per in a small community puts you in touch with a cross section of that community. Last Friday morning we went across town to the Drake Hotel in Oakbrook to attend a meeting with a bunch of muckety muck publishers. They're a bunch of guys, who are just a bunch of guys, despite their being slightly full of themselves. There wasn't one brain surgeon in the crowd. Matter of fact there wasn't one guy who I would have allowed one of my daughters to go out with. At noontime I had lunch at the Chateau Ritz where the Village of Niles was hosting a luncheon for the more than 100 volunteers who man and woman many of the programs in Niles. Most of the volunteers were seniors who give of themselves throughout the year. One volunteer has been contributing to the general welfare for the past 17 years. They were a lively enthusiastic group who were fun to break bread with.

Tuesday morning I was selling advertising in the Oak Mill Mall Shopping Center and met two very charming and sophisticated store owners who were as warm as they were stylish.

Residents quiz park board on pool rules

by Sheilya Hackett

Nilesites jammed a regular monthly park board meeting June 18 and vented their concerns on topics from swimming pool rules to rental fees to smoking arcas.

Park Board President Carol Panek's new agenda procedure, with citizen input at the start of the meeting, gave speakers ample time to complain about the discontinuance of the pool's swim break policy. The newly-opened Niles Oasis Pool, 7877 N. Milwaukee Ave., surpassed capacity attendance for the first four days of its use, but numerous residents complained there was no time for unhindered adult swimming in the crowded water.

Pool manager John Langton and Superintendent of Recreation Nancie Boland explained the district's choice of the Ellis and Associates plan for water safety, leading one resident to ask if pool purposes.

by Nancy Keraminas

Development of affordable condominiums on land now occupied by the Hoffman House Restaurant may proceed if the Morton Grove Village Board agrees with its Plan Commission that four zoning variations should be granted. Plans call for a fivelevel, 56-unit development consisting of two-bedroom, two-bath units ranging in price from $160,000 to $180,000.

Commissioners voted 4-2 with one abstention to grant the special use after lengthy testimony from the building architect, civil engineer, landscaper and traffic ex-pert. Commissioner Jim Karp passed on the motion due to possible conflict of interest, while fellow commissioners Harry Grand and Sid Blonz opposed the measure

"If you like it, please tell us," said attorney Donald Sterino, representing the property, adminis-tered in trust by First National Bank of Niles, in care of the firm of Callero and Catino. "If you don't like it please tell us."

"I have a problem with the density," commented Blonz, referring to the issue of 56 units to be built on a 1.75-acre site. "I don't like the height. I have a problem with the lot coverage and limited amount of landscaping... I could live with the height." The developer indicated his

against township elimination met City and Jeff Schoenberg of Skokie, would streamline services and cut the cost of government. On the contrary, the elimination of Cook County townships would drastically reduce local services and create yet another layer of Cook County bureaucra-

Maine Township government provides many essential services to residents. Our General Assistance Office provides financial aid to needy persons, who do not qualify for other welfare programs and emergency aid for people in crisis situations.

Without township government, residents would lose many critical social services available at little or no charge through local non-profit agencies. Maine Township provides financial assistance to agencies that help its residents and this year allocated $408,000 to 21 agencies.

Our information and referral services link senior citizens and the disabled with a network of government and community services that can help them with housing, medical assistance, employment, and much more.

Troubled youngsters and their families can obtain counseling services at MaineStay, our youth services department, regardless of their ability to pay. Schools and community groups look to MaineStay for professional parent education programs. MaineStay also administers a juvenile restitution program for youth involved in non-violent crimes. This program has earned the support and respect of juvenile court officials and police officers. More than 3,500 senior citizens participate in our Maine Township Seniors program. Another 1,500 residents are served by Options 55 for preretirement adults and One + Plus Options for widowed and other single adults All three of these programs are largely self-sustaining and members benefit from group rates on trips and activities.

During the 1990 quadrennial resassessment, our Assessor's Office helped 4,300 taxpayers file complaints with Cook County. Ninety-two percent were successful in obtaining reductions in their assessments. The Assessor also provides help with senior excemptions, homeowner's exemptions, and public records on property. Residents who have used these services have found them to be far more convenient and efficient than those provided by Cook County.

Since March, our Clerk's Of-fice has processed more than 1,400 applications for the new Senior Citizen RTA passes. This office also handles voter registration, absentee ballot applications, and handicapped parking cards. Each year thousands of residents of unincorporated Maine Town-ship find it convenient to pur-chase their Cook County vehicle stickers at the Town Hall.

The township's Highway Department maintains and plows close to 30 miles of road in unincoprorated Maine Township at a much lower cost than similar services provided by Cook County.

Maine Township has one of the most heavily populated unincoporated areas in Cook County, with an estimated 35,000 or more residents. And many of them feel threatened by the proposed legislation that could lead to the elimination of their only accessible local government. When these residents have sought the

If you've been paying off bills from credit cards or finance companies, you are probably paying an exorbitant amount just for interest. As a homeowner, you may have a money saving alternative. Pay those bills off with a Norwood Federal Home Equity Loan. You'll probably find that the interest rate will be much lower than the annual rates charged by credit cards and finance companies. That fact alone will save you money. And unlike other forms of borrowing, the interest on a home equity loan may be tax-deductible

A Norwood Federal Home Equity Loan can save you money when used for other good purposes too. Make repairs on your home. Buy a new car. Take a fabulous vacation. Send your children to college. Motorcycle traffic safety tips

If you ride a motorcycle, the two biggest threats to your safety are oncoming cars that turn left in front of you and cars on side streets that pull into your lane.

Never depend on eye contact as a sign that a dirver has seen you and will yield the right of way. A driver can look right at you and fail to see you.

The best way to help drivers see you is to ride in the center of the traffic lane with your headlights on. Each traffic lane gives a motorcyclist three "mini-lanes," or four-foot-wide paths of travel Although grease strips caused by drippings from other vehicles can take up to two feet of the middle "mini-lane," and you can ride to the left or right of the grease strip and still be within the center portion of the traffic lane.

Turn signals tell others what you plan to do and make you easier to see. Use your turn signals whenever you turn or change lanes, even if you think no one else is around. The car you do not see is the one that will give you the most trouble. Do not forget to turn your signal off. If you leave it on, an oncoming driver may think you plan to turn again and pull directly into your path.

Another way to help a motorist see you is to stay out of his blind spot. Either pass him or drop back. When passing a car, get through the blind spot as quickly as possible.

Use your mirrors frequently and remember that motorcyclists have blind spots, too. Before changing lanes, turn your head and look at traffic to the side.

Illinois census data available

Federal census informatio is now available to the general pub-lic through the Illinois State Li-brary, its branch in the State of Illinois Center in Chicago, the 18 regional library systems, and the statewide network of documents depository libraries.

Secretary of State and State Librarian George H. Ryan said pop-ulation and housing data for Illinois has been transferred from computerized 1990 census tapes to a set of microfiche pages. The information is currently being used by the General Assembly to formulate new congressional district maps.

Exercise: The tonic for heart and soul

Exercising regularly is one way to achieve physical fitness and well being.

Attaining and maintaining peak physical condition is incentive for some people to exercise. Other people exercise as a tradeoff to weight reduction diets in order to look slim and trim. While still others exercise hoping to decrease the risk of a heart attack. For whatever reasons, exercise should be viewed as a healthful experience. Following are a few heart-healthy tips for exercising.

According to the American Heart Association of Metropolitan Chicago, aerobic exercise, or exercise that improves the condition of your heart and lungs, must have three attributes: brisk - exercise must raise the heart and breathing rates; sustained - exercises should be maintained for 30-60 minutes without interruption; and regular - exercise three to four times per week, and ideally every other day.

Various vigorous to lowintensity workouts can have positive effects on one's cardiovascular fitness level, such as biking, running and swimming - vigorous exercises that condition the heart and lungs. These activities should be performed for more than 30 minutes.

Skiing, tennis and calisthenics can condition the heart depending on the amount of time and energy expended. Baseball, golf and bowling do not condition the heart and lungs, but still have beneficial relaxation and muscle toning characteristics.

It is always important to check with a physician before begin-ning any type of exercise regimen and to exercise at one's own pace. A general workout program should include:

• Warm-up - 5 minutes. This, hepls the body adapt to exercise and prepares the heart for a more intense workout.

 Aerobic exercise - 30-60 minutes. The minimum goal rate of an exercise program depending on the intensity of the workout should range between 30 to 60 minutes. Gradually work up to this level to condition the heart and lungs.

• Cool down - 5 minutes. After exercising at aerobic capacity, slow down gradually. This allows the heart's rate and overall body state to return to a normal rate and Utility Stocks help investors meet objectives by Jeffrey Cardella Edward D. Jones & Co.

Wouldn't it be nice to own an investment that has a long histo y of safety and could potentially provide you with rising income ear after year? Many of our clients have found high quality utility stocks to be an excellent investment for meeting those objecives. Here are some of the benefits utility stocks can provide:

Current Income - By investing in three utility stocks that each pay dividends in different quarters, you can receive a check every month. We call it our check-a-month utility plan.

Rising Income - Many utilities have increased shareholder lividends for many consecutive years. This could mean more pendable income to you.

Safety - Utilities provide water, gas, and electricity. What are he chances that the public will stop using any of these in the near future? This adds a measusre of safety that isn't available on more speculative stocks.

Growth - If dividends increase year after year, the underlying value of the stock may also increase. This steady growth should help keep you ahead of inflation, which can otherwise erode the value of your savings.

Although past performance is no indication of the future, we believe utility stocks present some exciting opportunities for the individual investor.

In the early days of Bugling I was at a dinner with a newsman who implied I was wasting my time publishing a small newspaper in Niles. He was the head of WGN's TV news department and he told me I should come downtown and write the news for that station. When he scoffed at the community newspaper business, I became one of those muckety muck publishers who thought I was doing noble work. I was saving the community from the bad guys and performing selfless work. My name would be chiseled into the stone tablets alongside journalists like Ernie Pyle, William Allen

In the early days of Bugling I was at a dinner with a newsman who implied I was wasting my time publishing a small newspaper in Niles. He was the head of WGN's TV news department and he told me I should come downtown and write the news for that station. When he scoffed at the community newspaper business, I became one of those muckety muck publishers who thought I was doing noble work. I was saving the community from the bad guys and performing selfless work. My name would be chiseled into the stone tablets alongside journalists like Ernie Pyle, William Allen White and muckrakers of a bygone era.

Nor was it as dramatic as Tom Brokaw's seat at a national convention. But I liked the view from the catbird's seat I etched out for myself and I wouldn't have it any other
