Where do we go from here?

In the summer of 1993 we will have lived in this area for 40 years. In 1953 we moved into our first home at Ozanam and Monroe. We will have lived here four times longer than we did in our "old neighborhood" on Chicago's south-

In Niles we lived through its major years of expansion. The population went from 6,500 to about 30,000 during this period. In our school districts we had two schools in East Maine district 63 (Oak and Ballard schools). And we had one Maine (East) high school. When we first published The Bugle in 1957 we stopped off for a beer at a tavern south of Touhy Avenue, where most of the real old timers lived. #### Armed robber sought in store hold-up

A man holding a small hand gun at hip level robbed the cashier of a White Hen convenience store, 9001 Milwaukee Ave., Niles, late April 19.

The man, about 25, became frustrated when one cash register and the store safe were locked and the cashier asked "Why are you scaring me?"

He waved the cashier, 39, of Chicago, to another cash register and gained $80 from it. Putting the cash in a blue-colored sack, he left the store, walking in a northerly direction.

Niles Park Board president defends independent district

Dear Niles Residents.

Look at the record of achievements of the independent Niles Park District of 38 years. Today, the park district has four recreation centers, 18 park sites, a state-of-the-art water park, a swimming pool, many ball fields and tennis courts, an indoor ice rink, a nine-hole golf course, 8 new batting cages and an eighteen-hole miniature golf course.

We currently employ 30 full-time staff and during the summer months a part-time staff of 200.

Does the village have the record of its 100 years to justify your trust to provide an equal level of achievements? When the village acquired Ballard School, the park district had already evaluated it as a less than a adequate facility, because of a second floor gym and class rooms, asbestos problems, shortage of parking and play areas, and the extensive repairs needed. Did the village evaluate it as a recreational facility or was it an excuse to gain land for a water pumping station?

Wasn't it the last mayoral election we were promised the great Civic Center Plaza for community functions and now for the '93 elections we have the promise of the Great Park District Rescue!!!

Who is going to rescue you? The village that put tape over the asbestos at Ballard, non-acoustical tile in the gym and ignored the asbestos report at Oak School affecting the Niles Park Day Camp children. The village has been too poor to deal with the asbestos, too poor to use acoustical tile, and too poor to provide a community center at the Civic Center Plaza.

Do you know that the Niles Park District appealed to the village to stop levying a tax on the use of the utilities at the pools, ice rink, lights at the ball diamonds and gym? Do you know they refused? The park district continues to pay village taxes on these facilities and they continue to

The village deals with the nuts and bolts of the municipality. The independent Niles Park District provides services only for the recreational and leisure needs of the people.

Let's keep it an independent Park District!!!

Sincerely, Carol Panek, President Niles Park Board

Every year in America, up to 15 million dogs and cats are killed simply because there are not enough good homes for them. They are sentenced to death for the "crime" of being born. Thank heaven most shelters at least try to administer that sentence in the

HOME AND YARD CHORES

Morton Grove's home and yard "Chore Program" links senior citizen homeowners with youth and young adult workers in Morton Grove. Seniors who have difficulty maintaining their yards themselves can arrange to have a worker from their neighborhood come by weekly to assist. We also have individuals who can perform minor odd jobs. Seniors must provide equipment and negotiate the fee to be paid to the worker. For more information, call the Flickinger Senior Center at 470-5246.

CHIMES

Learning, growing and taking risks are some of the fundamentals to staying young while aging. A small but enthusiastic group of budding musicians have been enjoying extended "youngness" as they practice up a storm at the Flickinger Senior Center. The melodic tones have resounded from Chimes practice every Monday afternoon from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Many of the participants have latent musical talent from their childhoods and some have no experience at all. They get together to practice, practice and practice. The exercise itself being as much fun as the sounds produced. Individuals with no or intermediate experience are welcome to join. Right now, they do not perform publicly but hope that by Christmas of this year they will have enough material to "sound off." If you're interested, call Dodee Connelly at 966-8350.

Modern dentistry breaks out of traditional stereotypes

When my dad first started practicing dentistry some forty five vers age, things were very different. As a Navy Lieutenant stationed at an Army base in Texas, his drill was a hand crank affair and his operating chair was pumped up like a barber's. Many of the young draftees that were his patients were seeing a dentist for the first time and they were scared. Most water supplies were not yet flouridated, and major extractions, dentures and silver and gold fillings were the order of the day.

Now in the 1990s modern techniques have taken the bite out of dental discomfort.

Take the administration of anesthetics for example. A topical nesthetic is applied by hand to the area to be "frozen" before the ypodermic anesthetic is administered. And the hypodermic utilizes very small gauge needles. The end result is that you hardly feel any discomfort from the moment you enter your dentist's op-

Today's X-ray procedures are also much, much safer and more comfortable. High speed X-rays, along with lead sheilds and full body protective aprons, lessen the patient's exposure to radiation Large panoramic X-rays show more teeth per "picture" and are taken without ever having to put film and metal film holders into the patient's mouth. The end result: No gagging. No discomfort.

Today's materials and personnel have also made a visit to the lentist much easier--and the results more satisfactory. The training of dental assistants and hygienists has progressed tremendously over the years, enabling the dentist to delegate more and more responsibility to these professionals. The result is accelerated treatment. You spend less time in your dentist's operatory.

Porcelain fillings and caps have largely replaced silver and gold as the dental materials of choice. Today the fact that you've had dental work is largely invisible. You no longer bear the scars of those silver and gold fillings. Porcelain fillings and caps can be precisely color-matched to your natural teeth for that perfect

Extractions and dentures are not as common as they once through the use of modern techniques like root canals. And solid secure non-removable replacements for missing teeth known as dental implants are quickly replacing loose uncomfortable den-

Preventive dentistry is the philosophy that modern dentists espouse. Take care of your teeth and avoid problems before they occur. Regular flossing and brushing and a dental cleaning and check-up every six months is your key to be cavity free.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH QUESTIONS

I'm nineteen years old and my wisdom teeth are beginning to appear. Should I have them removed? V.K., Park Ridge. Ans. Wisdom teeth are large teeth in the back of the mouth called third molars. The program, available Monday through Friday, is structured to provide mental health treatment for individuals who recently completed a hospital stay, as well as those who would benefit from daily treatment as an alternative to hospitalization.

"The transition from hospitalization into the mainstream can be a very difficult transition for many people," said Nick DeLos-Santos, M.D., director of the program. "The Partial Hospitalization Program will help bridge the gap for people just recovering from a hospital stay, as well as those who have not been hospitalized but need multidisciplinary

Divorce courts divide assets carefully?

There are misconceptions as to how Divorce Courts divide marital assets and determine support awards.

First, most courts do not automatically approve settlements bases on a 'snapshot' of the marital assets on the day of the divorce. That means that it is unlikely that the parties will equally split the equity in the marital home, the money in the bank account and the stocks and bonds with no consideration given to the 'career assets' of the marriage in which one spouse earns substantially more money than the other.

Rowe, an administrative assistant at an investment bank in New York on weekdays, learned at a weekend workshop how to make a fitted and a pleated lampshade.

Kathleen Rath of Scarsdalc N.Y., recently made a silk shade in an adult education workshop at a local elementary school. She had made lampshades without benefit of classes when she lived in a log cabin in Oregon.

"I wanted a deer hide lampshade. but I didn't want to pay the prices the fancy decorator shops were asking," she recalls.

She succeeded through trial and error and went on to make lampshades from a 1940s print tablecloth. She took the class to acquire another technique. Scandinavians often make their

If you're not up to starting from scratch, you might want to try customizing a ready-made shade, says Donna Lang of Chatham, N.J., co-author of "Decorating With Fabric," (Clarkson Potter, Mounting photographs on a lampshade kills two birds with one stone. It dresses up the shade and is an eye-catching way to display family photos. Start with an inexpensive paper shade, plus double-faced tape or craft glue. You can glue the photos directly onto the shade, or you can slip the photos into photo corners which have been glued to the shade. Don't use more than a 60-watt bulb with the shade, Lang says.

Another way to decorate a ready-made fabric or paper shade is to apply cut-out motifs, such as a flower pattern from excess fabric used elsewhere in the room. Iron the fabric onto adhesive-backed fusible webbing available in craft and fabric shops. Cut out the desired design and iron it onto the desired design and iron it onto the shade according to directions. You may need to support the lampshade with a pressing ham or rolled-up towel, Lang says.

This extreme heat alup the process of decomposing raw organic matter, ultimately transforming your unwanted garbage and yard waste into useful compost. This process is most successful when using a permanent, covered bin such as Flowtron's Compost Bin (model BX-40 or CB-50).

Preparation is crucial in order to compost properly. If you use a compost bin, it should be placed in an area where no direct sunlight can reach it. This area should also be well-drained. Begin composting with a layer of brush (chipped twigs and branches) and alternate with layers of decaying material such as leaves, tree clippings, mulched pine needles and grass clippings.

Adding a compost activator, and two inches of garden soil will get the process off to a good start. Remember to moisten each layer thoroughly as it is added to speed up the decomposition reaction.

Touchless faucets are convenient,

save water

The Bugle

Touchless faucets feature an infrared sensor that emits a downward beam. Movement in the path of the sensor - up to 10 inches away - automatically triggers the flow of water. Some faucets have an automatic shutoff after about 30 seconds of use. Others run as long as the user's hands remain in the sensor field, and include a shutoff delay of several seconds so the flow doesn't stop when the user reaches for soap. A bypass button allows continuous

These no-handle faucets adjust water temperature via a knob mounted on the sink or inside the base cabinet. This eliminates separate hot and cold levers.

For people who are remodeling, a touchless faucet can be installed on a standard three-hole sink. On many models, the only abovesink part is the faucet. Because there are no handles, a faucet base covers the other two holes.

A small microprocessor and transformer go under the sink. Some systems plug into a stan-dard household electrical outlet, others tap directly into the power, and others use a battery. A mixing valve joins the hot and cold water lines. The user sets the water temperature.

The faucets, created for rugged use in public facilities, have only one moving part (a valve that opens the water flow).

There are drawbacks, however. The water flow cannot be regulated from dribble to downpour - it's either on or off. Automatic faucets powered by electricity are also susceptible to power failures. A battery-powered faucet will work as long as the battery is strong - usually up to five years. These faucets were designed for public washrooms, where a faucet left running could pour a lot of water and money down the drain. Their creation was also spawned by a concern for hygiene - especially on hot-water levers, where germs can thrive. The faucets perform those same functions in households, but the biggest selling point is ease of use, especially for aged or physically impaired persons. The temperature controls reduce the risk of scalding, although turning the water heater down to 120 degrees accomplishes the same thing. What's the cost? Touchless faucets run anywhere from $300 to $1,000. Most models are in the high end of that range. Manual fixtures cost $25 to $200.

The primary payback of a touchless faucet is its convenience. Manufacturers boast a water savings of up to 80 percent because water is not left running. Although less water is used, the amount of savings depends on how heavily the faucet is used.

ORRS, which was designed and programmed by Kevin Justie, the library's coordinator of automated services and in-house computer expert, is a system of nine computer database files containing information from the library's ready reference files and other sources. Among the subjects covered are government officials; indexes to phone books, plays and songs; referral information for government and private agencies serving Morton Grove; and statistical information on Morton Grove. These files are located on a computer at the Reference Desk, providing the librarians with literally thousands of pieces of information, right at their fingertips. Computerization of ready reference files makes them both easier to use and far more useful. The Award Committee felt that ORRS is an outstanding reference tool, which will improve the quality of reference service to library patrons and will stand as a model for other online reference database.
