I.N.) must accompany each appeal. That number can be determined from the bill for the second installment of last year's taxes, along with the assessed valuation of the property. The local township assessors' offices will also help locate residents' P.I.N.s. The P.I.N.s of comparable properties can be obtained from the County Treasurer's office on the first floor of the County building, according to information released by the Board of Appeals. The assessed valuation of the comparable properties may be obtained at the office of the local Township Assessor.

When a reduction in assessment is sought because of fire or flood damage, pictures of the damages are helpful, according to Tax Appeals. Other sources such as newspaper reports, copies of insurance claim forms, requests for government loan assistance, estimates of, and bills for, repairs and evidence of payment by insurance carriers are also reliable testimonials, according to the guidelines in the Board's publication "Welcome to the Board of Appeals."

dences on the portion of the property fronting Madison Court. Twenty residents listened to a presentation by Sanfratello's attorney, Steve Shaykin, who described a "bidding war" on the Bjorn property as the precursor to the need for building larger homes on the subdivided lots.

Emphasizing there will be no overbuilding of the lots, many of which are larger than existing development, Sanfratello assured residents that he was also a neighbor and added, "I want to improve the neighborhood. I got a lot of money (invested) in that land."

Troiani wryly pointed out that one type of resident population might increase, however. "You might have a few ghosts at Halloween," he joked.

Commissioners granted Sanfratello a ten percent variance for both front and back yards, allowing the builder to erect the three homes within 22.5 and 36 feet of the front and back property lines respectively. He must still obtain approval to subdivide the property from the village board on May 22.

Fiction course hosts notable authors

Three award-winning science fiction authors, Fred Pohl, Gene Wolfe and Phyllis Eisenstein, will be guest speakers as part of the interim Science Fiction course at Oakton Community College East from May 14 to June 7. The course will be taught from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursday for four weeks. The teaching format includes reading of novels written by guest speakers, discussion of provocative literature, listening to lectures by invited science fiction authors and viewing noted films.

Novels read will include Gateway by Pohl, Shadow of the Torturer by Wolfe and Sorcerer's Son by Eisenstein. Students will also read Ursula K. LeGuin's The Left Hand of Darkness and a short-story anthology, The Science Fiction Hall of Fame. Movies shown will include "The Day the Earth Stood Still," "The Invisible Man," "Bladerunner" and the Harlan Ellison cult film, "A Boy and His Dog."

For information, call Professor Beverly Friend, Ph.D., (708) 635-1850.

Hartigan introduces 'Operation Scams'

Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan recently unveiled a new program designed to reduce the losses incurred each year by the victims of financial frauds.

The new program, named "Operation SCAMS," focuses on frauds which involve large cash transactions and usually entail cash withdrawals from financial institutions.

Hartigan announced the kick-off of the program at the beginning of National Consumers Week, a nationwide observance of the importance of responsible consumer practices. "We are all consumers," Hartigan noted. "We all have a lot to lose through consumer fraud, and a lot to gain through efforts to stop the ripoffs and put the con-artists out of business."

"SCAMS stands for 'Senior Cash Alert Monitoring System,' but we hope its benefits will be felt by consumers of every age group. These types of frauds have a devastating effect not just on the victim, but on the community at large. However, all of us working together can take the advantage away from the swindler and give it back to the honest citizen."

Operation SCAMS is modeled after a successful program pioneered by the Milwaukee (Wis.) Police Department. The Illinois effort revolves around a unique level of public and private sector cooperation.

"The financial community, senior citizens organizations and law enforcement across the state will share equally in the development and implementation of training materials, and in promoting public awareness of these types of fraud and of Operation SCAMS," according to Hartigan.

The financial community, senior citizens organizations and law enforcement across the state will share equally in the development and implementation of training materials, and in promoting public awareness of these types of fraud and of Operation SCAMS," according to Hartigan.

Brochures for vets available

Three new brochures concerning veterans' benefits are now available in the district office of State Senator Walter Dudyecz (R-Chicago).

The first publication is a Guide of State Veterans' Benefits and Directory of Veterans Service Offices statewide; the second concerns the Illinois Veterans' Home at Manteno, and the third deals with a summary of Veterans Administration Benefits. The brochures are distributed by the Illinois Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Senator Dudyecz encourages any veteran, or family members, who have questions about what benefits or programs are available to pick up any, or all, of these free pamphlets simply by stopping at his district office, 6143 Northwest Highway, Chicago.

and stimulants, and 3 percent have tried hallucinogens and depressants. Just 4 percent of students said they had used marijuana or other drugs during the school day, or before, during of after a school activity.

"If we're going to have an impact on drug and alcohol use, we're going to have to go beyond the school and get assistance from parents and the community," said Principal Don Ring, a member of the school's Drug and Alcohol Committee. "The discussion in the committee showed that the most serious problem is impromptu, unchaperoned parties in student's homes, in addition to the post-prom and post-graduation celebrations."

The survey showed that parental concern and action does have an effect on alcohol and drug use by Niles West students. In analysis of the data, the committee found that parents can help by setting curfew for their children and spending more time with them.

More than 50 percent of the students who have curfews set have only tried alcohol one or two times, while only 4 percent of the students who use alcohol regularly have a curfew. In addition, the more time students spent with parents, the less they have been under the influence of alcohol while at parties. The frequency of alcohol use also increased as parental involvement and questions about parties decreased.

To help parents set guidelines and find out how other parents are handling the situation, Niles West is starting a Parent Network to foster communication.

The network will start with next year's freshmen and will be expanded to the entire school if parents find it useful. Parents who choose to join the network agree to encourage healthy, chaperoned activities and to not allow alcoholic beverages or any other drug to be consumed by minors in their homes.

Construction in the areas generally east of Skokie Boulevard includes the installation of 4,000 feet of storm sewers (4 to 24 inches in diameter) and the construction of detention facilities that can store a total of 442,000 cubic feet of storm water runoff. These projects include the installation of underground storage tanks, or surface detention basins, along with new sewers.

There will be occasions when water service will be interrupted and traffic on some streets will be restricted to local traffic. At times, complete closures are necessary. Notification will be given in advance to residents in the affected areas.

Although the construction will cause a certain amount of inconvenience, it will enable the Village Flood Relief Program to move one step closer to abating sewage backup into basements in the Main Street Sewer District.
